GOP MANEUVER TO DISLODGE MOODY EXPOSED

Plan To Oust Michigan Demo From Senate Banking Unit Revealed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—A Republican move to squeeze Sen. Moody, D-Mich. off the key Senate Banking Committee, in the event a special session of Congress is called, came to light today.

The committee would play a major role if President Truman calls the mid-campaign session of Congress he says he is considering to deal with a threat of mounting prices. If he does so, he said, he would ask it primarily for a tougher wage-price control law.

Moody is one of the few pro-Truman stalwarts on the group, through which any new economic controls bill would have to pass.

Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) confirmed reports that the Republicans in their effort to dislodge Moody will use the same arguments which installed the Michigan senator as a member of the committee in the first place.

Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan appointed Moody to the Senate last year to succeed the late Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, a Republican. That gave the Democrats a 2-vote Senate majority—50 to 46. It also forced a shake-up of Senate committee assignments which knocked Sen. Bennett (R-Utah) off the Banking Committee to make way for Moody. The Democrats argued successfully at the time that a 1-vote bigger majority entitled them to the committee seat.

Republican Gov. John Lodge of Connecticut has delayed appointing a successor to Sen. Brien McMahon, a Democrat and administration supporter who died last month. But Lodge almost certainly would appoint a Republican promptly if there should be a special session of Congress.

This would cut the Democratic majority back to 2—the same 49 to 47 margin which existed before Vandenberg's death—and set off Republican demands that Bennett be given back his seat on the Banking Committee. Moody would have to take some lesser committee assignment if this occurred.

The Republicans say privately that if such a move comes they are counting on strong support from Southern Democrats. Moody stirred Dixie senators' wraths at the party's National Convention in Chicago last month in a fight over an oath of loyalty to the national Democratic ticket. Some Southerners accused him of trying to drive them from the party.

A number of Democrats on whom Truman would have to rely heavily in any fight for a stronger controls law have warned him publicly he cannot crack the Republican - Southern Democratic coalition which last June was instrumental in rejecting many of his controls requests.

Among them is Sen. Maybank (D-SC) the Banking Committee chairman. He said in a statement yesterday he thought nothing could be gained from a special session. Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), another influential Senate Democrat, said he thought a special session would be futile.

If no special session is called, it is expected that no more will be made, at least this year, to remove Moody from the Banking Committee.

All Senate committee alignments are due for revision when the new Congress meets in January. The ratio of Republicans to Democrats on committees is governed by the number of senators each party has in the full Senate.

W. Monroyan Robbed Of $200 By Slugger

A strong armed slugger armed with a baseball bat last night battered and robbed a West Monroe man in the 700 block of DeSiard St., netting $200 in the theft.

The assault occurred at 10 p. m. C. M. Garner, of Joe Bill St., was the victim. Garner told police he was struck on the back with the bat moments after he had cashed a large check. City police were seeking the assailant.

MAN STABBED TO DEATH

A 24-year-old Monroe Negro last night was stabbed to death in an affray at a bar on Renwick street. Victim of the stabbing was Wilbur Jackson, of Texas Ave., who died en route to the hospital. Physicians said death was caused by two knife wounds near the heart. Police were seeking his suspected assailant last night.

THE POSTMAN WHO SELDOM RANG

Roman Kortes, 50, a mail carrier for almost 28 years, looks bewildered as he is questioned by reporters at his home in Detroit where postal inspectors found a fantastic, ceiling-high accumulation of mail he had failed to deliver in the last four years. In the cellar were 15,000 letters and circulars, many boxes of merchandise and thousands of magazines. Kortes pleaded guilty to two charges of embezzling from the mails. He faces a possible $4,000 fine and ten years in prison. (AP Wirephoto)

Gov. Stevenson Regarded As Vigorous Backer Of FEPC

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 9 (AP)—An authoritative source says that if Gov. Adlai Stevenson is elected President he can be expected to use his influence to curb filibusters in the Senate and then try to find some means to insure enforcement of fair employment practices throughout the nation.

This source, who declined to be quoted by name, said that this is a fair statement of the governor's intentions as of today.

And this view has become clear to reporters who have followed Stevenson since he won the Democratic presidential nomination in Chicago.

Stevenson appears to be far closer to President Truman's position on this explosive issue than he is to the Southerners who are dead set against any form of compulsory fair employment enforcement.

Stevenson's thinking was described as running along these lines on other issues:

1. He believes that he could make a substantial reduction in the budget within two years with some relief in the tax burden.

He regards as foolish any statement that there could be an immediate debt reduction and he sees any cut depending on world conditions remaining as they are. The cut would be in reducing military spending, although he has no fixed goal of the amount.

2. He feels that if elected President he should throw his influence into the fight to change Senate Rule 22—behind which the Southerners have filibustered in the past to block civil rights legislation.

3. He is determined to run his own campaign with friends around him who share his views on major issues.

4. He is convinced Formosa should be held against the Communists but he is disturbed about debating Korean military strategy and policy in the coming campaign because of its effects on our world position.

5. He considers Eisenhower a formidable opponent and as politicians say he is "running scared" with no underestimation of the opposition.

6. He thinks there may be some

West Monroe Man Wounded By Gunshot

Injured was Clyde Washer, 36, White Ferry Road, who was hospitalized at the St. Francis hospital where a bullet was removed from his right chest. Attendants said the bullet entered above his right elbow and was extracted from his right chest. The injury was slight since it was only a flesh wound.

Oscar Bates, who lives across the road from Washer, allegedly fired the shot from a .38 Short Smith and Wesson Five-shot pistol. He is imprisoned in the parish jail in default of a $1,500 bond on charges of aggravated battery.

Washer said that he and Bates had been quarreling since his return from West Virginia three weeks ago. Washer was employed as a pipe line worker by H. C. Price company.

Washer said their dispute was of a personal nature.

"Saturday I had gone to the sales barn to buy a yearling for my deep freeze when I saw Bates," he said. We started arguing and I struck him one blow. He drew his gun and I ran behind a loading chute. He fired as I was turning the corner."

After Bates fired his pistol, witnesses said that he ran home where officials arrested him about 5:30 p.m.

SOCIAL SECURITY EXPANSION URGED BY EISENHOWER

DENVER, Aug. 9 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower called today for expansion of the social security program to cover an additional 14 million persons—and for increased old age assistance grants.

And the Republican presidential nominee was reported by three Republican members of the House to be much interested in their suggestion that the scandal-ridden Internal Revenue Bureau be removed from jurisdiction of the Treasury Department and given independent status.

Eisenhower held a lengthy conference with Reps. Robert Kean of New Jersey, Carl Curtis of Nebraska and John Byrnes of Wisconsin, the GOP members of a House ways and means subcommittee which investigated the tax-collecting Internal Revenue Bureau and turned up a series of scandals.

The group's inquiry led to the firing and resignation of several top bureau officials.

The three Republicans gave Eisenhower a report on the investigation, and Kean told a news conference afterward that the general was disturbed about the situation.

Byrnes said Eisenhower felt "there should have been considerably more activity" on the part of the White House in getting to the bottom of Internal Revenue Bureau irregularities.

"The general said," Byrnes added, "that he thought any executive branch agency would want and welcome a thorough investigation by the FBI to set their house in order."

The three Congress members also discussed the social security program with Eisenhower, and the general later issued this statement:

"I am particularly concerned about the present inadequacies of the social security law and feel strongly that the law ought to be extended to presently uncovered persons.

"One of the pressing problems in the field of social security, both on the merits and security, are the old folks.

"They have contributed so much to America and we have a responsibility and obligation to see that they receive adequate protection in their old age.

"I would support and press for adoption of legislation designed to lighten the burden of the high cost of living on our senior citizens."

James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, said the general had in mind increased old age assistance grants in talking about easing the financial burden of senior citizens.

Those grants are made up of a combination of funds from the federal government and the states.

Kean said the general's statement regarding expansion of the social security program applied to 14 million individuals presently not covered by the program.

In that group, Kean said, are professional people, migratory farm workers, some part-time

Sporadic Warfare Enters Third Day On Disputed River Island As Grecian Ultimatums Are Disregarded By Opposing Soldiers

Greek fire from mortars, machine-guns and automatic weapons has been directed intermittently at the island for three days now.

The Greeks have been careful to confine their firing to the disputed river island which they claim is Greek soil, and they are telling the Bulgars of this caution over loud-speakers mounted on jeeps.

Communist Bulgaria has no diplomatic relations with Greece, and Bulgar border officials have ignored Greek requests to talk the situation over, the Greeks said.

So the desultory firing might continue until the Greeks get tired of it or something else happens. Nobody is getting hurt, so far as is known, in the present shooting.

The Bulgars have apparently paid little attention to it since a single volley of machine-gun fire was loosed at the Greeks, the Greeks said, from the Bulgar north bank of the Evros River on the night of Aug. 7. The Greeks also started their shooting at that time.

United Nations military observers, who reported to U. N. headquarters two days ago that big forces from both countries are ready for action in a "very dangerous" situation, were reluctant to comment Saturday on the previous estimate of the situation.

The ranking observer, Col. Murad Ali of Pakistan, told this reporter, however, he had observed the return to normal life on the Bulgar side of the river. He watched it through field glasses.

The U. N. observers are not permitted on Bulgarian soil.

Maj. Andrew Kazos, Greek Army liaison officer with the U. N. group, said the Athens radio for several days had been stressing that Greek troops are not to be sent to take or occupy Gamma Island.

Gamma appears to have no strategic significance and little farming value. It is one-third sparse grass and the rest brush.

Bulgaria on Friday formally protested to the U. N. the initial Greek shelling of Gamma, calling it "provocative" and "aggressive."

WAGE BOOST GRANTED

CLEVELAND, Aug. 9 (AP)—Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. gave its 30,000 workers a 10-cent hourly pay increase tonight, subject to approval by the Wage Stabilization Board.

The wage agreement with the CIO United Rubber Workers was reached after six weeks of negotiations and union officials said it would set the pattern for the industry.

MAYOR FANT ON PROGRAM HERE

Shreveport Official To Address Louisiana Municipal Association

Mayor Clyde Fant of Shreveport, president of the Louisiana Municipal Association, will meet with the mayors of the fifth congressional district Friday at 10 a.m. at the Virginia Hotel to discuss common municipal problems. The announcement was made by Mayor J. L. Johnson of Lake Providence, fifth district vice-president of the association, and Mayor John E. Coon of Monroe.

The meeting will be part of a state-wide tour by Mayor Fant to confer with municipal officials and is a significant forward step in coordinating the efforts of the various cities and towns, Mayor Johnson pointed out. This is the first time such a program has been carried out by the association.

Meetings will be held at a central point in each of the state's eight congressional districts. Mayor Fant will discuss the bills affecting municipalities which were passed at the last session of the legislature. This legislation, as it affects each individual city or town, will be analyzed by Mayor Fant after which an open discussion of the legislation will be held.

Of principal interest will be a discussion of the home-rule amendment which will be voted upon by

U. S., Britain Will Seek New Approach To Iranian Crisis At Meeting Monday

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—The United States and Britain will seek a new approach to the Iranian crisis in consultations beginning Monday or Tuesday on Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's latest proposal for oil negotiations with the British.

The question is: what to do about Communist - threatened Iran and how to strengthen the unpredictable Mossadegh's government as the best means of saving the country from the Russian bloc. It is the foremost problem facing Secretary of State Acheson upon his return from the Pacific security conference in Hawaii.

Information from top official forces here and initial reaction of London authorities is that Mossadegh's unexpected note to London on renewing oil negotiations makes a completely unacceptable proposition. He would eliminate the British government from the talks and do business on an unequal basis with the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. He would also set up a list of Iranian claims for payment by the company which would virtually wipe out the company's own claims for compensation for property seized by Iran in March of last year.

However the view of American policymakers today was that Mossadegh's note opens the way for the British to make a counter proposal setting forth a more reasonable basis for negotiation or otherwise to get negotiations started. Therefore, officials here feel the Iranian move offers a new and unforeseen opportunity to find a new approach.

Talks during the past several weeks between Washington and London — intensive since Mossadegh returned to power upon the fall of Premier Ahmed Qavam three weeks ago—have resulted in an understanding that difficult as the Iranian government chief is to deal with he is about all that is left to the Western Powers in their search for a man who can keep the Communist Tudeh party from seizing power.

Both Washington and London are very apprehensive about the growing power of Ayatullah Kashani, a Moslem priest and ultra-nationalist who was elected leader of the lower house of the Iranian Parliament this week. He is considered dangerous not because of his nationalism but because he thinks he can cooperate with the Communists to gain political position then kick them out at just the right moment.

The essential link between the political crisis and the oil nationalization problem is this: although Iran is really a wealthy country, Mossadegh reportedly looks to the United States and Britain to help him to get money to pay essential government salaries like those of the police, Army and civil servants. There would not be any lack vice - president, United States Wholesale Grocers' Association, Washington, D. C., will be the speaker and will use as his subject "The Outlook at the National Level."

Smith, in behalf of the wholesale grocery industry, has been very active during the past several sessions of Congress in presenting the views of the industry to various Congressional committees and in keeping the wholesale grocery trade throughout the company advised of developments and trends in Washington.

The Louisiana Wholesale Grocers' Association is an organization of independent wholesale grocers who supply the independent retail grocers of the state. Associate members are food brokers, manufacturers and processors who are interested in working with the wholesale grocer for the good of the entire industry.

The association, through regional meetings and annual meetings, as well as through a weekly bulleting to the trade is continually

SOCIAL SECURITY EXPANSION URGED BY EISENHOWER

DENVER, Aug. 9 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower called today for expansion of the social security program to cover an additional 14 million persons—and for increased old age assistance grants.

And the Republican presidential nominee was reported by three Republican members of the House to be much interested in their suggestion that the scandal-ridden Internal Revenue Bureau be removed from jurisdiction of the Treasury Department and given independent status.

Eisenhower held a lengthy conference with Reps. Robert Kean of New Jersey, Carl Curtis of Nebraska and John Byrnes of Wisconsin, the GOP members of a House ways and means subcommittee which investigated the tax-collecting Internal Revenue Bureau and turned up a series of scandals.

The group's inquiry led to the firing and resignation of several top bureau officials.

The three Republicans gave Eisenhower a report on the investigation, and Kean told a news conference afterward that the general was disturbed about the situation.

Byrnes said Eisenhower felt "there should have been considerably more activity" on the part of the White House in getting to the bottom of Internal Revenue Bureau irregularities.

"The general said," Byrnes added, "that he thought any executive branch agency would want and welcome a thorough investigation by the FBI to set their house in order."

The three Congress members also discussed the social security program with Eisenhower, and the general later issued this statement:

"I am particularly concerned about the present inadequacies of the social security law and feel strongly that the law ought to be extended to presently uncovered persons.

"One of the pressing problems in the field of social security, both on the merits and security, are the old folks.

"They have contributed so much to America and we have a responsibility and obligation to see that they receive adequate protection in their old age.

"I would support and press for adoption of legislation designed to lighten the burden of the high cost of living on our senior citizens."

James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, said the general had in mind increased old age assistance grants in talking about easing the financial burden of senior citizens.

Those grants are made up of a combination of funds from the federal government and the states.

Kean said the general's statement regarding expansion of the social security program applied to 14 million individuals presently not covered by the program.

In that group, Kean said, are professional people, migratory farm workers, some part - time

TO RESIGN?

Ellis Arnall, the nation's price stabilizer, smiles as he leaves the White House in Washington after a talk with President Truman but refused to say whether he handed in his resignation. There have been widespread rumors that Arnall was quitting the price job. Arnall did say that Mr. Truman was "quite concerned about rising prices." (AP Wirephoto)

Arrest Four On Charges Of Battery

Four Negroes were arrested by Monroe city police yesterday on charges of aggravated battery, and one other was arrested on charges of drawing and displaying a dangerous weapon.

First to be arrested was Gabe Lee Thomas, 24, Negro, 702 Adams street, Monroe. Police said that Thomas had allegedly stabbed another Negro, George Williams 39, 504 North Ninth street. Williams was in a serious condition at the Charity hospital here, and no bond

WAGE BOOST GRANTED

CLEVELAND, Aug. 9 (AP)—Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. gave its 30,000 workers a 10-cent hourly pay increase tonight, subject to approval by the Wage Stabilization Board.

The wage agreement with the CIO United Rubber Workers was reached after six weeks of negotiations and union officials said it would set the pattern for the industry.

ELLIS ARNALL RESIGNS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP) — Ellis Arnall's resignation as price stabilizer has been given to President Truman but whether it will be accepted immediately depends upon the price outlook, it was learned tonight.

MAYOR FANT ON PROGRAM HERE

Shreveport Official To Address Louisiana Municipal Association

Mayor Clyde Fant of Shreveport, president of the Louisiana Municipal Association, will meet with the mayors of the fifth congressional district Friday at 10 a.m. at the Virginia Hotel to discuss common municipal problems. The announcement was made by Mayor J. L. Johnson of Lake Providence, fifth district vice-president of the association, and Mayor John E. Coon of Monroe.

The meeting will be part of a state-wide tour by Mayor Fant to confer with municipal officials and is a significant forward step in coordinating the efforts of the various cities and towns, Mayor Johnson pointed out. This is the first time such a program has been carried out by the association.

Meetings will be held at a central point in each of the state's eight congressional districts. Mayor Fant will discuss the bills affecting municipalities which were passed at the last session of the legislature. This legislation, as it affects each individual city or town, will be analyzed by Mayor Fant after which an open discussion of the legislation will be held.

Of principal interest will be a discussion of the home-rule amendment which will be voted upon by

U. S., Britain Will Seek New Approach To Iranian Crisis At Meeting Monday

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—The United States and Britain will seek a new approach to the Iranian crisis in consultations beginning Monday or Tuesday on Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's latest proposal for oil negotiations with the British.

The question is: what to do about Communist - threatened Iran and how to strengthen the unpredictable Mossadegh's government as the best means of saving the country from the Russian bloc. It is the foremost problem facing Secretary of State Acheson upon his return from the Pacific security conference in Hawaii.

Information from top official sources here and initial reaction of London authorities is that Mossadegh's unexpected note to London on renewing oil negotiations makes a completely unacceptable proposition. Mossadegh would eliminate the British government from the talks and do business on an unequal basis with the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. He would also set up a list of Iranian claims for payment by the company which would virtually wipe out the company's own claims for compensation for property seized by Iran in March of last year.

However the view of American policymakers today was that Mossadegh's note opens the way for the British to make a counter proposal setting forth a more reasonable basis for negotiation or otherwise to get negotiations started. Therefore, officials here feel the Iranian move offers a new and unforeseen opportunity to find a new approach.

Talks during the past several weeks between Washington and London — intensive since Mossadegh's return to power upon the fall of Premier Ahmed Qavam three weeks ago—have produced an understanding that difficult as the Iranian government chief is to deal with he is the only man who can keep the Communist Tudeh party from seizing power.

Both Washington and London are very apprehensive about the growing power of Ayatullah Kashani, a Moslem priest and ultra-nationalist who was elected leader of the lower house of the Iranian Parliament this week. He is considered dangerous not because of Communism but because he thinks he can cooperate with the Communists to gain political position then kick them out at just the right moment.

The essential link between the political crisis and the oil nationalization problem is this: although Iran is reportedly a wealthy country, Mossadegh reportedly looks to the United States and Britain to help him to get money to pay essential government salaries like those of police, Army and civil servants. There would not be any lack

SALVATION ARMY MAN SELECTED

New Official Will Be Here Aug. 24 To Take Over Organization

The advisory board of the Salvation Army, in its regular meeting at the Rendezvous at 7 p.m. on Thursday night, discussed the leaving of Maj. Charles Stratford, who will terminate his duties here next August 24. Because of his wife's impaired health the Stratfords will take a leave from duty for six months before being reassigned.

The officers to succeed him here will be Senior Captain and Mrs. Louis Mockabee, who come highly recommended.

Acting Chairman S. K. Heninger, who reported the meeting, stated that the Stratfords were recipients of a silver service and other valuable presents.

'Get-Out-The-Vote' Campaign Is An Old Idea

An outfit called The American Heritage Foundation comes along with an old idea which looks good and some new figures which look bad.

The old idea is that people lucky enough to live in a country where they can vote should do it.

The new figures—new to us, at least—are comparisons of the number of people who vote here and in other countries and the figures make us look pretty bad.

In 1948, for instance, only 51 per cent of the people in this country eligible to vote did so. But in 1948 in Italy 89 per cent of the eligibles voted.

In England last year, the figure was 83 per cent. The year before in Belgium it was 90 per cent. In Canada, 75 per cent of the eligibles voted in 1949. In Sweden last year it was 80 per cent.

Furthermore our voting record has been getting worse for about the last three-quarters of a century. In 1880, for instance, 78.4 per cent of the eligibles in this country voted. It had dropped to 73.5 per cent in 1900. When women voted for the first time in 1920 it dropped to what must have been an all-time low of 49.3 per cent.

Of the approximately 95 million persons eligible to vote in the United States in 1948, only about 60 million even bothered to register. And 48,680,416 actually went to the polls.

What accounts for this poor performance? The Foundation lists what it believes are the reasons. For one thing, too many people think their "one little old vote" can't make any difference one way or the other.

Some are hopeless, because they think things are so bad, and others are indifferent, because they feel things are going well enough.

Still others are too busy with daily affairs that seem more important than voting.

The Foundation is out to lick these things, and it seems off to a good start. It has some 50 non-partisan organizations enrolled in a get-out-the-vote campaign for November, and it hopes to get others.

The present ones include the American Legion, the Daughters of the American Revolution, Jewish War Veterans, U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis International and National Retail Dry Goods Association.

On its board of trustees, as officers and members, are such men as Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the board of the Chase National Bank; William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; Edward L. Ryerson, chairman of the board of Inland Steel, and Philip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

The Heritage Foundation has an elaborate and detailed program all set to get rolling, and it has no axe to grind except to get out the biggest vote possible. You can't find much quarrel with an outfit that says, "We don't care which way you vote, just so you get out and vote."

As a matter of fact, that strikes us as a pretty fair-minded and public-spirited approach.

President Truman On Flood Control

For many years a relentless campaign has been carried on by government officials, from the President down, to sell the nation on the need for big, multipurpose dams on the claim that they will provide flood control, power production and land reclamation all in one neat package—and which also cost the taxpayers a few hundred million dollars each time such a dam is built. The big-dam boys haven't been deterred by the fact that legions of leading engineers, who know from hard experience what dams can and cannot do, have pointed out that it is usually folly to try to combine flood control and power production in one structure, for the obvious reason that a dam must be close to empty if it is to hold flood waters and close to full if it is to turn generators.

President Truman is a strong advocate of big dams. But in a recent speech he advocated measures for flood control which have long been recommended by those who believe the big-dam idea is the wrong approach to flood control. He said, "We need something more than big dams on the rivers. We have to go up the tributaries, and up the small creeks, and do something about flood waters up there, where the rain hits the ground.

"We need to plant trees and sow grass to hold water that now runs off bare land. We need more contour plowing, more terracing, more cover crops. We need a lot of small dams on the little creeks—many of them the sort of dams you can build with a couple of drag lines and a bulldozer. There have been some wonderful experiments in this sort of work. Over on the Washita River, where it crosses from Texas into Oklahoma, the farmers and the government have taken one little watershed, the Sandstone Creek watershed, and have shown in practice what ought to be done everywhere. As a result, the flood damage in that little watershed has been reduced 98 per cent."

Mr. Truman is on sound ground when he grows enthusiastic over this method of flood control. It is the sort of flood control that really does the job—for it recognizes the all-important fact that most of the big floods have their beginnings on the little streams. It is the sort of flood control that can be accomplished at, comparatively speaking, small cost to the taxpayers. And incidentally, it is the sort of flood control we can undertake without socializing the [illegible] power resources of the nation—which would be [illegible] to eventual total socialism.

IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD —(NEA)— The Women: The tide's turning to musicals in Hollywood and Sally Forrest has made the big decision to swim along.

No more mousey, wide-eyed, tragic roles for Sally, who hit stardom as a junior Bette Davis in Ida Lupino's "Not Wanted" and "Never Fear."

Not until she proves to Hollywood that she's just what exhibitors are crying for as a dancing and singing star.

"Nobody's making pictures about unwed mothers and unhappy factory girls any more." Sally told me. "I never had ambitions to be a great dramatic star, anyhow.

"Ida Lupino poured a lot of herself into me and changed me from a dancer into an emotional actress. I'm grateful to Ida But now I've got to make producers forget that I was the wet-handkerchief queen and go back to my dancing.

"Maybe I'm making a mistake. but I have to dance if I'm going to be happy in my career."

Meet a lass who's weary of hearing that screenplays were better a couple of decades ago.

The old flickers under lock and key in studio vaults aren't much better than some of the movie fare on television right now, Helen Deutch believes and she ought to know.

Helen has authored such hits as "King Solomon's Mines" and "National Velvet," and penned the screenplays of the forthcoming "Plymouth Adventure" and "Lili."

"I've been looking at movie classics that the public can't see and they simply don't hold up," trim, blonde Helen told me. "Some of them are movies that people remember with great affection. They were wonderful in their time. But I was appalled at the poor writing."

It's battling Nancy Olson in one corner and Hollywood casting directors in the other these days.

Nancy's fighting to prove that a round-faced movie queen can do something more than play the loyal wife and the girl next door.

Her cheeks don't cave in and her face isn't mask-like, but she wants a whack at the "off-beat parts that other actresses get because their faces are all sunken and drawn-in. It's a casting fallacy. The minute I go after a bad-girl role, they tell me I'm round-faced and that nobody will believe in me as a—er—witch, let's say."

Nancy's winning her point, but not fast enough to suit her. She's a widow who knows the score as John Wayne's co-star in "Big Jim McLain," and she's just about wrapped up another woman-of-the-world part. But she's still getting the "Sorry, you're not hollow-cheeked" line when a vixen role comes up.

"Every day the papers carry pictures of axe murderesses and gun molls and they're all round-faced," Nancy wailed. "The other night I went to a party where they showed an old Theda Bara vamp movie. Know what? Theda was as round-faced as I am."

They Had Their Chance

Ida Lupino is directing three movie tough guys in "The Difference," but she's confessing that she gave them the chance to veto her before the film started.

"I sent word to them," says Ida of her three stars — Edmund O'Brien, Frank Lovejoy and Bill Tallman, "that my feelings wouldn't be hurt in the least if they didn't want to work with a female director in a rugged, outdoor picture like this. They had the right to turn me down. But, thank heavens, they didn't."

Vanessa Brown's got something that Ava, Hedy Lana and Rita haven't got—a song named for her. And it's done more to help her shake the "too brainy" tag that was pinned on her by Hollywood, she's admitting, than all the plunging necklines slit skirts and cheesecake pictures that she's tried.

Vanessa inspired the instrumental hit, "Vanessa," by Bernie Wayne, that Hugo Winterhalter and David Rose recorded, and she's saying:

"A year ago I couldn't get a sexy part. Now I'm getting scripts that make me blush. I guess the song has made Hollywood forget that I ever was a Quiz Kid."

SUSPENDS PHONE SERVICE

CLERMONT, Fla. (AP)— A fire broke out here recently that was difficult to report — it was in the city's telephone exchange.

The whole town was without service 30 hours while damage was being repaired.

BUSINESS DECLINES

MEXICO CITY (AP)— The tourist business, which puts the butter on Mexico's daily bread, shows signs of withering under European competition and high prices here.

Even with the big Rotary and Lions international conventions, tourist entries are only a few hundred above last year's average. There was also a momentary slump in the tourist business immediately after the disturbances following the recent presidential elections.

Any falling off in the tourist business would be a serious threat to Mexico's economy and would force Mexico to cut down on her purchases abroad.

IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— Extensive digging into Virginia political records, since the great battle of the Chicago Democratic convention over the seating of the Virginia delegation, has turned up a number of surprise gimmicks.

If all the facts now known had been fully understood at Chicago, there is some question as to whether the result would have been what it was.

The big issue at stake was of course Virginia's refusal to sign the loyalty pledge, promising to support all future actions of the Chicago convention majority, whatever they might be.

In his dramatic speech before the Chicago convention, Gov. John S. Battle of Virginia declared over the roar of the crowd, "We believe in the freedom exemplified by Thomas Jefferson in whose county I happen to live. We are not going to sign any pledge that will jeopardize that freedom." And Virginia delegates were excused from signing.

What the Chicago convention did not know, however, was that every Democratic candidate for a public job in Virginia was required to sign a pledge of loyalty before he could run for that office in the state primary. This is the state Democrats' "Pledge of Honor":

"I, ——————, do state on my sacred honor that I am a member of the Democratic Party and believe in its principles; that I voted for all the nominees of said party at the preceding general election in which I voted and in which the Democratic nominee or nominees had opposition, and that I shall support and vote for all of the nominees of said party in the next ensuing general election."

Honor Pledge Raises $64 Question

The $64 question which this Pledge of Honor raises is why a similar pledge of loyalty should not have been required of the Virginia delegates to the Chicago convention, if it was all right to exact such an oath of Virginia candidates for state offices?

Or, putting the question the other way around, if it was a violation of Jeffersonian freedom to require the Virginia delegates to Chicago to make a pledge of loyalty, why was it not a similar violation of this principle to require a written Pledge of Honor from Virginia candidates for public office in the state election?

Still another question rasied by the Virginia Pledge of Honor is whether it does not automatically require every Democrat who signed it to support the Democratic national ticket in the November election?

Lawyers are arguing both ways on that one. The out seems to be that signers of the pledge would be required to support only those national candidates which the Democratic Party of Virginia designated as Democrats.

If the Democratic state convention of Virginia were reconvened—and it could be under the Virginia law—it might declare Gov. Adlai Stevenson and Sen. John Sparkman did not represent the Democratic Party of Virginia as presidential and vice-presidential candidates. That would excuse Virginians from supporting them, in spite of any loyalty pledges to the contrary.

Charge Delegates not Legally Passed

If, on the other hand, the Virginia Pledge of Honor is construed to require support of the national ticket, then the question is raised as to what objection there could be to making a similar pledge before the Chicago convention?

On top of all this, it can now be revealed that a protest was made to the Credentials Committee of the Democratic National Convention in Chicago, charging that the Virginia delegates had not been legally certified to the convention. The substance of the protest was this:

The Democratic National Convention handbook, page 29, requires that, "the names of all delegates and alternates are certified to the national convention not less than 15 days prior to the opening of the convention."

The Democratic convention opened in Chicago July 21. The deadline of 15 days prior to that opening would be July 6. But the Virginia Democratic convention was not held in Roanoke until July 17, after the July 15 primary, and its delegates were chosen then, after the deadline.

This is admittedly a technicality. But it is the sort of technicality which has been employed all along in the steadily widening split between the southern Democrats and the northern factions of the party.

Bascom Timmons

IN WASHINGTON

Labor has a new voice in the country's political councils. The aggressive stand taken by the major labor organizations at the Democratic convention, giving the impression that the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. wanted to seize control of the party by forcing out southern delegates was attributed by other labor spokesmen to George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks and vice president of A. F. of L.

It was not Harrison's first political experience, but it was his initial attempt to influence the organization of a political convention and its choice of candidates. Despite the setback labor received at the hands of the convention, the chuncky well groomed union leader has ideas that he will be a powerful voice for some years to come.

Harrison who is blunt rather than tactful, is said to have delivered the union message to Vice-President Alben W. Barkley that he was too old to run for president. Barkley's old time labor friends, such as William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor and William Hutcheson, its vice president, were shocked when they heard how starkly what had been intended to be a word of advice had been phrased. But they couldn't have been surprised, because they know Harrison' methods.

He is one of the newer group of labor executives who loomed up during World War II and a power in wage negotiations. Just past 57 years of age, Harrison is one of the few labor leaders who speaks both for A. F. of L. and the railroad brotherhoods and he does it in a truculent, unhesitant manner. Without education beyond grammar school, he went to work for the Missouri Pacific Railroad in St. Louis at 14. The clerk's union is one of the newer railroad groups. From the time he became president in 1929, through the depression when the number of personnel under its jurisdiction was cut in half, Harrison built it up until by 1941 it was the largest union among the railway organizations.

When he sat with the joint committee of labor organizations at Chicago, the A. F. of L. representatives for once came up with a more vigorous statement than C. I. O., whose head man on the committee was Walter Reuther, president of the Auto Workers. Harrison had penned a demand that southerners who would not support "progressive" legislation desired by the unions "should get out of the party or be read out."

It also asserted that the Democratic party should be empowered to fulfill its pledges, which was the forerunner of the platform demand that the number of senate votes needed to curtail debate be changed from two thirds to one half. This would operate to stop filibusters in the Senate.

Few people seemed to realise how far Harrison and his cohorts were prepared to go until Monday night when Temporary Chairman Paul Dever, governor of Massachusetts, permitted Senator Blair Moody of Michigan to take over the convention and jam through his resolution on the loyalty oath. The purpose of that maneouver was to force some southern delegations, from states which the labor spokesmen consider to be unfriendly, out of the convention and compel the southern delegations elected to future conventions to come with a pledge to support the convention nominees.

Summing up the labor strategy, in which Harrison had the principal hand for A. F. of L. as Reuther did for C. I. O., southerners were convinced that the loyalty pledge plus the threat to read Democrats out of the party meant that the heavy handed labor politices envisioned a completely regimented Democratic party, dominated by northern votes, in which the next step would be to demand a pledge to support the entire legislative program proposed by the platform, which would theoretically bind those southern senators and congressmen who attend the convention to vote for legislation endorsed by the convention.

When northern delegates began to perceive the far reaching nature of the resolution offered by the labor organizations, they drew back from the brink of the pit that such drastic demands opened up. That was a contributory reason for the change of front in the convention on the loyalty oath and the eventual restoration of all freedom of action to southern delegatins.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

My father was an immigrant from Bialystok which was then in Russian Poland. I thought of that the other day when I received a pamphlet from our park deparment in New York with illustrations showing how they had beautified Battery Park. That was the first bit of America that my father saw when he landed on these shores from a steerage boat.

In his day, an old fortress there was called "Castle Garden," and the immigrants passed through it in hordes. That was when this country was in need of population and encouraged those who were hungry or frightened to come to America.

The most fantastic stories were told in Europe about the United States. To the immigrants, such as my father, it was a "goldene medina"—a "kingdom of gold." And literally, it was such, for while they lived in slums and worked unbelievably hard, their plight was better than anything they had known in the old country. And that is why they came here.

My father was a refugee from a pogrom. He ran away from social, economic and spiritual deprivation. He wanted to worship God according to the traditions of his ancestors. He was a devotedly religious man, steeped in the lore of his faith, incapable of understanding life without it. Bread one could earn anywhere; liberty was hard to come by in his day.

Millions came, as he did, to build a new life in this country. I was brought up in this environment of hopeful people. They found life tough, particularly the adjustments of language and customs. And they suffered heartaches as their children moved away from them spiritually in the assimilative processes then catalyzing the sons and daughters of immigrants into Americans.

All of us were at least bi-lingual then. We spoke what was called the mother tongue, Yiddish, Russian, Polish, Italian, German and what not. And we also spoke English, which our parents did not know, but which we got in the public schools and on the sidewalks. And there, too, we learned about the United States, its customs, its traditions, its institutions.

The children of those immigrants, first generation Americans, were jealous of their privileges. They were reared to regard the United States as a Promised Land They were inspired in the schools to patriotic fervor. They were intolerant of anyone who even suggested that any other country could be equal to the United States. This was their country.

In later years, when times were better and young people went through school and college without hardship, when the third generation was living on the fat stored by their immigrant ancestors, they could not quite grasp the intensity of the emotions of the immigrants of the period between 1848 and 1880 for this country. The new generation were complainers; nothing was good enough for them. But the old folks, they knew where they came from and why and they were thankful.

My father never learned English. He lived in a ghetto atmosphere by choice. He preferred to be among his own kind and regarded it as a privilege to be able to do that without fear. His greatest joy was the free practice of his religion without danger or shame or humiliation. Yet he voted in every election and devoted himself to an understanding of the issues and the personalities about which he read in the Yiddish newspapers which then flourished as excellent journals. He was an independent in politics, as were so many immigrants like himself. That was before the politicians welded them into political blocs.

I am sure that no immigrant in those days ever thought of himself as being part of a minority. They would not have known what it meant. They were Americans. To have called my father "a minority" would have been as insulting as to call him a sheenie. He had run away from Europe because there he was part of a minority; he came here because in America all people were Americans, all belonged to the oeme nation; all were equal in the eyes of the government. My father, the rabbi, and Father Louis, the priest, our neighbor and friend, were all the same kind of people only we worshipped the same God differently. That he could understand—but minority, pfui. That would have reminded him of the old country. That was no good.

'Get-Out-The-Vote' Campaign Is An Old Idea

An outfit called The American Heritage Foundation comes along with an old idea which looks good and some new figures which look bad.

The old idea is that people lucky enough to live in a country where they can vote should do it.

The new figures—new to us, at least—are comparisons of the number of people who vote here and in other countries and the figures make us look pretty bad.

In 1948, for instance, only 51 per cent of the people in this country eligible to vote did so. But in 1948 in Italy 89 per cent of the eligibles voted.

In England last year, the figure was 83 per cent. The year before in Belgium it was 90 per cent. In Canada, 75 per cent of the eligibles voted in 1949. In Sweden last year it was 80 per cent.

Furthermore our voting record has been getting worse for about the last three-quarters of a century. In 1880, for instance, 78.4 per cent of the eligibles in this country voted. It had dropped to 73.5 per cent in 1900. When women voted for the first time in 1920 it dropped to what must have been an all-time low of 49.3 per cent.

Of the approximately 95 million persons eligible to vote in the United States in 1948, only about 60 million even bothered to register. And 48,680,416 actually went to the polls.

What accounts for this poor performance? The Foundation lists what it believes are the reasons. For one thing, too many people think their "one little old vote" can't make any difference one way or the other.

Some are hopeless, because they think things are so bad, and others are indifferent, because they feel things are going well enough.

Still others are too busy with daily affairs that seem more important than voting.

The Foundation is out to lick these things, and it seems off to a good start. It has some 50 non-partisan organizations enrolled in a get-out-the-vote campaign for November, and it hopes to get others.

The present ones include the American Legion, the Daughters of the American Revolution, Jewish War Veterans, U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis International and National Retail Dry Goods Association.

On its board of trustees, as officers and members, are such men as Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the board of the Chase National Bank; William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; Edward L. Ryerson, chairman of the board of Inland Steel, and Philip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

The Heritage Foundation has an elaborate and detailed program all set to get rolling, and it has no axe to grind except to get out the biggest vote possible. You can't find much quarrel with an outfit that says, "We don't care which way you vote, just so you get out and vote."

As a matter of fact, that strikes us as a pretty fair-minded and public-spirited approach.

President Truman On Flood Control

For many years a relentless campaign has been carried on by government officials, from the President down, to sell the nation on the need for big, multipurpose dams on the claim that they will provide flood control, power production and land reclamation all in one neat package—and which also cost the taxpayers a few hundred million dollars each time such a dam is built. The big-dam boys haven't been deterred by the fact that legions of leading engineers, who know from hard experience what dams can and cannot do, have pointed out that it is usually folly to try to combine flood control and power production in one structure, for the obvious reason that a dam must be close to empty if it is to hold flood waters and close to full if it is to turn generators.

President Truman is a strong advocate of big dams. But in a recent speech he advocated measures for flood control which have long been recommended by those who believe the big-dam idea is the wrong approach to flood control. He said, "We need something more than big dams on the rivers. We have to go up the tributaries, and up the small creeks, and do something about flood waters up there, where the rain hits the ground.

"We need to plant trees and sow grass to hold water that now runs off bare land. We need more contour plowing, more terracing, more cover crops. We need a lot of small dams on the little creeks—many of them the sort of dams you can build with a couple of drag lines and a bulldozer. There have been some wonderful experiments in this sort of work. Over on the Washita River, where it crosses from Texas into Oklahoma, the farmers and the government have taken one little watershed, the Sandstone Creek watershed, and have shown in practice what ought to be done everywhere. As a result, the flood damage in that little watershed has been reduced 98 per cent."

Mr. Truman is on sound ground when he grows enthusiastic over this method of flood control. It is the sort of flood control that really does the job—for it recognizes the all-important fact that most of the big floods have their beginnings on the little streams. It is the sort of flood control that can be accomplished at, comparatively speaking, small cost to the taxpayers. And incidentally, it is the sort of flood control we can undertake wthout socializing the electric power resources of the nation—which would be the prelude to eventual total socialism.

What ever became of Kefauver, Harriman, Warren and Stassen?

IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD —(NEA)— The Women: The tide's turning to musicals in Hollywood and Sally Forrest has made the big decision to swim along.

No more mousey, wide - eyed, tragic roles for Sally, who hit stardom as a junior Bette Davis in Ida Lupino's "Not Wanted" and "Never Fear."

Not until she proves to Hollywood that she's just what exhibitors are crying for as a dancing and singing star.

"Nobody's making pictures about unwed mothers and unhappy factory girls any more," Sally told me. "I never had ambitions to be a great dramatic star, anyhow.

"Ida Lupino poured a lot of herself into me and changed me from a dancer into an emotional actress. I'm grateful to Ida But now I've got to make producers forget that I was the wet-handkerchief queen and go back to my dancing.

"Maybe I'm making a mistake. but I have to dance if I'm going to be happy in my career."

Meet a lass who's weary of hearing that screenplays were better a couple of decades ago.

The old flickers under lock and key in studio vaults aren't much better than some of the movie fare on television right now, Helen Deutch believes and she ought to know.

Helen has authored such hits as "King Solomon's Mines" and "National Velvet," and penned the screenplays of the forthcoming "Plymouth Adventure" and "Lili."

"I've been looking at movie classics that the public can't see and they simply don't hold up," trim, blonde Helen told me. "Some of them are movies that people remember with great affection. They were wonderful in their time. But I was appalled at the poor writing."

It's battling Nancy Olson in one corner and Hollywood casting directors in the other these days.

Nancy's fighting to prove that a round-faced movie queen can do something more than play the loyal wife and the girl next door.

Her cheeks don't cave in and her face isn't mask-like, but she wants a whack at the "off-beat parts that other actresses get because their faces are all sunken and drawn-in. It's a casting fallacy. The minute I go after a bad-girl role, they tell me I'm round-faced and that nobody will believe in me as a—er—witch, let's say."

Nancy's winning her point, but not fast enough to suit her. She's a widow who knows the score as John Wayne's co-star in "Big Jim McLain," and she's just about wrapped up another woman-of-the-world part. But she's still getting the "Sorry, you're not hollow-cheeked" line when a vixen role comes up.

"Every day the papers carry pictures of axe murderesses and gun molls and they're all round-faced," Nancy wailed. "The other night I went to a party where they showed an old Theda Bara vamp movie. Know what? Theda was as round-faced as I am."

They Had Their Chance

Ida Lupino is directing three movie tough guys in "The Difference," but she's confessing that she gave them the chance to veto her before the film started.

"I sent word to them," says Ida of her three stars — Edmund O'Brien, Frank Lovejoy and Bill Tallman, "that my feelings wouldn't be hurt in the least if they didn't want to work with a female director in a rugged, outdoor picture like this. They had the right to turn me down. But, thank heavens, they didn't."

Vanessa Brown's got something that Ava, Hedy Lana and Rita haven't got—a song named for her. And it's done more to help her shake the "too brainy" tag that was pinned on her by Hollywood, she's admitting, than all the plunging necklines slit skirts and cheesecake pictures that she's tried.

Vanessa inspired the instrumental hit, "Vanessa," by Bernie Wayne, that Hugo Winterhalter and David Rose recorded, and she's saying:

"A year ago I couldn't get a sexy part. Now I'm getting scripts that make me blush. I guess the song has made Hollywood forget that I ever was a Quiz Kid."

Doris Fleeson, "keen and highly important. Probably for Stevenson, if he behaves himself". . .The Aslops "interesting, for Ike, but no influence". . .Marquis Childs "for Ike, not important". . .John O'Donnell, "for nobody, important". . .Walter Winchell, "for nobody, very important". . .George Dixon, "Hearst humorist, for any thing Republican, against anything Democratic". . . Robert Ruark, "cynical Scripps - Howard writer of terrific force, probably with Ike because of the Roy Howard party - line". . .Westbrook Pegler, "against everybody, important". . .David Lawrence, "for Eisenhower, fair importance' . . .Frank Kent, "still for McKinley, respected."

We hope the Democrats who are calling Stevenson another Lincoln are not the ones who called Truman another Roosevelt.

From the N. Y. Herald Tribune: " 'We will be unrelenting in our campaign to stop gouging of the public by greedy chiselers,' said U. S. Attorney Myles J. Lane as he filed cases against a dozen restaurants. . .the largest suit (for $346,640) is against Chandler's."

Music Cue: "You Botcha Me, I Botcha You!"

Joel Grey reports the one about the tribe of savages, who were bringing medicine to another tribe in the jungle.

They had to stop because of a squatting elephant — monopolizing the path. He was facing them and wouldn't budge. After much pleading they got him to move.

A mile later they were confronted by another elephant Ella for short) but this one was seated with her back to them. Ella refused to be impressed by their urgency and wouldn't get out of the way.

Finally, Big Chief Plotz spoke up. "Look," he said, "we had the same trouble with one of your friends about a mile back. Why don'tcha be a nice kid like he was and get out of the way?"

"That little stinker!" pouted Ella, "we were playing book ends."

Item: "Adlai rhymes with gladly."

Or sadly.

Instead of getting some cronies to empty their pockets.

The topic was H'wood's economy drive. "Remember," sighed Joe Warner, "when their big problem was getting rid of communists instead of capitalists?"

Ted Lewis was watching a group of mothers as they waited for a crowded bus to depart for summer camp.

One mother wept openly as the others tried to console her. "Your boy," one said, "will have such fun in camp. He'll have fresh air, sunshine, play baseball and get plenty of milk and food. You shouldn't cry about his going away."

"Who's crying about that?" sobbed the weary woman. "I'm afraid this damb bus will never get started!"

IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— Extensive digging into Virginia political records, since the great battle of the Chicago Democratic convention over the seating of the Virginia delegation, has turned up a number of surprise gimmicks.

If all the facts now known had been fully understood at Chicago, there is some question as to whether the result would have been what it was.

The big issue at stake was of course Virginia's refusal to sign the loyalty pledge, promising to support all future actions of the Chicago convention majority, whatever they might be.

In his dramatic speech before the Chicago convention, Gov. John S. Battle of Virginia declared over the roar of the crowd, "We believe in the freedom exemplified by Thomas Jefferson in whose county I happen to live. We are not going to sign any pledge that will jeopardize that freedom." And Virginia delegates were excused from signing.

What the Chicago convention did not know, however, was that every Democratic candidate for a public job in Virginia was required to sign a pledge of loyalty before he could run for that office in the state primary. This is the state Democrats' "Pledge of Honor":

"I, ——————, do state on my sacred honor that I am a member of the Democratic Party and believe in its principles; that I voted for all the nominees of said party at the preceding general election in which I voted and in which the Democratic nominee or nominees had opposition, and that I shall support and vote for all of the nominees of said party in the next ensuing general election."

Honor Pledge Raises $64 Question

The $64 question which this Pledge of Honor raises is why a similar pledge of loyalty should not have been required of the Virginia delegates to the Chicago convention, if it was all right to exact such an oath of Virginia candidates for state offices?

Or, putting the question the other way around, if it was a violation of Jeffersonian freedom to require the Virginia delegates to Chicago to make a pledge of loyalty, why was it not a similar violation of this principle to require a written Pledge of Honor from Virginia candidates for public office in the state election?

Still another question rasied by the Virginia Pledge of Honor is whether it does not automatically require every Democrat who signed it to support the Democratic national ticket in the November election?

Lawyers are arguing both ways on that one. The out seems to be that signers of the pledge would be required to support only those national candidates which the Democratic Party of Virginia designated as Democrats.

If the Democratic state convention of Virginia were reconvened —and it could be under the Virginia law—it might declare Gov. Adlai Stevenson and Sen. John Sparkman did not represent the Democratic Party of Virginia as presidential and vice-presidential candidates. That would excuse Virginians from supporting them, in spite of any loyalty pledges to the contrary.

Charge Delegates not Legally Passed

If, on the other hand, the Virginia Pledge of Honor is construed to require support of the national ticket, then the question is raised as to what objection there could be to making a similar pledge before the Chicago convention?

On top of all this, it can now be revealed that a protest was made to the Credentials Committee of the Democratic National Convention in Chicago, charging that the Virginia delegates had not been legally certified to the convention. The substance of the protest was this:

The Democratic National Convention handbook, page 29, requires that, "the names of all delegates and alternates are certified to the national convention not less than 15 days prior to the opening of the convention."

The Democratic convention opened in Chicago July 21. The deadline of 15 days prior to that opening would be July 6. But the Virginia Democratic convention was not held in Roanoke until July 17, after the July 15 primary, and its delegates were chosen then, after the deadline.

This is admittedly a technicality. But it is the sort of technicality which has been employed all along in the steadily widening split between the southern Democrats and the northern factions of the party

IN WASHINGTON

Labor has a new voice in the country's political councils. The aggressive stand taken by the major labor organizations at the Democratic convention, giving the impression that the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. wanted to seize control of the party by forcing out southern delegates was attributed by other labor spokesmen to George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks and vice president of A. F. of L.

It was not Harrison's first political experience, but it was his initial attempt to influence the organization of a political convention and its choice of candidates. Despite the setback labor received at the hands of the convention, the chuncky well groomed union leader has ideas that he will be a powerful voice for some years to come.

Harrison who is blunt rather than tactful, is said to have delivered the union message to Vice-President Alben W. Barkley that he was too old to run for president. Barkley's old time labor friends, such as William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor and William Hutcheson, its vice president, were shocked when they heard how starkly what had been intended to be a word of advice had been phrased. But they couldn't have been surprised, because they know Harrison' methods.

He is one of the newer group of labor executives who loomed up during World War II and a power in wage negotiations. Just past 57 years of age, Harrison is one of the few labor leaders who speaks both for A. F. of L. and the railroad brotherhoods and he does it in a truculent, unhesitant manner. Without education beyond grammar school, he went to work for the Missouri Pacific Railroad in St. Louis at 14. The clerk's union is one of the newer railroad groups. From the time he became president in 1929, through the depression when the number of personnel under its jurisdiction was cut in half, Harrison built it up until by 1941 it was the largest union among the railway organizations.

A direct actionist in union matters, Harrison is an advocate of government ownership of railroads and politically a pronounced left winger and "progressive Democrat" who did hard and effective work to elect President Truman in 1948.

When he sat with the joint committee of labor organizations at Chicago, the A. F. of L. representatives for once came up with a more vigorous statement than C. I. O., whose head man on the committee was Walter Reuther, president of the Auto Workers. Harrison had penned a demand that southerners who would not support "progressive" legislation desired by the unions "should get out of the party or be read out."

It also asserted that the Democratic party should be empowered to fulfill its pledges, which was the forerunner of the platform demand that the number of senate votes needed to curtail debate be changed from two thirds to one half. This would operate to stop filibusters in the Senate.

Few people seemed to realize how far Harrison and his cohorts were prepared to go until Monday night when Temporary Chairman Paul Dever, governor of Massachusetts, permitted Senator Blair Moody of Michigan to take over the convention and jam through his resolution on the loyalty oath. The purpose of that maneouver was to force some southern delegations, from states which the labor spokesmen consider to be unfriendly, out of the convention and compel the southern delegations elected to future conventions to come with a pledge to support the convention nominees.

Summing up the labor strategy, in which Harrison had the principal hand for A. F. of L. as Reuther did for C. I. O., southerners were convinced that the loyalty pledge plus the threat to read Democrats out of the party meant that the heavy handed labor politices envisioned a completely regimented Democratic party, dominated by northern votes, in which the next step would be to demand a pledge to support the entire legislative program proposed by the platform, which would theoretically bind those southern senators and congressmen who attend the convention to vote for legislation endorsed by the convention.

When northern delegates began to perceive the far reaching nature of the resolution offered by the labor organizations, they drew back from the brink of the pit that such drastic demands opened up. That was a contributory reason for the change of front in the convention on the loyalty oath and the eventual restoration of all freedom of action to southern delegatins.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

My father was an immigrant from Bialystok which was then in Russian Poland. I thought of that the other day when I received a pamphlet from our park deparment in New York with illustrations showing how they had beautified Battery Park. That was the first bit of America that my father saw when he landed on these shores from a steerage boat.

In his day, an old fortress there was called "Castle Garden," and the immigrants passed through it in hordes. That was when this country was in need of population and encouraged those who were hungry or frightened to come to America.

The most fantastic stories were told in Europe about the United States. To the immigrants, such as my father, it was a "goldene medina"—a "kingdom of gold." And literally, it was such, for while they lived in slums and worked unbelievably hard, their plight was better than anything they had known in the old country. And that is why they came here.

My father was a refugee from a pogrom. He ran away from social, economic and spiritual deprivation. He wanted to worship God according to the traditions of his ancestors. He was a devotedly religious man, steeped in the lore of his faith, incapable of understanding life without it. Bread one could earn anywhere; liberty was hard to come by in his day.

Millions came, as he did, to build a new life in this country. I was brought up in this environment of hopeful people. They found life tough, particularly the adjustments of language and customs. And they suffered heartaches as their children moved away from them spiritually in the assimilative processes then catalyzing the sons and daughters of immigrants into Americans.

All of us were at least bi-lingual then. We spoke what was called the mother tongue, Yiddish, Russian, Polish, Italian, German and what not. And we also spoke English, which our parents did not know, but which we got in the public schools and on the sidewalks. And there, too, we learned about the United States, its customs, its traditions, its institutions.

The children of those immigrants, first generation Americans, were jealous of their privileges. They were reared to regard the United States as a Promised Land They were inspired in the schools to patriotic fervor. They were intolerant of anyone who even suggested that any other country could be equal to the United States. This was their country.

In later years, when times were better and young people went through school and college without hardship, when the third generation was living on the fat stored by their immigrant ancestors, tney could not quite grasp the intensity of the emotions of the immigrants of the period between 1848 and 1890 for this country. The new generation were complainers; nothing was good enough for them. But the old folks, they knew where they came from and why and they were thankful.

My father never learned English. He lived in a ghetto atmosphere by choice. He preferred to be among his own kind and regarded it as a privilege to be able to do that without fear. His greatest joy was the free practice of his religion without danger or shame or humiliation. Yet he voted in every election and devoted himself to an understanding of the issues and the personalities about which he read in the Yiddish newspapers which then flourished as excellent journals. He was an independent in politics, as were so many immigrants like himself. That was before the politicians welded them into political blocs.

I am sure that no immigrant in those days ever thought of himself as being part of a minority. They would not have known what it meant. They were Americans. To have called my father "a minority" would have been as insulting as to call him a sheenie. He had run away from Europe because there he was part of a minority; he came here because in America all people were Americans, all belonged to the oame nation; all were equal in the eyes of the government. My father, the rabbi, and Father Louis, the priest, our neighbor and friend, we were all the same kind of people only we worshipped the same God differently. That he could understand—but minority, pfui. That would have reminded him of the old country. That was no good!

THOUGHTS

Great is my boldness of speech toward you, great is my glorying of you: I am filled with comfort, I am exceeding joyful in all our tribulation.—II Cor. 7:4.

When our troubles are many we are often by grace made courageous in serving our God; We feel that we have nothing to live for in this world, and we are driven, by hope of the world to come, to exhibit zeal, self-denial, and industry.

ADMIT REFUGEES

HONG KONG (AP)— The Chinese Nationalists have agreed to let 446 Chinese refugees from the Communists, now in a refugee camp here go to Formosa.

They will be the first group of such refugees to be allowed on Formosa by the Nationalist Ministry of Defense this year. They include students, business and professional men, and a few former Chinese generals and officers of lower rank.

UNITED STATES POLL

By Princeton Research Service, Kenneth Fink, Director

PRINCETON, N. J., Aug. 9 — What must be overcome in order to induce more persons to vote regularly and prevent elections from being the will of a minority?

This question has come to the fore, with the possibility presented that 50 per cent of eligible voters will not take part in the [illegible] state and local elections on Nov. 4.

In the 1948 national election, 48 out of every 100 of the nation's potential voters did not go to the polls. This represented an increase in stay - at - homes on election day since 1940, when 59 per cent of the country's adult residents voted.

The stay - at - homes may have made Truman president. His majority in the popular vote was only 4.6 per cent. He polled 49.9 per cent of the vote; Dewey, 45.3 per cent; Wallace, 2.4 per cent, and Thurmond, 2.4 per cent.

NATIONWIDE

	% of total potential vote
Truman	25.9%
Dewey	23.6%
Thurmond	1.25%
Wallace	1.25%
Total who voted in 1948	52.00%
Total who did not vote	48.00%
Country's pontential vote	100.00%

Why does it happen that in a free republic, the chief executive is the choice of approximately 25 per cent of the qualified citizens?

To determine the view of the voters themselves on this all-important matter, Princeton Research Service staff reporters across the nation asked a cross - section of citizens what they thought were the chief reasons why so many people didn't vote in the 1948 presidential election.

1. "Carelessness."
2. "Lack of interest."
3. "Laziness."
4. "A feeling that "one vote won't make much difference."

One out of every two persons questioned in today's survey gave one of the four reasons above for the failure of most persons to vote.

Next most important reasons assigned for non-voting:

5. Overconfidence: "Republicans didn't come out as they should have because they felt Dewey a sure thing."
6. People are disgusted with politics and politicians.
7. Unpopular candidates: "people disliked the candidates; the parties didn't give the people much choice."
8. Americans don't realize their responsibilities as citizens.
9. People are just too busy.
10. People don't know enough about the candidates and the platforms.

Also receiving mention were the following: "Voters have no choice in the nomination of candidates;" "it's too difficult to get registered."

Following are typical verbatim comments:

"People weren't strong for either candidate and didn't go to the polls." Mount Vernon, N. Y. accountant.

"It has gotten so that people don't care." Richmond, Va., steel roller.

"People don't have the concern they should about voting — they don't care who wins." Madison, Wis., bartender.

"Cynical of what every candidate says, so they have lost interest." Bedford, Ind., office worker.

"They just don't care." Baton Rouge, La., machinist.

"They don't think their vote counts enough." Shreveport, La., oil worker.

"Politicians make promises and then when they get in office, they do as they please." Kings Park, N. Y., secretary.

"They all think politics stink." Little Rock, Ark., railroad engineer.

"People are all so disgusted with graft and crookedness that they don't want to vote." Boston, Mass., carpenter.

"I suppose we are all lazy." Champaign, Ill., housewife.

"Failure to realize their obligations as citizens." Vallejo, Calif., shipyard worker.

They don't like the candidates." Pocatello, Idaho factory worker.

"The most of them who thought Dewey would be elected thought they did not need to vote." Bristol, Va., laundry collector.

Crippled Children's Project Is Outlined To Rotarians

Encouraging results of work being done by the Ouachita Parish Crippled Children's Clinic were vividly described to Rotarians at their weekly Virginia Hotel luncheon. Dr. Alfons R. Altenberg used an illustrated lecture to explain the difficulty experienced by patients and the correction which surgery and treatment had effected.

Dr. Altenberg is assisting Dr. Scott Hamilton, director of the Ouachita Parish chapter of the Louisiana Society for Crippled Children. He was presented by Dr. Stanley R. Mintz.

About 13.892 crippled children are registered in the state, the speaker said. The 5th district, which includes Ouachita Parish, numbers 2,500 of this group.

Rehabilitation of these handicapped persons is limited because of funds, Dr. Altenberg explained. The state allocates $59 for treatment of each child. This amount places Louisiana in the lowest bracket of all states with respect to financial aid in this field of work. The neighboring state of Mississippi provides $109 for each crippled child's assistance.

The program currently in effect includes two monthly clinics, with from 70 to 80 patients being observed each time. In addition, from 8 to 10 children receive weekly hospital care, including surgery.

Most frequent causes of crippled conditions include poliomyelitis, congenital deformity, tuberculosis and other diseases and accidents or violence. The last proves the smallest concern.

One of the patients had suffered such an extreme case of knock knees that he was unable to walk. As a result of an operation one knee was corrected to such an extent that he appeared perfectly normal as he walked across the room during the Rotary meeting.

A small child who had suffered from poliomyelitis had been a surgical patient, with repair work being done at intervals. Bone surgery and substitute procedures where muscles had been destroyed brought splendid results, the speaker said.

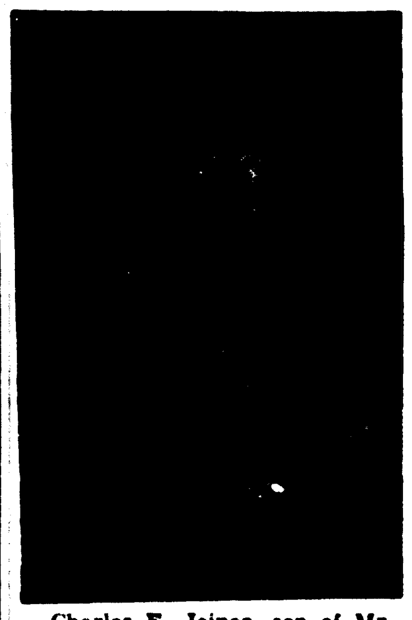
Surgery had also been successful for patients including a boy whose upper thigh bone had slipped, thereby causing severe deformity of the hip, and another who had experienced total destruction of the cartilege around the thigh bone.

One child who was completely paralyzed below the waist, following tuberculosis of the spine, is now able to walk without difficulty as a result of delicate operations and treatment.

The range of work being accomplished by the Crippled Children's Clinic was demonstrated by a young girl who had experienced such a deep burn of her hand that she was unable to straighten her figers. Skin grafting to replace scar tissues and special exercise of the hand resulted in being able to move the fingers readily.

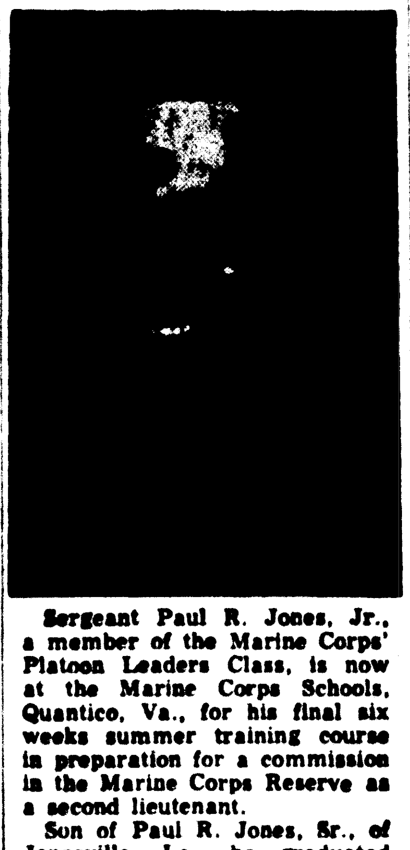
These particular cases could easily show results ot tax dollars, Dr. Altenberg said. Greater resources would mean service to more worthy persons who need medical care, he added.

BACK FROM KOREA



Charles E. Joiner, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Joiner, 510 Lazaree avenue, West Monroe, who has been in Korea about 10 months, has returned to the United States and has been reassinged to Camp Polk, La. He enlisted for three years and still has 18 months to serve.

IN MARINE SCHOOL



Sergeant Paul R. Jones, Jr., a member of the Marine Corps' Platoon Leaders Class, is now at the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va., for his final six weeks summer training course in preparation for a commission in the Marine Corps Reserve as a second lieutenant.

Son of Paul R. Jones, Sr., of Jonesville, La., he graduated from Block High School before entering University of Mississippi.

Of the more than 800 men training at Camp Goettge, a massive field camp at Quantico, Va., 700 of the men are seniors in college and the remainder graduated last June.

Upon the successful completion of the two summer courses and graduation from college, the members of the Platoon Leaders Class will be commissioned as second lieutenants.

This summer the future officers are being trained in the use of all basic infantry weapons, including the rifle, machine gun and hand grenade, and in addition receive instruction on such courses as military courtesy and mapping.

In college Sergeant Jones was prominent in Intramural Sports.

Revival Services Open In Choudrant

CHOUDRANT, La., Aug. 9. (Special)—The Pleasant Grove Baptist Church here will open its revival services tonight and will continue through Sunday, Aug. 17. Cottage prayer meetings were conducted each night last week in preparation for the services.

Kerlin Feazel, student of Louisiana College, who recently accepted the pastorate of the Pleasant Grove church, will be the evangelist. Mr. Q. Barnes of Calhoun has been invited to direct the music.

In addition to the nightly services, which will begin at 7:45, Thursday is the annual grave yard working date. This day dinner will be served on the grounds, followed by services that afternoon. The public is invited to come and worship with the church members.

About 13,892 crippled children are registered in the state, the speaker said. The 5th district, which includes Ouachita Parish, numbers 2,500 of this group.

Rehabilitation of these handicapped persons is limited because of funds, Dr. Altenberg explained. The state allocates $59 for treatment of each child. This amount places Louisiana in the lowest bracket of all states with respect to financial aid in this field of work. The neighboring state of Mississippi provides $109 for each crippled child's assistance.

The program currently in effect includes two monthly clinics, with from 70 to 80 patients being observed each time. In addition, from 8 to 10 children receive weekly hospital care, including surgery.

Most frequent causes of crippled conditions include poliomyelitis, congenital deformity, tuberculosis and other diseases and accidents or violence. The last proves the smallest concern.

One of the patients had suffered such an extreme case of knock knees that he was unable to walk. As a result of an operation one knee was corrected to such an extent that he appeared perfectly normal as he walked across the room during the Rotary meeting.

A small child who had suffered from poliomyelitis had been a surgical patient, with repair work being done at intervals. Bone surgery and substitute procedures where muscles had been destroyed brought splendid results, the speaker said.

Surgery had also been successful for patients including a boy whose upper thigh bone had slipped, thereby causing severe deformity of the hip, and another who had experienced total destruction of the cartilege around the thigh bone.

One child who was completely paralyzed below the waist, following tuberculosis of the spine, is now able to walk without difficulty as a result of delicate operations and treatment.

The range of work being accomplished by the Crippled Children's Clinic was demonstrated by a young girl who had experienced such a deep burn of her hand that she was unable to straighten her figers. Skin grafting to replace scar tissues and special exercise of the hand resulted in being able to move the fingers readily.

These particular cases could easily show results ot tax dollars, Dr. Altenberg said. Greater resources would mean service to more worthy persons who need medical care, he added.

BACK FROM KOREA

Charles E. Joiner, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Joiner, 510 Lazaree avenue, West Monroe, who has been in Korea about 10 months, has returned to the United States and has been reassinged to Camp Polk, La. He enlisted for three years and still has 18 months to serve.

IN MARINE SCHOOL

Sergeant Paul R. Jones, Jr., a member of the Marine Corps' Platoon Leaders Class, is now at the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va., for his final six weeks summer training course in preparation for a commission in the Marine Corps Reserve as a second lieutenant.

Of the more than 800 men training at Camp Goettge, a massive field camp at Quantico, Va., 700 of the men are seniors in college and the remainder graduated last June.

Upon the successful completion of the two summer courses and graduation from college, the members of the Platoon Leaders Class will be commissioned as second lieutenants.

This summer the future officers are being trained in the use of all basic infantry weapons, including the rifle, machine gun and hand grenade, and in addition receive instruction on such courses as military courtesy and mapping.

Armed Service

CAMP CHAFFEE, Ark., Aug. 9. (Special)—Cpl. Wayne H. Bennett of West Monroe, La., has been assigned for duty here with the 5th Armored Division.

Corporal Bennett recently returned from a tour of duty in Korea, where he served with the 2nd Infantry Division. At the present time, he is an instructor with a training unit here.

His father, Mr. Vallie Bennett, resides on route two, West Monroe.

502D Tactical Control Group, Korea: Airman Third Class Willie E. Drake of Monroe, is serving as an air policeman with a unit of the 502D Tactical Control Group somewhere in Korea.

Drake entered the Air Force in January of 1951. Prior to his overseas assignment he was stationed at Moriarty Air Force Base, New Mexico.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Smith, reside at a rural address in Monroe.

NAVAL AIR STATION, MIRAMAR, Calif. — Clarence H. McCoy, aviation boatswain's mate third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude S. McCoy, Sr., of Winnsboro, La., and husband of the former Miss Annie L. Wilbourne of Gladewater, Tex., has reported for duty to Fleet Aircraft Service Squadron 701 based here.

The primary mission of the "workhorses" of the fleet, as service squadrons are often called, is that of maintaining and repairing carrier based aircraft, which cannot be handled by the operating squadrons.

Jets, Corsair fighter - bombers and Skyraider attack-bombers are included among the aircraft of Squadron 701.

Along with their routine tasks, the airmen are given intensive training in new and refresher courses to keep them abreast of the latest developments in naval aviation.

After spending seven months in the Far East operating with units of the UN naval forces, the aircraft carrier USS Philippine Sea has returned to the United States.

Serving aboard her is Wilmer W. Self, seaman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. David I. Self of route 2, Rayville, La.

During her time in the Far East the Philippine Sea sent her Panther jets, Skyraider attack bombers and Corsair Figher bombers on daily strikes against Communists supply and communication lines.

In addition to the "line - cutting" and "rail - splitting" missions, the pilots concentrated on gun emplacements, troops, supply areas, factories and warehouses, destroying anything of possible use to the enemy.

As a parting shot at the Commies, planes from the Philippine Sea, and three sister carriers hit the strategic hydro-electric plants along the Yalu river and throughout North Korea. With navy, marine, and air force jets flying cover, Philippine Sea planes delivered a stunning blow at the Red's power systems.

Light Crust Doughboys To Play For Salley Opening In Bernice

The hundreds of friends of Salley Grocer Company who attend the opening of the new offices and warehouse in Bernice August 13 will hear one of the most entertaining groups of musicians in the land, the Light Crust Doughboys.

The Light Crust Doughboys came into being back in 1930 when a group of musical mill workers from Burrus Mills organized a band. They had one of the first commercial programs on any Fort Worth radio station, and when time for their broadcast came around, they left their machines, shook the flour dust off, picked up their fiddles and guitars and swung into the program right there in the flour mill. And now the Light Crust Doughboys are a radio tradition in the southwest.

The Doughboys were an immediate sensation, and the Texas Quality Network was formed in order that the show could be presented throughout the state. A partial basis for the popularity of the Light Crust Doughboys is their personal appearances. They have made appearances at rodeos, fairs, store openings and barbecues, and in 1933 appeared at the World's Fair in Chicago. Each year they appear as the top western and folk music group at the Texas State Fair.

In 1936, Texas Centennial Year, Governor Allred designated the Light Crust Doughboys as ambassadors of good will and they set out in their sound truck to make a triumphal tour across Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and into California. In Hollywood they made two pictures with Gene Autry which inaugurated the series of "western - musicals" now so familiar.

The roster of former members of the Light Crust Doughboys is illustrious: Bob Wills, a favorite in musical Western films and on the juke boxes was a leader of the Doughboys and is credited with composing the theme song; Eddie Dunn, a former master of ceremonies, is now announcer with one of the top networks; Leon McAuliffe of recording fame was once a Doughboy; and the most widely known personality of the Light Crust Doughboys was W. Lee "Pappy" O'Daniel.

The Light Crust Doughboys have never confined themselves merely to playing tunes — they also compose many of the songs they play. They have made a number of recordings for Columbia and King records, their most popular being "South". The present Light Crust Doughboys group is composed of Paul Blunt, steel guitar; Marve Montgomery, standard guitar; Lefty Perkins, electric guitar; Carroll Hubbard, fiddle; and Red Kidwell, bass.

Ask Colleges Not To Contact All-Star Players

FORT WORTH, Tex., Aug. 8 (AP) — Oklahoma universities and colleges will be asked to desist from contacting schoolboy athletes appearing in All-Star games of the Texas coaching school.

Southwest Conference Coaches agreed not to do so and didn't, said the board of directors of the Texas High School Coaches Association today, but the Oklahoma schools and some Texas junior colleges did. They hadn't been asked not to; the coaches association hadn't thought of that.

The Association will write the schools and ask that they join the Southwest Conference in observing the rule, Standard Lambert, publicity director of the association, said.

Standlee Named Captain Of 49ers Pro Grid Team

MENLO PARK, Calif., Aug. 8 (AP)— Norman Standlee was elected captain of the 49ers, pro football team, for the fifth straight time today.

The players held a light workout today, and will run through another tomorrow morning.

The team meets the San Francisco Broncos, a semi-pro squad, in Kezar Stadium at San Francisco at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Coach Buck Shaw said he was pleased with the spirit of the 49ers squad.

J. R. JONES WILL DIRECT BAPTIST MUSICAL UNIT

The executive committee of the Baptist Musical Association at a recent luncheon elected J. R. Jones to serve as associate - director and program chairman of the organization. Jones is minister of music at the First Baptist Church in West Monroe.

Carolyn Futral, youth director at the First Baptist Church of Monroe, was named association pianist.

Plans were submitted and accepted at the meeting to promote in each group meeting to emphasize definite phases of associational work.

Group meetings will be held August 10 at 7:30 p. m. at the following places: Group 1, Central Baptist Church, Charles Littleton, leader; Group 2, Parkview, J. E. Lindsay; Group 3, First Baptist Church of West Monroe; J. R. Jones; Group 4, Ridge Avenue, Eugene Smith.

The program will be congregational singing, devotional, announcements, special music, promotional emphasis and rehearsal for special music.

FINISHING

Airman Jonie R. Taylor, 17, son of Mrs. Bill Killen, Rt. 1 Box 87, Olla, La., is completing his AF basic airmen indoctrination course at Lackland Air Force Base, the "Gateway to the Air Force."

Lackland, situated near San Antonio, is the world's largest air force base, site of Air Force basic training, for men and women, headquarters of the Human Resource Research Center, and home of AF's Officer Candidate School.

His basic training is preparing him for entrance into Air Force technical training and for assignment in specialized work. The course includes a scientific evaluation of his aptitude and inclination for following a particular vocation and career.

HOT SPRINGS SWEEPS PAIR FROM MONROE

BATHERS CLAIM DOUBLE-HEADER BY 6-2 AND 6-5

Final Of Series Today Will Be Played Under Lights

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Aug. 9—(Special)—The Hot Springs Bathers put a damper on the Monroe Sports' drive to nab a place in the first division of the Cotton States League and a playoff spot by sweeping both ends of a double header from the Louisiana outfit here tonight, 6 to 2 and 6 to 5.

The brief series winds up with a night game here Sunday.

Marvin Hatcher, starting pitcher for Monroe in the opener, and Jake Jacobs, reliefer for "Arky" Bowden in the nightcap, were the losing pitchers. Bob Zolliecoffer won the opener for the Spas with a neat three-hitter, and he also saw service with Jim Hogan in the second game that was won by Joe Grosso who pitched only the last inning.

Three home runs were hit for the night. Nelson Daehn, Monroe, and "Babe" Tucky, Hot Springs, hit homers in the first game, and Pat Saviano hit for the circuit with a mate on base for Monroe in the second.

The Bathers jumped on Marv Hatcher to finish him in three innings with a 5-1 lead and they coasted the rest of the way to take the opener despite the efforts of won his ninth of the season against eleven losses, while Hatcher, a ten - game winner, was charged with his eleventh defeat.

The Spas grabbed the opening-game lead when Jackie Bayles singled, Bob Passarella doubled, and Ed Jacobson singled both runners home. They added three more in the third with two out and "Tuffy" Owens on with a double. Bayles' single scored Owens. Passarella singled and Jacobson walked to load the bases. Fred Wasiluk grounded to George Andrews who missed the fielder's choice on Jacobson at second, Bayles scoring. Bill Shepard walked, forcing Passarella across.

"Babe" Tuckey's fourth inning home run completed the Hot Springs' scoring.

Monroe's first - game scoring included one in the third when Nelson Daehn singled and went on second when Shepard dropped a throw from "Chico" Escudero and scored on a single by Johnny Jones, and the other in the fifth on Daehn's bases - empty homer.

Monroe grabbed the second-game lead in the third inning after two were out and Pat Saviano on second with a single and stolen base. A single by Daehn scored Saviano. Daehn then stole second, went to third on a Wasiluk overthrow, and scored on a single by Jesse Van Winkle.

The Bathers bounced right back in the bottom of the same frame to tie the score at 2-2. Shepard walked. Escudero doubled. Shepard scored as Long threw wide of first after taking a grounder by Tucky. Bayles walked, filling the bases, and a single by Passarella Bowden. Jacobs came in to retire the side.

Jacobs singled in the fifth, but was forced by Weber who stole second and scored on a single by Jones to send the Sports ahead again. Saviano's home run after Andrews had walked gave the Sports a 5-2 bulge in the sixth, but the Spas tied the count in the bottom of the sixth. Passarella singled and was forced by Ed Jacobson. Wasiluk doubled to score Jacobson, and a double by Bert Shepard brought Wasiluk home. Ed Baski, running for Shepard, scored the tying run when "Chip" Thomas dropped Escudero's fly into right field.

The winning run in the nightcap came when Jacobs hit Bayles with a pitched ball, he went to third on an infield hit by Passarella and scored on Wasiluk's squeeze bunt.

Arroz Captures La Jolla Handicap

DEL MAR, Calif., Aug. 9 (AP)—Mrs. Gordon Gulberson's Arroz, under the expert handling of Willie Shoemaker, came from far back to capture the $10,000 added La Jolla Handicap here today.

Shoemaker got Arroz into full stride at the far turn. He began to pick up horses, one, by one, saving ground next to the inside rail. At the eighth pole Shoemaker found a narrow opening between Stranglehold and Blue Trumpeter. He gunned his mount and came on to the wire in front.

Arroz covered the mile in 1:37 2-5 under second high weight of 116 pounds. He paid $11.70, $5.40 and $5.90. The entry paid $3.80 and $3.80 for second and third.

Egotist Equals Record At Scarborough Downs

SCARBOROUGH, Me., Aug. 9 (AP) — Carter & Doherty's Egotist equalled the track record of 1:45 3-5 today while defeating Elfdee by a nose in the mile and a sixough Downs. Palaje showed in the seven-horse field.

Egotist paid $4.80, $3.00 and $2.60. Elfdee $4.20 and $3.00 and Palaje $3.80.

British Sports Car In Record Run, Still Going

PARIS, Aug. 9 (AP)— A British-made Jaguar sports car set a four - day world's speed record today with an average of 162,824 kilometers (101.765 miles) an hour and still is going.

The 6-cylinder coupe, powered by the standard Jaguar XK120 motor with 3.5 liters piston displacement, covered 15,631.158 kilometers (9,769.47 miles) in the 96 hours.

The car is being driven in relays by British racing drivers Stirling Moss, Jack Fairman and Bert Hadley.

Driving in the last 24 hours has been through intermittent heavy rains. The previous world's speed record for four days was 144.788 kilometers (89.49 miles) an hour.

STATE AMERICAN LEGION PLAYOFF TO GO DISTANCE

Third And Deciding Game Billed Here This Afternoon

The Louisiana state championship American Legion Junior baseball series was all square today after the McCain-Richards Motors of Monroe defeated the Tulane Shirts of New Orleans, 10 to 5, here last night in the second game of the title playoffs. The Shirts won the opener at New Orleans Thursday night, 11 to 8.

The championship clincher is scheduled to be played at Legion Memorial Stadium here this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The players of both clubs as well as Legion baseball officials will be feted at a breakfast this morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Rendezvous with Bill McCain of the club-sponsoring McCain-Richards Motor Company as host.

Wayne Causey hurled the victory for Coach Woody Boyles' boys last night with Lucien Coniglio, a 12-game winner, taking his first defeat. It was the eleventh win for Causey who has lost only one.

Second Baseman Billy Hardy led Monroe's eight hit attack last night with three safe blows. The Tulane Shirts got nine hits.

The Tulane Shirts grabbed the lead in the first inning when Blanchini and LeBlanc hit singles, Kuchler walked to load the bases, and Deutschmann delivered a double that scored Blanchini and LeBlanc. Causey threw wild to third in attempting to pick-off Kuchler and the Shirts catcher came home to give the New Orleans boys a 3-0 bulge.

McCain-Richards' boys exploded for five runs in the second inning to go ahead. Causey walked and scored on a triple by Ike McMullen. Ray Rhymes was safe on an error, Vivian Pettit walked, and Billy Hardy singled to load the bases. Frankie Scalia came through with a solid clutch hit, scoring Rhymes and Pettit, with Hardy coming home on a miscue in left field by Puissegur.

The Monroe boys pushed over three more in the third for an 8-3 edge, Rymes walked, Hardy singled and both advanced on a Jackie Neal's fly into right field, Rhymes and Hardy scoring and Neal pulling up at third from where he scored when Birdshaw erred on a drive by Walter Bennett.

In the fourth inning Guy Gannaway slammed out a double, advanced as McMullen grounded out and scored on an error to give Monroe a 9-3 margin.

Deutschmann gave New Orleans a fourth run in the sixth inning when he doubled, advanced on a single by Traux, and scored on an error. Then in the eighth, Richard walked, was forced by Coniglio, and a double by Blanchini brought Coniglio home with run No. 5 for the Tulane Shirts.

Bennett furnished an eight inning run for Monroe to wrap up the scoring when he doubled, stole third and scored on Gannaway's sacrifice.

Allen Reports Russians Aped Aggie Cage System

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (AP)— Dr. F. C. (Phog) Allen, basketball coach at Kansas and assistant coach of the Olympic champion U. S. team, said the stalling game the Russians threw at the Americans in the final game "was an exact copy of the stall and freeze game used by Oklahoma A. and M."

He added "that if they spent so much time and money just to study U. S. basketball styles, imagine what else they know about the U. S.?"

Win Over Charles Draws Ire Of Manager On Dempsey

OGDEN, Utah, Aug. 9 (AP)— A dogged Rex Layne, bleeding in spurts from a lip cut which took five stitches to close, stormed to a 10-round decision over former world's heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles Friday night.

The close battle was run off at a fast pace and although there were no knockdowns and no really staggering blows delivered, both fighters appeared well worn at the end. Layne weighed 195, Charles 190.

The decision, received with ire in the Charles camp, was given by another former world's champion, Jack Dempsey, referee and sole judge. As Dempsey raised Layne's hand in victory, two deluges burst forth, both of natural origin.

Jake Mintz, bespectacled manager of the Cincinnati Negro, and a thunderstorm vied with one another for the attention of Dempsey and an estimated 23,000 fans under the clouds over Ogden Stadium.

Dempsey turned his back on both while the storm and Mintz raged Jake's testimony carrying such phrases as "this is the lousiest decision I've ever seen. . . it was a political steal. . .Dempsey is a thief."

A number of ringside observers were in mild agreement with Mintz' general thesis that Charles might have had the edge. Dempsey scored it seven rounds even, with two for Layne and one for Charles.

Layne was credited by the Manassa Mauler with being the aggressor. The 195-pound Lewiston, Utah, fighter did attempt to carry the fight to Charles most of the time. But Charles all too often caught the slower Utah boy with — if not zipping — at least swift lefts.

Rex also displayed a left, which the crowd liked immensely. Heretofore he has used that paw as though it had gout. Combining this new weapon with his usually potent right, Layne managed to jolt Charles several times early in the fight before he began his lunging body (his own) attack on Charles, massaging Charles' upper chest and face with his head and shoulders.

College All-Stars Taking Shape For Friday Date With Pro Champion Rams

Louisiana's Tarasovic Groomed For Offense, Defense

DELAFIELD, Wis., Aug. 9—(AP)—The College All-Stars, less than a week away from the annual game in Chicago with the professional football champions, boast a squad that has no apparent weaknesses.

Two weeks of virtual day - long practice sessions for the Aug. 15 Soldier Field encounter with the Los Angeles Rams have left the coaching staff optimistic.

There has been only one serious injury and, despite a great amount of secrecy surrounding practices, insiders report the squad has caught on rapidly to Bobby Dodd's T-offensive and tricky defense.

The charity game is the 19th in an unbroken series going back to 1934. Of 18 games played, the All-Star collegians have won six, lost ton and tied two.

Dodd, the Georgia Tech mentor who was choosen head coach of the All-Stars for this year's game, has the usual quota of All-Americas of every hue, description and position on his squad of 54.

Dodd and his assistants are openly enthusiastic about the efficiency and depth displayed so far in every position — offensively and defensively. They don't find any real weaknesses anywhere.

They actually haven't expected any. Just about every 1951 college senior that shone on the gridiron is available to them. Still, that's been the case in all of the games and the All-Stars have lost more than they've won.

The problem isn't — and never has been — manpower. It's mainly a question of taking a half hundred odd football stars, some of them already legendary campus heroes, and fashioning from this conglomeration a workable foot - ball machine. And there isn't much time.

Whether the obvious man-for-man brilliance of this 1952 assemblage welded somehow into a team, will be up to the crushing precision of the Los Angeles powerhouse can't possibly be known until next Friday night.

Meanwhile, Dodd has just about decided on the makeup of his first-line squad. Only a few men will share both offensive and defensive assignments.

With passing expected to be the main offensive weapon, Dodd has three T-formation experts on call, Babe Parilli of Kentucky, Darrell Crawford of Georgia Tech and Bill Wade of Vanderbilt.

Doing most of the receiving at end, it is believed, will be Bill McColl of Stanford, Darrell Brewster of Purdue, Bill Howton of Rice and Bob Carey of Michigan State.

If Dodd crosses up the experts and concentrates on a running game, you can look for Ed Modzelewski, the "Mighty Mo" of Maryland, to be doing most of the heavy work at fullback. Bill Reichhardt of Iowa and Ollie Matson of San Francisco, a recent addition from the Olympic squad, are sure to help out.

Vic Janowicz of Ohio State and Hank Lauricella of Tennessee have proved they can run with anybody at left half. Janowicz probably will handle the punting and other toe work.

If there is one position on the squad that outshines others in personnel, it is the difficult right halfback post, which boasts a number of highly capable runners. These include Hugh McElhenny of Washington, Johnny Karras of Illinois and Al Dorow of Michigan State. Dorow is a converted quarterback and an excellent blocker.

The burden of the offensive tackle-to-tackle duties probably will fall on Tom Johnson of Michigan and Marion Campbell of Georgia, tackles; Don Coleman of Michigan State and Don MacRae of Northwestern, guards, and Doug Moseley of Kentucky and Bob Griffin of Arkansas, centers.

Defensively, Dodd probably will field a line that averages 215 pounds. Hal Faverty of Wisconsin and Leo Sugar of Purdue have looked most impressive at the end slots and Bill Pearman of Tennessee, Bob Toneff of Notre Dame and Jim Weatherall of Oklahoma at tackle.

Les Richter of California and Jim Clark of Oregon State are leading the guard contingent. The squad apparently has lost guard Jim MacKenzie of Kentucky, who suffered a fractured ankle in practice. His was the only serious injury to date.

Center George Tarasovic of Louisiana State appears to have one linebacker position cinched and may be one of the few squad members to play offensively. Chuck Boerio of Illinois and Keith Flowers of Texas Christian are tabbed to share the other line - backing position.

Among backs expected to perform mostly on defense are John Petitbon of Notre Dame, Bert Rechichar of Tennessee, Frank Gifford of Southern California and Bobby Dillon of Texas.

BOSSES OF S. E. C. GATHER MONDAY

Believe Case Of Kentucky To Be Taken Up Again

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 9. (AP)—The Southeastern Conference executive committee will meet in Birmingham, Monday, presumably to resume its hearing of charges that the University of Kentucky violated conference regulations in its athletic program.

The committee apparently had sought to meet with no advance publicity but a Louisville sports editor wrote last night that a meeting would be held.

Dr. H. C. Aderhold, president of the University of Georgia and a committee member, said today at Athens, Ga., "there will be a meeting of the committee at Birmingham Monday and I'll be there." He declined to say whether the session was for the purpose of taking up the Kentucky case again.

However, Dr. H. L. Donovan, president of Kentucky, said at Lexington, Ky., that he was going to Birmingham Monday.

S. E. C. Commissioner Bernie Moore was reported away from Birmingham and unreachable.

The executive committee met here July 25-26. The second day's meeting, with Dr. Donovan in attendance, extended 11 hours. At the end, there was no announcement on what the S. E. C. planned to do about the Kentucky charges.

The charges of over-emphasis in its athletic program stemmed from the National basketball scandals. New York Judge Saul Streit earlier this year severely reprimanded three former Kentucky basketball players who admitted accepting bribes from gamblers to control points in games. He gave them suspended sentences.

Braves Returning Crowe

BOSTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—First Baseman George Crowe of the Boston Braves was returned tonight to the Milwaukee American Association farm club, subject to 24-hour recall.

Crowe hit .253 for the Braves in 65 games this season, batting in 20 runs and totaling four homers.

STOCK CARS RUN AT SHREVEPORT

Claude Crenshaw Of Monroe Takes Over As Promoter Today

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 9 (Special)—With between 26 and 30 automobiles due to compete, Claude Crenshaw, the dare-devil stock car racer from Monroe, takes over promotion of modified stock car racing at the Fair Grounds race track here Sunday with a full afternoon's card.

Racers from throughout Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas and Mississippi are coming here for the show with "Promoter" Crenshaw promising something new in stock car racing when he presents a "surprise" race that will be so arranged that even the slower cars will have a chance at the prize.

For those fans who don't like dust settling all over them, Crenshaw has also instituted use of a chemical, which, when sprayed over the dust of the track, practically eliminates the dust hazard, making it easier to follow the races as cars running in a tight race won't be hidden in a cloud of dust.

Time trials are billed to begin at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon with the first of the official races beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

Crenshaw tonight announced that Ken Lashbrook, Greenville, Miss., winner of 15 main event races this season, will be at the wheel of "Red" Dowdy's fast No. 5 in the Sunday races.

Other top-notch racers due to compete have been listed as "Snuffy" Smith, Ernest Durr, Woody Ramsey, "Sparkplug" Sellers, Roxie Dancey, "Smiling" Gentry, Tommy Roseboro, Bill Raines, Tommy Fort, Ed Whitehurst, and a "stablemate" of Crenshaw's from Monroe, Cecil "Lucky" Hill.

The day's card will consist of two qualifying heats, consolation race, Australian pursuit race, semi-finals, and main event.

COUNTERPOINT COPS WHITNEY

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 9 (AP)— C. V. Whitney's Counterpoint, the horse of the year in 1951, showed a return to his best form today when he won the 25th Whitney Stakes with the greatest of ease from five rivals.

Rated with fine judgment by Dave Gorman, the chestnut colt moved along leisurely for the first mile, but, after leaving the head of the stretch, the heavily backed favorite swept to the front, and coasted in with a margin of 3½ lengths to spare.

It was the fourth start of the year for the son of Count Fleet and his third triumph. Whitney netted $15,800 and increased Counterpoint's total to $284,575, of which $250,525 was amassed in 1951.

Mrs. H. P. Christiansen's Mandingo, a longshot, was second, outfinishing Greentree's high-weighted One Hitter by a length. Putnam stable's Combat Boots, tiring after the first seven furlongs, was fourth, a half - length farther away. Then came C. T. Chenery's Bryan G. and Lazy F Ranch's Out Point.

As expected, Counterpoint was a pronounced favorite of the crowd of 23,219 paying $2.90, $2.90 and $2.50.

The 50th running of the United States Hotel Stakes resulted in an impressive triumph for Ben F. King, the choice at $4.70 straight.

HOT SPRINGS SWEEPS PAIR FROM MONROE

BATHERS CLAIM DOUBLE-HEADER BY 6-2 AND 6-5

Final Of Series Today Will Be Played Under Lights

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Aug. 9—(Special)—The Hot Springs Bathers put a damper on the Monroe Sports' drive to nab a place in the first division of the Cotton States League and a playoff spot by sweeping both ends of a double header from the Louisiana outfit here tonight, 6 to 2 and 6 to 5.

Marvin Hatcher, starting pitcher for Monroe in the opener, and Jake Jacobs, reliefer for "Arky" Bowden in the nightcap, were the losing pitchers. Bob Zolliecoffer won the opener for the Spas with a neat three-hitter, and he also saw service with Jim Hogan in the second game that was won by Joe Grosso who pitched only the last inning.

Three home runs were hit for the night. Nelson Daehn, Monroe, and "Babe" Tucky, Hot Springs, hit homers in the first game, and Pat Saviano hit for the circuit with a mate on base for Monroe in the second.

The Bathers jumped on Marv Hatcher to finish him in three innings with a 5-1 lead and they coasted the rest of the way to take the opener despite the efforts of won his ninth of the season against eleven losses, while Hatcher, a ten - game winner, was charged with his eleventh defeat.

The Spas grabbed the opening-game lead when Jackie Bayles singled, Bob Passarella doubled, and Ed Jacobson singled both runners home. They added three more in the third with two out and "Tuffy" Owens on with a double. Bayles' single scored Owens. Passarella singled and Jacobson walked to load the bases. Fred Wasiluk grounded to George Andrews who missed the fielder's choice on Jacobson at second, Bayles scoring. Bill Shepard walked, forcing Passarella across. "Babe" Tuckey's fourth inning home run completed the Hot Springs' scoring.

Monroe's first - game scoring included one in the third when Nelson Daehn singled and went on second when Shepard dropped a throw from "Chico" Escudero and scored on a single by Johnny Jones, and the other in the fifth on Daehn's bases - empty homer.

Monroe grabbed the second-game lead in the third inning after two were out and Pat Saviano on second with a single and stolen base. A single by Daehn scored Saviano. Daehn then stole second, went to third on a Wasiluk overthrow, and scored on a single by Jesse Van Winkle.

The Bathers bounced right back in the bottom of the same frame to tie the score at 2-2. Shepard walked. Escudero doubled. Shepard scored as Long threw wide of first after taking a grounder by Tucky. Bayles walked, filling the bases, and a single by Passarella Bowden. Jacobs came in to retire the side.

Jacobs singled in the fifth, but was forced by Weber who stole second and scored on a single by Jones to send the Sports ahead again. Saviano's home run after Andrews had walked gave the Sports a 5-2 bulge in the sixth, but the Spas tied the count in the bottom of the sixth. Passarella singled and was forced by Ed Jacobson. Wasiluk doubled to score Jacobson, and a double by Bert Shepard brought Wasiluk home. Ed Baski, running for Shepard, scored the tying run when "Chip" Thomas dropped Escudero's fly into right field.

The winning run in the nightcap came when Jacobs hit Bayles with a pitched ball, he went to third on an infield hit by Passarella and scored on Wasiluk's squeeze bunt.

Arroz Captures La Jolla Handicap

DEL MAR, Calif., Aug. 9 (AP)—Mrs. Gordon Guiberson's Arroz, under the expert handling of Willie Shoemaker, came from far back to capture the $10,000 added La Jolla Handicap here today.

Shoemaker got Arroz into full stride at the far turn. He began to pick up horses, one, by one, saving ground next to the inside rail. At the eighth pole Shoemaker found a narrow opening between Stranglehold and Blue Trumpeter He gunned his mount and came on to the wire in front.

Arroz covered the mile in 1:37 2-5 under second high weight of 116 pounds. He paid $11.70, $5.40 and $5.90 The entry paid $3.80 and $3.80 for second and third.

British Sports Car In Record Run, Still Going

PARIS, Aug. 9 (AP)— A British-made Jaguar sports car set a four - day world's speed record today with an average of 162,824 kilometers (101.765 miles) an hour and still is going.

The 8-cylinder coupe, powered by the standard Jaguar XK120 motor with 3.5 liters piston displacement, covered 15,631.158 kilometers (9,769.47 miles) in the 96 hours.

The car is being driven in relays by British racing drivers Stirling Moss, Jack Fairman and Bert Hadley.

Driving in the last 24 hours has been through intermittent heavy rains. The previous world's speed record for four days was 144.788 kilometes (90.49 miles) an hour.

STATE AMERICAN LEGION PLAYOFF TO GO DISTANCE

Third And Deciding Game Billed Here This Afternoon

The Louisiana state championship American Legion Junior baseball series was all square today after the McCain-Richards Motors of Monroe defeated the Tulane Shirts of New Orleans, 10 to 5, here last night in the second game of the title playoffs. The Shirts won the opener at New Orleans Thursday night, 11 to 8.

The championship clincher is scheduled to be played at Legion Memorial Stadium here this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The players of both clubs as well as Legion baseball officials will be feted at a breakfast this morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Rendezvous with Bill McCain of the club-sponsoring McCain-Richards Motor Company as host.

Wayne Causey hurled the victory for Coach Woody Boyles' boys last night with Lucien Coniglio, a 12-game winner, taking his first defeat. It was the eleventh win for Causey who has lost only one.

Second Baseman Billy Hardy led Monroe's eight hit attack last night with three safe blows. The Tulane Shirts got nine hits.

The Tulane Shirts grabbed the lead in the first inning when Blanchini and LeBlanc hit singles, Kuchler walked to load the bases, and Deutschmann delivered a double that scored Blanchini and LeBlanc. Causey threw wild to third in attempting to pick-off Kuchler and the Shirts catcher came home to give the New Orleans boys a 3-0 bulge.

McCain-Richards' boys exploded for five runs in the second inning to go ahead. Causey walked and scored on a triple by Ike McMullen. Ray Rhymes was safe on an error, Vivian Pettit walked, and Billy Hardy singled to load the bases. Frankie Scalia came through with a solid clutch hit, scoring Rhymes and Pettit, with Hardy coming home on a miscue in left field by Puissegur.

The Monroe boys pushed over three more in the third for an 8-3 edge, Rymes walked, Hardy singled and both advanced on a Jackie Neal's fly into right field, Rhymes and Hardy scoring and Neal pulling up at third from where he scored when Birdshaw erred on a drive by Walter Bennett.

In the fourth inning Guy Gannaway slammed out a double, advanced as McMullen grounded out and scored on an error to give Monroe a 9-3 margin.

Deutschmann gave New Orleans a fourth run in the sixth inning when he doubled, advanced on a single by Traux, and scored on an error. Then in the eighth, Richard walked, was forced by Coniglio, and a double by Blanchini brought Coniglio home with run No. 5 for the Tulane Shirts.

Bennett furnished an eight inning run for Monroe to wrap up the scoring when he doubled, stole third and scored on Gannaway's sacrifice.

Allen Reports Russians Aped Aggie Cage System

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (AP)— Dr. F. C. (Phog) Allen, basketball coach at Kansas and assistant coach of the Olympic champion U. S. team, said the stalling game the Russians threw at the Americans in the final game "was an exact copy of the stall and freeze game used by Oklahoma A. and M."

He added "that if they spent so much time and money just to study U. S. basketball styles, imagine what else they know about the U. S.?"

OGDEN, Utah, Aug. 9 (AP)— A dogged Rex Layne, bleeding in spurts from a lip cut which took five stitches to close, stormed to a 10-round decision over former world's heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles Friday night.

The close battle was run off at a fast pace and although there were no knockdowns and no really staggering blows delivered, both fighters appeared well worn at the end. Layne weighed 195, Charles 190.

The decision, received with ire in the Charles camp, was given by another former world's champion, Jack Dempsey, referee and sole judge. As Dempsey raised Layne's hand in victory, two deluges burst forth, both of natural origin.

Jake Mintz, bespectacled manager of the Cincinnati Negro, and a thunderstorm vied with one another for the attention of Dempsey and an estimated 23,000 fans under the clouds over Ogden Stadium.

Dempsey turned his back on both while the storm and Mintz raged Jake's testimony carrying such phrases as "this is the lousiest decision I've ever seen. . . it was a political steal. . .Dempsey is a thief."

A number of ringside observers were in mild agreement with Mintz' general thesis that Charles might have had the edge. Dempsey scored it seven rounds even, with two for Layne and one for Charles.

Layne was credited by the Manassa Mauler with being the aggressor. The 195-pound Lewiston, Utah. fighter did attempt to carry the fight to Charles most of the time. But Charles all too often caught the slower Utah boy with — if not zipping — at least swift lefts.

Rex also displayed a left, which the crowd liked immensely. Heretofore he has used that paw as though it had gout. Combining this new weapon with his usually potent right, Layne managed to jolt Charles several times early in the fight before he began his lunging body (his own) attack on Charles, massaging Charles' upper chest and face with his head and shoulders.

Louisiana's Tarasovic Groomed For Offense, Defense

DELAFIELD, Wis., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The College All-Stars, less than a week away from the annual game in Chicago with the professional football champions, boast a squad that has no apparent weaknesses.

Two weeks of virtual day - long practice sessions for the Aug. 15 Soldier Field encounter with the Los Angeles Rams have left the coaching staff optimistic.

There has been only one serious injury and, despite a great amount of secrecy surrounding practices, insiders report the squad has caught on rapidly to Bobby Dodd's T-offensive and tricky defense.

The charity game is the 19th in an unbroken series going back to 1934. Of 18 games played, the All-Star collegians have won six, lost ten and tied two.

Dodd, the Georgia Tech mentor who was chosen head coach of the All-Stars for this year's game, has the usual quota of All-Americas of every hue, description and position on his squad of 54.

Dodd and his assistants are openly enthusiastic about the efficiency and depth displayed so far in every position — offensively and defensively. They don't find any real weaknesses anywhere.

They actually haven't expected any. Just about every 1951 college senior that shone on the gridiron is available to them. Still, that's been the case in all of the games and the All-Stars have lost more than they've won.

The problem isn't — and never has been — manpower. It's mainly a question of taking a half hundred odd football stars, some of them already legendary campus heroes, and fashioning from this conglomeration a workable foot - ball machine. And there isn't much time.

Whether the obvious man-for-man brilliance of this 1952 assemblage welded somehow into a team, will be up to the crushing precision of the Los Angeles powerhouse can't possibly be known until next Friday night.

Meanwhile, Dodd has just about decided on the makeup of his first-line squad. Only a few men will share both offensive and defensive assignments.

With passing expected to be the main offensive weapon, Dodd has three T-formation experts on call, Babe Parilli of Kentucky, Darrell Crawford of Georgia Tech and Bill Wade of Vanderbilt.

Doing most of the receiving at end, it is believed, will be Bill McColl of Stanford, Darrell Brewster of Purdue, Bill Howton of Rice and Bob Carey of Michigan State.

If Dodd crosses up the experts and concentrates on a running game, you can look for Ed Modzelewski, the "Mighty Mo" of Maryland, to be doing most of the heavy work at fullback. Bill Reichhardt of Iowa and Ollie Matson of San Francisco, a recent addition from the Olympic squad, are sure to help out.

Vic Janowicz of Ohio State and Hank Lauricella of Tennessee have proved they can run with anybody at left half. Janowicz probably will handle the punting and other toe work.

If there is one position on the squad that outshines others in personnel, it is the difficult right half-back post, which boasts a number of highly capable runners. These include Hugh McElhenny of Washington, Johnny Karras of Illinois and Al Dorow of Michigan State. Dorow is a converted quarterback and an excellent blocker.

The burden of the offensive tackle-to-tackle duties probably will fall on Tom Johnson of Michigan and Marion Campbell of Georgia, tackles; Don Coleman of Michigan State and Don MacRae of Northwestern, guards, and Doug Mosley of Kentucky and Bob Griffin of Arkansas, centers.

Defensively, Dodd probably will field a line that averages 215 pounds. Hal Faverty of Wisconsin and Leo Sugar of Purdue have looked most impressive at the end slots and Bill Pearman of Tennessee, Bob Toneff of Notre Dame and Jim Weatherall of Oklahoma at tackle.

Les Richter of California and Jim Clark of Oregon State are leading the guard contingent. The squad apparently has lost guard Jim MacKenzie of Kentucky, who suffered a fractured ankle in practice. His was the only serious injury to date.

Center George Tarasovic of Louisiana State appears to have one linebacker position cinched and may be one of the few squad members to play offensively. Chuck Boerio of Illinois and Keith Flowers of Texas Christian are tabbed to share the other line - backing position.

Among backs expected to perform mostly on defense are John Petitbon of Notre Dame, Bert Rechichar of Tennessee, Frank Gifford of Southern California and Bobby Dillon of Texas.

BOSSES OF S. E. C. GATHER MONDAY

Believe Case Of Kentucky To Be Taken Up Again

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 9. (AP)—The Southeastern Conference executive committee will meet in Birmingham, Monday, presumably to resume its hearing of charges that the University of Kentucky violated conference regulations in its athletic program.

The committee apparently had sought to meet with no advance publicity but a Louisville sports editor wrote last night that a meeting would be held.

Dr. H. C. Aderhold, president of the University of Georgia and a committee member, said today at Athens, Ga., "there will be a meeting of the committee at Birmingham Monday and I'll be there." He declined to say whether the session was for the purpose of taking up the Kentucky case again.

However, Dr. H. L. Donovan, president of Kentucky, said at Lexington, Ky., that he was going to Birmingham Monday.

S. E. C. Commissioner Bernie Moore was reported away from Birmingham and unreachable.

The executive committee met here July 25-26. The second day's meeting, with Dr. Donovan in attendance, extended 11 hours. At the end, there was no announcement on what the S. E. C. planned to do about the Kentucky charges.

The charges of over-emphasis in its athletic program stemmed from the National basketball scandals. New York Judge Saul Streit earlier this year severely reprimanded three former Kentucky basketball players who admitted accepting bribes from gamblers to control points in games. He gave them suspended sentences.

Braves Returning Crowe

BOSTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—First Baseman George Crowe of the Boston Braves was returned tonight to the Milwaukee American Association farm club, subject to 24-hour recall.

Crowe hit .253 for the Braves in 65 games this season, batting in 20 runs and totaling four homers.

STOCK CARS RUN AT SHREVEPORT

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 9 (Special)—With between 26 and 30 automobiles due to compete, Claude Crenshaw, the dare-devil stock car racer from Monroe, takes over promotion of modified stock car racing at the Fair Grounds race track here Sunday with a full afternoon's card.

Racers from throughout Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas and Mississippi are coming here for the show with "Promoter" Crenshaw promising something new in stock car racing when he presents a "surprise" race that will be so arranged that even the slower cars will have a chance at the prize.

For those fans who don't like dust settling all over them, Crenshaw has also instituted use of a chemical, which, when sprayed over the dust of the track, practically eliminates the dust hazard, making it easier to follow the races as cars running in a tight race won't be hidden in a cloud of dust.

Time trials are billed to begin at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon with the first of the official races beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

Crenshaw tonight announced that Ken Lashbrook, Greenville, Miss., winner of 15 main event races this season, will be at the wheel of "Red" Dowdy's fast No. 5 in the Sunday races.

Other top-notch racers due to compete have been listed as "Snuffy" Smith, Ernest Durr, Woody Ramsey, "Sparkplug" Sellers, Roxie Dancey, "Smiling" Gentry, Tommy Roseboro, Bill Raines, Tommy Fort, Ed Whitehurst, and a "stablemate" of Crenshaw's from Monroe, Cecil "Lucky" Hill.

The day's card will consist of two qualifying heats, consolation race, Australian pursuit race, semi-finals, and main event.

COUNTERPOINT COPS WHITNEY

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 9 (AP)— C. V. Whitney's Counterpoint, the horse of the year in 1951, showed a return to his best form today when he won the 25th Whitney Stakes with the greatest of ease from five rivals.

Rated with fine judgment by Dave Gorman, the chestnut colt moved along leisurely for the first mile, but, after leaving the head of the stretch, the heavily backed favorite swept to the front, and coasted in with a margin of 3½ lengths to spare.

It was the fourth start of the year for the son of Count Fleet and his third triumph. Whitney netted $15,800 and increased Counterpoint's total to $284,575, of which $250,525 was amassed in 1951.

Mrs. H. P. Christiansen's Mandingo, a longshot, was second, outfinishing Greentree's high-weighted One Hitter by a length. Putnam stable's Combat Boots, tiring after the first seven furlongs, was fourth, a half - length farther away. Then came C. T. Chenery's Bryan G. and Lazy F Ranch's Out Point.

As expected, Counterpoint was a pronounced favorite of the crowd of 23,219 paying $2.90, $2.90 and $2.50.

The 50th running of the United States Hotel Stakes resulted in an impressive triumph for Ben F. King, the choice at $4.70 straight.

COLUMBIA OPENS PRACTICE FRIDAY

Coach Cockran Has Eight Tide Lettermen Returning

COLUMBIA, La., Aug. 9.—(Special)—The Columbia High School football squad will begin fall workouts on August 15, and Coach Robert Cockran, beginning his second year at the helm of the Crimson Tide, has invited all boys planning to compete with either the junior or varsity squads to be present at the school gymnasium at 10:30 o'clock the morning of August 15.

The Crimson Tide lost ten lettermen from 1951, eight of them regular starters, but Coach Cockran has eight returning lettermen and a good crop of reserves upon which to build hopes of a winning combination.

Lettermen returning have been listed as Riser, center; Reitzell and Long, guards; McKnight, tackle; Bauman, end; and Wyant, Lafferty and Perry, backs.

Reserves showing promise of filling the gaps are McClanahan, Mann, Blakely and Rowland, ends; Gregory and Manley, tackles; Hancock and McGrew, guards; Alford, center; and Holladay, Brown and Ware, backs.

Riser, McKnight and Perry have been named co-captains for the 1952 season, while the junior team will be led by A. D. Crockett, and D. H. Kelly.

"We have a good group of boys who like to play football for the sake of the game and are willing to sacrifice for the team and the school," Coach Cockran declared. "With such a group we feel sure Columbia will win its share of games this season."

KELLY RETURNS WITH SURPRISE RELAY PARTNER

Will Headline Wrestling Program Here Tuesday Night

Jack and George Curtis will face "Irish" Jack Kelly again at Gus Kallio's Arena here Tuesday night but they'll come in blind insofar as Kelly's partner is concerned.

Kallio said yesterday that he had scheduled a tag team match with the Curtis brothers paired off against Kelly and his partner, but Kelly wouldn't tell Kallio who the partner will be.

Promoter Kallio, however, is expecting the main event to go along more scientific lines than it has in recent weeks since Kelly has promised that his unnamed partner wrestles in that style.

Kelly, who has been somewhat disgruntled over the reception that fans give him, told Kallio that they would like his partner. "It might be possible for us to beat the Curtis brothers and make them and the fans like it," said Kelly, who apparently gave the word "like" two different meanings in the one sentence, as he continued, "I know they are going to like my partner but somehow they don't seem to care about me. It might be because they don't know me too well yet."

Kallio was somewhat wary of the idea of a silent partner but agreed to the match when Kelly pointed out that if he failed to keep his bargain he could be barred from wrestling in the state.

"I'll take your word and the match is on," said Kallio, who added that he also would prefer to have Kelly liked by the fans.

The fans in Monroe have lustily booed Kelly from the first minute he landed in the local ring and since his rivalry with the Curtis brothers here in the past few weeks his popularity has not grown any higher.

The Curtis are tops with the local fans and the exhibitions that Kelly and his various partners have put on have not endeared him to the fans, nor is it likely to if Monroe's "favorites" are beaten in the match.

They will appreciate him more however if he does wrestle in a scientific match instead of the rough-and-tumble style he has shown here in nearly all of his matches. During the past few weeks his rivalry with the Curtis boys has grown in intensity and once he walked away from the ring with a bleeding forehead, but always seems to come back for more.

Although the fans probably wouldn't like to see the Curtis' beaten, a scientific match would leave them no grounds for complaint if Kelly and his partner did happen to come off the winners.

The tag team match, which will be the main event, will have a 90-minute time limit with two falls to win. Two 10-minute time limit preliminary bouts between opponents from the different teams will begin the show. The doors open at Kallio's at 7 o'clock and the first match begins at 8:15 o'clock.

MARK-YE-WELL WINS $103,325

American Derby Win Makes Calumet Million For Year

CHICAGO, Aug. 9 (AP)—Calumet farm's surprising Mark-Ye-Well today won the $148,400 American Derby at Washington Park almost as easily as he captured the equally rich Arlington Classic at Arlington Park three weeks ago.

The Calumet three-year-old piloted as usual by jockey Eddie Arcaro defeated Sub Fleet, second in the 1952 Kentucky Derby, by two lengths with Marcador third 11 lengths back of Sub Fleet and Blue Dare fourth.

The derby, run for the first time at a distance of a mile and an eighth was strictly a race between the Calumet star and Sub Fleet. Arcaro obviously regarding Sub Fleet as his only serious rival, bided his time going down the back stretch but when Jockey Steve Brooks brought Sub Fleet up along side going around the turn, Arcaro made his move. The two battled it around the stretch turn and most of the way down the long stretch, before the Calumet horse definitely went ahead.

Mark-Ye-Well's first prize today of $103,325 put the fabulous Calumet farm's earnings for the year over the million mark, the exact total being $1,091,282.

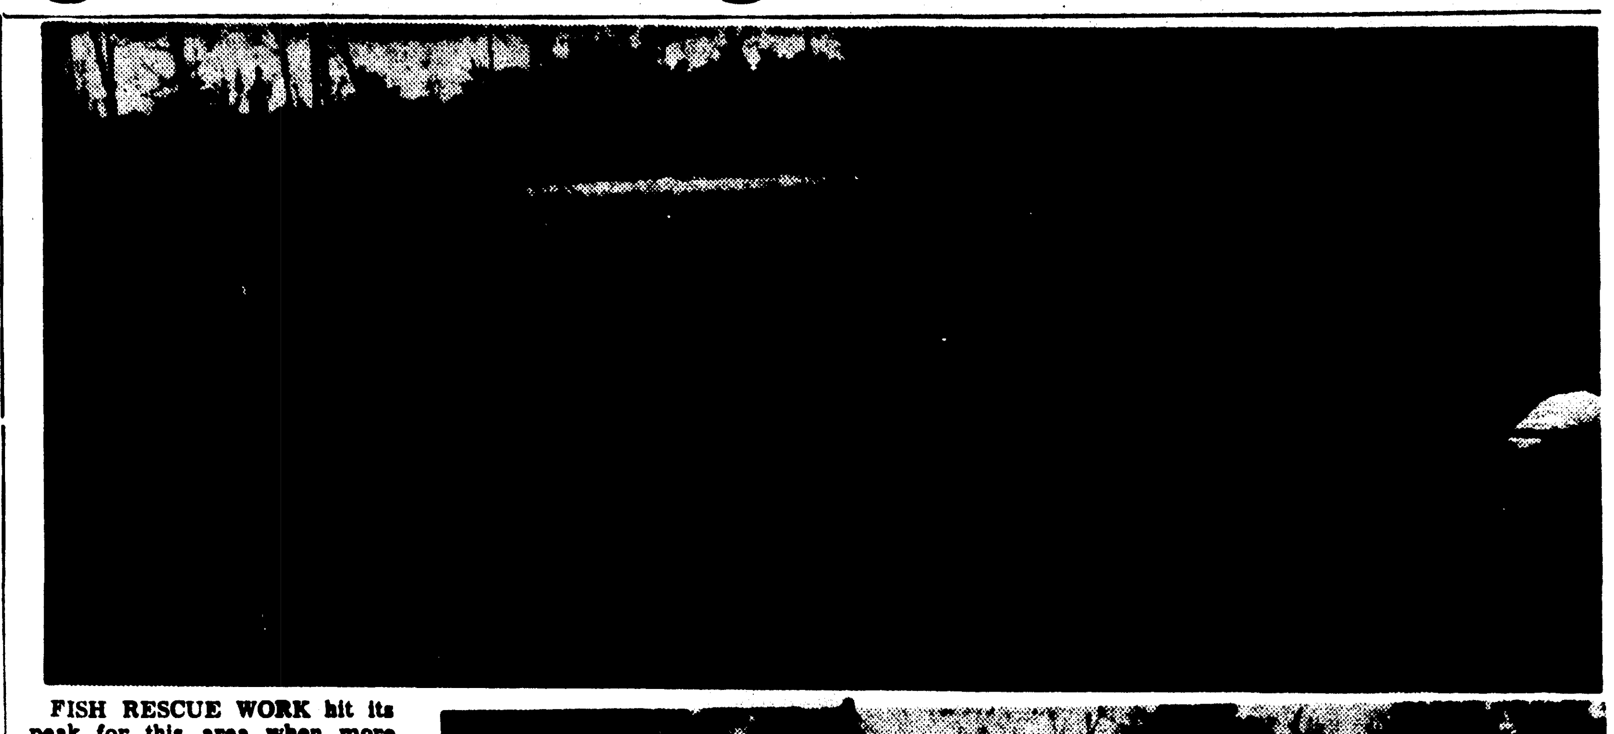
Mark-Ye-Well went to the post a 3 to 5 favorite and returned $3.40, $2.20 and $2.20. The place price on the Dixiana stable's Sub Fleet was $2.80 with $2.60 to show. Marcador paid $3.00 to show.



FISH RESCUE WORK hit its peak for this area when more than 555 000 game fish were taken from Boggy Beouf slough recently and placed into Bayou DeSiard. When the dam of a chemical retaining pool at a Bastrop mill broke recently, mill authorities, fearing fish in the slough might be affected, notified the department of Wildlife and Fisheries. A crew, under Jim Newellton, and the state's thermo truck was dispatched to the scene and are pictured at the top during seining operations. Many bass weighing up to five pounds and perch up to three pounds were saved. In the lower photo are specimens of loggerhead turtles captured in Ouachita parish waters by L. P. Buckley and Bobby Smith. The two turtles in hand weighed 135 and 130 pounds. This group alone weighed a total of 1,465 pounds. For the entire spring season, Buckley and Smith caught 26,000 pounds of turtle, according to J. B. Thoman, president of the Ouachita unit of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation, selling them to a New Orleans market for seven cents a pound.

JENNINGS COACH AT RAYVILLE HI

Hornets Already Busy Preparing For Football Season

RAYVILLE, La. Aug. 9 — (Special) — With the opening of football season still four weeks in the future, plus the arrival of the new coach, J. B. "Red" Jennings, the football fever has taken Rayville.

Coach Jennings has considerable experience in the coaching circles of Mississippi. This will be his first job in Louisiana, however. Jennings served four years in the army then took over his two years as basketball coach and as assistant football coach at New Albany, Miss. Greenville came the next year where he was basketball coach in 1950. He began two years of coaching at the Southwestern Junior College at Summit, Miss. There Coach Jennings guided basketball activities and served as line coach on that gridiron.

He holds a B. S. degree in education from the University of Mississippi and a Master's degree from the same school.

Coach Jennings is taking Lou Pitalo's place. Coach Pitalo has taken over the Leesville, La., coaching job.

Coach Jennings, who is married and has two children, will work with Coach M. R. Campbell while they both try to build the football of the Rayville High school.

Last week found 35 boys out with the age average of only 15 years. Last week's four days of conditioning revealed a remarkable team spirit. The full - speed ahead sign is on for Monday.

Tidwell Loses Batting Lead; Allen New Pacemaker; Jones Begins Climb

Seven-Point Gain Lifts Monroe First Baseman To .323

BY J. P. FRIEND

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark., Aug. 9. (Special)—The two - month - old domination of Greenwood's Johnny Tidwell over Cotton States League batters has been broken.

Rapping out 11 hits in 29 times at bat, Don Allen, Natchez first baseman, added four points to his batting average, enough to slip into the driver's seat with .334, passing both Ray Perry, El Dorado, and Tidwell who have been feuding for some time. The records include games of Tuesday night as compiled by the Friend News Service.

Perry lost three points with but nine hits in 29 attempts and had to be content with second place at .330.

Continuing his tobaggan that began three weeks ago, Tidwell was held to a mere five hits out of 28 tries and dropped to fourth position with .322, one point back of Monroe's sterling first baseman and All - Star game star, who perked to .323, a net seven.

Despite a loss of five points, Natchez Manager Troy Mitchell wound up in the No. 5 slot with .312. Hugh Glaze, Meridian infielder, is just a couple of points behind with .310. Hillis Layne, Pine Bluff pilot, is sporting .307. Bob Churchill, Greenville, rallied to hold his mace mark to .304. Tommy Davis, captain of the high-riding Meridian Millers, boosted his plate record to .302, while Ed Jacobson, Hot Springs, completes the ultra - select circle with an even .300.

Loss of the choice batting seat didn't alter Tidwell's monopoly of the specialized departments, though one is seriously endangered. He has the most doubles, 30; a lead of one in total bases over Jones, 185, and has driven in the most runs, 79. He is in a four-way triples tie with Jones, Bill Polubiatka, Greenville (.281) and George Wegerck, Pine Bluff (.217), each claiming 10.

Perry secured his slim lead in the homer derby with his 13th circuit smash in the first game of the week. Dolf Regelsky, Meridian shortstop, blasted a pair among a profitable 31-13 weekly chart, and is tied with El Dorado's Roxie Humberson, for second place with 11 apiece.

Gene Pompelia, Meridian, continues to lead in scoring with 94 tallies. Bill Carr, Natchez, passed his stolen base rival, Marty Devlin, Greenwood, during last period. The Indian speedster pilfered three to none for his leading competitor and leads 42-40.

Jones has a comfortable margin of 12 base hits over Tidwell in their battle for the lead in that phase. Jones has bagged 132, with Hal Walther, Natchez, taking over the runner-up with 121, one more than Tidwell. Bill Brightwell, Natchez, claims 114; Mitchell, 113. Regelsky and Bob Hale, Pine Bluff (.275) have racked up 112 connections; Nels Daehn, Monroe, 111.

Bobby Harrison lost his third game of the season, against 22 victories, when Monroe's ace, Darvin Chrisco, edged him in a thrilling 3-2 duel, Monday night. Chrisco fanned 18, one shy of the record set by Clarksdale's Bob Upton, back in 1948. The Sport star has 13-3. Three hurlers are bidding strongly for the 20-game goal with 17 wins: Pete Bardin, Natchez (17-6); John Feriza, Greenwood (17-6), and John Miskulin, Natchez lefty, 17-9. Sale of John to Birmingham for immediate delivery has blasted his chances of entering the hall.

NEVILLE'S SQUAD TO LEAVE TODAY FOR HOT SPRINGS

28 Boys Invited To Attend 2-Week Bengal Encampment

Coach Bill Ruple will head a squad of 28 Neville High School football prospects leaving here today for an encampment of two weeks at Vance Cottages on Lake Hamilton near Hot Springs, Ark.

Coach Ruple last night named the squad of Tiger gridders selected to the training camp roster which also includes assistant coaches, Richard Salter, Gus Petterson, Jim Coats, and George Luffey. Luffey, former Neville end and now a faculty member who is in the United States army, is getting a furlough and will meet the squad in Hot Springs for the first week of work. Luffey will work with Coach Ruple's ends.

The Tigers will leave here this morning at 5:30 o'clock. They'll return home Saturday, August 23 to polish up for their season opener at Alexandria on September 5 with the Bolton Bears.

The camp roster was announced by Coach Ruple as follows:

Jay Adams, Jack Gaines, Leland Sims, Fred Seiler, Bobby Shafto, Fred Allen, Mike Boggs, Ed Johnson, Rodney Statham, Bill Stevens, Max Mayes, Ken Abington, Jerry McWilliams, Skippy Portman, Miles Miller, Alton McCready, Jimmy Dennis, Joe Ledoux, Rex Dillingham, Bobby Joe Oden, Bill O'Kelly, Tommy Leos, Carl Wilder, Mike Cage, Pepper Slenker, Johnny Wendell, Jack Mahaffey, and Tommy Boyles.

Neville, which has made a practice in recent years of getting their boys away from home and in remote camps where training rules are rigidly enforced, has obtained exclusive charter of the Lake Hamilton camp for the full two weeks.

"The one thing that we are asking of the boys," Coach Ruple said, "is that they be ready, willing and able to enter into the spirit of the camp. There are many more boys I would like to have at the camp, but we are necessarily limited in number. The school reserves the full right to dismiss any chosen player for failure to cooperate or for other disciplinary reasons."

COLUMBIA OPENS PRACTICE FRIDAY

Coach Cockran Has Eight Tide Lettermen Returning

COLUMBIA, La., Aug. 9.—(Special)—The Columbia High School football squad will begin fall workouts on August 15, and Coach Robert Cockran, beginning his second year at the helm of the Crimson Tide, has invited all boys planning to compete with either the junior or varsity squads to be present at the school gymnasium at 10:30 o'clock the morning of August 15.

The Crimson Tide lost ten lettermen from 1951, eight of them regular starters, but Coach Cockran has eight returning lettermen and a good crop of reserves upon which to build hopes of a winning combination.

Lettermen returning have been listed as Riser, center; Reitzell and Long, guards; McKnight, tackle; Bauman, end; and Wyant, Lafferty and Perry, backs.

Reserves showing promise of filling the gaps are McClanahan, Mann, Blakely and Rowland, ends; Gregory and Manley, tackles; Hancock and McGrew, guards; Alford, center; and Holladay, Brown and Ware, backs.

Riser, McKnight and Perry have been named co-captains for the 1952 season, while the junior team will be led by A. D. Crockett, and D. H. Kelly.

"We have a good group of boys who like to play football for the sake of the game and are willing to sacrifice for the team and the school," Coach Cockran declared. "With such a group we feel sure Columbia will win its share of games this season."

KELLY RETURNS WITH SURPRISE RELAY PARTNER

Will Headline Wrestling Program Here Tuesday Night

Jack and George Curtis will face "Irish" Jack Kelly again at Gus Kallio's Arena here Tuesday night but they'll come in blind insofar as Kelly's partner is concerned.

Kallio said yesterday that he had scheduled a tag team match with the Curtis brothers paired off against Kelly and his partner, but Kelly wouldn't tell Kallio who the partner will be.

Promoter Kallio, however, is expecting the match to go along more scientific lines than it has in recent weeks since Kelly has promised that his unnamed partner wrestles in that style.

Kelly, who has been somewhat disgruntled over the reception that fans give him, told Kallio that they would like his partner. "It might be possible for us to beat the Curtis brothers and make them and the fans like it," said Kelly, who apparently gave the word "like" two different meanings in the one sentence, as he continued, "I know they are going to like my partner but somehow they don't seem to care about me. It might be because they don't know me too well yet."

Kallio was somewhat wary of the idea of a silent partner but agreed to the match when Kelly pointed out that if he failed to keep his bargain he could be barred from wrestling in the state.

"I'll take your word and the match is on," said Kallio, who added that he also would prefer to have Kelly liked by the fans.

The fans in Monroe have lustily booed Kelly from the first minute he landed in the local ring and since his rivalry with the Curtis brothers here in the past few weeks his popularity has not grown any higher.

The Curtis are tops with the local fans and the exhibitions that Kelly and his various partners have put on have not endeared him to the fans, nor is it likely to if Monroe's "favorites" are beaten in the match.

They will appreciate him more however if he does wrestle in a scientific match instead of the rough-and-tumble style he has shown here in nearly all of his matches. During the past few weeks his rivalry with the Curtis boys has grown in intensity and once he walked away from the ring with a bleeding forehead, but always seems to come back for more.

Although the fans probably wouldn't like to see the Curtis' beaten, a scientific match would leave them no grounds for complaint if Kelly and his partner did happen to come off the winners.

The tag team match, which will be the main event, will have a 90-minute time limit with two falls to win. Two 10-minute time limit preliminary bouts between opponents from the different teams will begin the show. The doors open at Kallio's at 7 o'clock and the first match begins at 8:15 o'clock.

MARK-YE-WELL WINS $103,325

American Derby Win Makes Calumet Million For Year

CHICAGO, Aug. 9 (AP)—Calumet farm's surprising Mark-Ye-Well today won the $148,400 American Derby at Washington Park almost as easily as he captured the equally rich Arlington Classic at Arlington Park three weeks ago.

The Calumet three-year-old piloted as usual by jockey Eddie Arcaro defeated Sub Fleet, second in the 1952 Kentucky Derby, by two lengths with Marcador third 11 lengths back of Sub Fleet and Blue Dare fourth.

The derby, run for the first time at a distance of a mile and an eighth was strictly a race between the Calumet star and Sub Fleet. Arcaro obviously regarding Sub Fleet as his only serious rival, bided his time going down the back stretch but when Jockey Steve Brooks brought Sub Fleet up along side going around the turn, Arcaro made his move. The two battled it around the stretch turn and most of the way down the long stretch, before the Calumet horse definitely went ahead.

Mark-Ye-Well's first prize today of $103,325 put the fabulous Calumet farm's earnings for the year over the million mark, the exact total being $1,091,262.

Mark-Ye-Well went to the post a 3 to 5 favorite and returned $3.40, $2.20 and $2.20. The place price on the Dixianna stable's Sub Fleet was $2.80 with $2.60 to show. Marcador paid $3.60 to show.

FISH RESCUE WORK hit its peak for this area when more than 555 000 game fish were taken from Boggy Beouf slough recently and placed into Bayou DeSiard. When the dam of a chemical retaining pool at a Bastrop mill broke recently, mill authorities, fearing fish in the slough might be affected, notified the department of Wildlife and Fisheries. A crew, under Jim Newellton, and the state's thermo truck was dispatched to the scene and are pictured at the top during seining operations. Many bass weighing up to five pounds and perch up to three pounds were saved. In the lower photo are specimens of loggerhead turtles captured in Ouachita parish waters by L. P. Buckley and Bobby Smith. The two turtles in hand weighed 135 and 130 pounds. This group alone weighed a total of 1,465 pounds. For the entire spring season, Buckley and Smith caught 26,000 pounds of turtle, according to J. B. Thoman, president of the Ouachita unit of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation, selling them to a New Orleans market for seven cents a pound.

JENNINGS COACH AT RAYVILLE HI

Hornets Already Busy Preparing For Football Season

RAYVILLE, La. Aug. 9 — (Special) — With the opening of football season still four weeks in the future, plus the arrival of the new coach, J. B. "Red" Jennings, the football fever has taken Rayville.

Coach Jennings has considerable experience in the coaching circles of Mississippi. This will be his first job in Louisiana, however. Jennings served four years in the army then took over his two years as basketball coach and as assistant football coach at New Albany, Miss. Greenville came the next year where he was basketball coach in 1950. He began two years of coaching at the Southwestern Junior College at Summit, Miss. There Coach Jennings guided basketball activities and served as line coach on that gridiron.

He holds a B. S. degree in education from the University of Mississippi and a Master's degree from the same school.

Coach Jennings, who is married and has two children, will work with Coach M. R. Campbell while they both try to build the football of the Rayville High school.

Last week found 35 boys out with the age average of only 15 years. Last week's four days of conditioning revealed a remarkable team spirit. The full - speed ahead sign is on for Monday.

Seven-Point Gain Lifts Monroe First Baseman To .323

BY J. P. FRIEND

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark., Aug. 9. (Special)—The two - month - old domination of Greenwood's Johnny Tidwell over Cotton States League batters has been broken.

Rapping out 11 hits in 29 times at bat, Don Allen, Natchez first baseman, added four points to his batting average, enough to slip into the driver's seat with .334, passing both Ray Perry, El Dorado, and Tidwell who have been feuding for some time. The records include games of Tuesday night as compiled by the Friend News Service.

Perry lost three points with but nine hits in 29 attempts and had to be content with second place at .330.

Continuing his tobaggan that began three weeks ago, Tidwell was held to a mere five hits out of 28 tries and dropped to fourth position with .322, one point back of Monroe's sterling first baseman and All - Star game star, who perked to .323, a net seven.

Despite a loss of five points, Natchez Manager Troy Mitchell wound up in the No. 5 slot with .312. Hugh Glaze, Meridian infielder, is just a couple of points behind with .310. Hillis Layne, Pine Bluff pilot, is sporting .307. Bob Churchill, Greenville, rallied to hold his mace mark to .304. Tommy Davis, captain of the high-riding Meridian Millers, boosted his plate record to .302, while Ed Jacobson, Hot Springs, completes the ultra - select circle with an even .300.

Loss of the choice batting seat didn't alter Tidwell's monopoly of the specialized departments, though one is seriously endangered. He has the most doubles, 30; a lead of one in total bases over Jones, 185, and has driven in the most runs, 79. He is in a four-way triples tie with Jones, Bill Polubiatka, Greenville (.281) and George Wegerck, Pine Bluff (.217), each claiming 10.

Perry secured his slim lead in the homer derby with his 13th circuit smash in the first game of the week. Dolf Regelsky, Meridian shortstop, blasted a pair among a profitable 31-13 weekly chart, and is tied with El Dorado's Roxie Humberson, for second place with 11 apiece.

Gene Pompelia, Meridian, continues to lead in scoring with 94 tallies. Bill Carr, Natchez, passed his stolen base rival, Marty Devlin, Greenwood, during last period. The Indian speedster pilfered three to none for his leading competitor and leads 42-40.

Jones has a comfortable margin of 12 base hits over Tidwell in their battle for the lead in that phase. Jones has bagged 132, with Hal Walther, Natchez, taking over the runner-up with 121, one more than Tidwell. Bill Brightwell, Natchez, claims 114; Mitchell, 113. Regelsky and Bob Hale, Pine Bluff (.275) have racked up 112 connections; Nels Daehn, Monroe, 111.

Bobby Harrison lost his third game of the season, against 22 victories, when Monroe's ace, Darvin Chrisco, edged him in a thrilling 3-2 duel, Monday night. Chrisco fanned 18, one shy of the record set by Clarksdale's Bob Upton, back in 1948. The Sport star has 13-3. Three hurlers are bidding strongly for the 20-game goal with 17 wins: Pete Bardin, Natchez (17-6); John Ferizs, Greenwood (17-6), and John Miskulin, Natchez lefty, 17-9. Sale of John to Birmingham for immediate delivery has blasted his chances of entering the hall.

NEVILLE'S SQUAD TO LEAVE TODAY FOR HOT SPRINGS

28 Boys Invited To Attend 2-Week Bengal Encampment

Coach Bill Ruple will head a squad of 28 Neville High School football prospects leaving here today for an encampment of two weeks at Vance Cottages on Lake Hamilton near Hot Springs, Ark.

Coach Ruple last night named the squad of Tiger gridders selected to the training camp roster which also includes assistant coaches, Richard Salter, Gus Petterson, Jim Coats, and George Luffey. Luffey, former Neville end and now a faculty member who is in the United States army, is getting a furlough and will meet the squad in Hot Springs for the first week of work. Luffey will work with Coach Ruple's ends.

The Tigers will leave here this morning at 5:30 o'clock. They'll return home Saturday, August 23 to polish up for their season opener at Alexandria on September 5 with the Bolton Bears.

The camp roster was announced by Coach Ruple as follows:

Neville, which has made a practice in recent years of getting their boys away from home and in remote camps where training rules are rigidly enforced, has obtained exclusive charter of the Lake Hamilton camp for the full two weeks.

"The one thing that we are asking of the boys," Coach Ruple said, "is that they be ready, willing and able to enter into the spirit of the camp. There are many more boys I would like to have at the camp, but we are necessarily limited in number. The school reserves the full right to dismiss any chosen player for failure to cooperate or for other disciplinary reasons."

HOMERS IN 10TH INNING GIVE SOX 3 TO 1 TRIUMPH

Dick Gernert, Dom DiMaggio Collect Pay-off Clouts

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (AP)— An exceptional relief performance by 42-year-old Al Benton and tenth-inning homers by Dick Gernert and Dom DiMaggio off Johnny Sain carried the Boston Red Sox to a 3-1 victory over the New York Yankees before a crowd of 34,277 today.

The win was Boston's seventh in 11 meetings with New York, the Sox being the only team to hold a season edge on the champions.

Ronnie Gallien hurled four - hit ball for United Gas yesterday and shut out Palace, 3-0. Gallien set down nine Palace men on strikes to run his total strikeouts for the season to 99 and win the league strikeout championship. Shelby collected the big blow for United Gas, a bases-empty homer. Jeep Sanders tripled for the winners. Freddie Southerland lost his second game of the season against nine wins for Palace. Lawson was the catcher for United Gas, with McKellar holding down the backstop position for United Gas.

Olcott-Stone set Reed Refrigeration down, 5-3, on the three-hit pitching of Howell. Robert Perkins, holder of the league batting championship, doubled a run in to lead Reed Refrigeration on hits. Lowery was the catcher for Olcott-Stone, with Altick and Linder splitting the hurling chores for Reed, and McDonald filling in behind the plate.

Lanny Johnson fanned 15 men and gave up only two safeties to give KNOE their first win of the second half of play, a 5-2 decision over Lennon Motors. Sonny Harper, with a homer and a single, was the big gun for KNOE. Bacon also collected two safeties for the winners. Lolley struck the big blow for Lennon, a triple. Losing battery was Webb, who relieved nine-year-old L. M. Welch in the fifth with the score knotted 2-2, and Fields. Harper was the catcher for KNOE.

U. S. CUPPERS WIN ZONE NET CROWN

Clinch Semi-Final Appearance By Beating Canadians

MONTREAL, Aug. 9 (AP)— The United States today won the final round of the North American zone Davis Cup today defeating Canada in doubles to win the tie in three straight victories.

The team of Vic Seixas, Philadelphia and Herb Flam, Beverly Macken and Lorne Main 6-3, 3-6 6-3, 6-4. Yesterday Flam defeated Henri Rochin 6-2, 8-6, 6-2 and Seixas defeated Main 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.

Two singles matches will be played tomorrow, but their outcome cannot effect the outcome of the best of-five series. Bob Perry will play Macken and Rochon will take on Seixas.

Both teams today put on brilliant displays of tennis, the Americans winning mainly by breaking through the weaker services of both Macken and Main at vital moments.

Both teams volleyed well, and if anything, the Canadians played a better net game, particularly when they were able to force the Americans to the baseline.

This is the ninth time the Canadians have met and lost to the United States.

The United States now takes on the winner of an Italy-India series for the right to challenge Australia, present holder of the cup.

Canada defeated Mexico in straight matches last week and the Americans put out Japan and Cuba to reach the zone final.

2 MORE WORLD MARKS BEATEN

Americans Shine In Hurdles, Mile Relay Events

LONDON, Aug. 9. (AP)—America's Olympic athletes, led by Charley Moore and a speed - burning mile relay team, whirled through a slashing rain today to better two world records and capture 15 of 19 events in the British Track and Field Games in White City Stadium.

Moore, 23 - year - old former Cornell University star, won the 440 - yard hurdles in the sparkling time of 51.6 seconds. This topped the listed world mark of 51.9 seconds, set by Italy's Armando Filiput in Milan on Oct. 8, 1950.

Despite the abominable weather conditions, the mile relay record also fell — a victim of the churning feet of Gene Cole, J. W. Mashburn, Reggie Pearman and Mal Whitfield.

The American quartet sped the distance in 3 minutes 8.8 seconds. The University of California holds the listed record of 3 minutes 9.4 seconds, set June 27, 1941, at Los Angeles.

The Americans were pressed all the way by Jamaica, which also topped California's mark, by turning in a 3:09.2 clocking. This was the same Jamaican team which startled the track world by winning the 1,600 - meter relay (a few feet less than a mile) in the Olympic games in the almost unbelievable time of 3:03.9.

Today the result was reversed. Whitfield, 800 - meter Olympic champion, fought off Herb McKenley's last leg threat and finished a yard in front. The other Jamaicans on the team were Art Wint, Leslie Laing and George Rhoden.

Individual legs for the Americans were announced as 47.1 for Cole, 48.1 for Mashburn, 46.3 for Pearman and 40.3 for Whitfield. The The Jamaica split times were not announced.

Moore, Olympic 400 - meter hurdles champion, ran all by himself and on a track made sodden by incessant rains. His performance is subject to ratification by the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

Pearman warmed up for the relay effort by winning an 880 yard race in the fair time of 1:53.8. Whitfield captured an invitation 440 in 47.2 to defeat Cole and McKenley, while Mashburn surprised by edging out Rhoden and Wint in another 440 in the same time.

Lindy Remigino of Manhattan, who seems set on proving that his Olympic 100 meters victory was no fluke, won the 100 yards today in 9.8 seconds. He did 9.7 in a heat. In the final, he finished inches ahead of Emmanuel McDonald Bailey of Britain Jim Gathers of the U. S. air force and Art Bragg of Morgan State.

Bud Held, Los Angeles, who failed to place in the Olympic javelin competition, uncorked one of the year's best heaves, 240 feet 11 ½ inches, for a British all-comers record.

Milton Campbell, 18 - year - old Plainfield, N. J., schoolboy who was second in the Olympic decathlon, turned in the good time of 14.2 to win the 120 yards high hurdles race. He then placed second by inches to Meredith Gourdine of Cornell in the 220 lows, both being timed in 24.2.

Parry O'Brien, from the Los Angeles A. C., won the shot put with a heave of 54 feet 8¼ inches.

THREE WAY BATTLE

RUSTON, La. Aug. 9 (Special)—Farmerville's victory over Ruston last week assured the Minden Redbirds of the 1952 Big Eight championship. Ruston, Bernice and Homer will have a battle-royal for second, third and fourth places in the Shaughnessey playoff. Although Farmerville is out of the running for a Shaughnessey berth, they are making it tough for the leaders. Bastrop forced Homer for 10 innings and lost by a 3-2 score to Minden. Dubach, with star-pitcher Buck Bradberry, is battling all the way.

Sox games will be played this week before the Shaughnessey playoff starts Saturday. Minden will be at Bernice Monday night, Ruston at Homer on Tuesday, Farmerville at Bastrop on Tuesday, Bastrop at Ruston on Wednesday and Dubach at Bernice and Farmerville at Homer on Thursday. The Shaughnessey playoff will find Minden at home Saturday night, playing against the fourth place club — Ruston, Bernice or Homer.

SLO-MO- IV WINS GOLD CUP RACE

Miss Pepsi Explodes, Driver Bill Cantrell Injured

SEATTLE, Aug. 9 (AP) — A lone boat on a barren course, Seattle's Slo-Mo - Shun IV, won the Gold Cup today after five other speed boats conked out. One exploded and injured driver Bill Cantrell.

The victor failed to finish the first heat when she lost a propeller on the fifth lap. Her sister ship and defending champion, the Slo-Mo-Shun V, also of Seattle, blew a cylinder on the sixth lap and had to quit the race.

Mechanics quickly switched props from the V to the IV and handsome Stanley Dollar piloted the 1950 champion back into the throne room of speed boat racing.

Her triumph came after Chuck Thompson had driven the gigantic Miss Pepsi to a new 30-mile speed record of 101.024 miles an hour in the opening heat.

But Miss Pepsi dropped out of the running in the first lap of the second heat, a minute after the Such Crust blew up. Of the other two boats which started, Miss Great Lakes II split a gear box the second time around the course, and Hurricane IV was stopped by engine trouble in the fourth lap of the third and final heat.

Cantrell had placed third behind Pepsi and Hurricane in the first heat and hit the starting line well up with the leaders at the beginning of the second 30-mile tour. As the Crust entered the first turn she exploded, throwing Cantrell overboard and hurling debris high in the air.

The driver was picked up from the water in a matter of seconds by a coast guard patrol boat and rushed to the hospital. It was reported at the hospital that Cantrell had third degree burns on the nose and second degree burns on body and arms. His condition was reported satisfactory.

Not one of the six entries finished all three heats. Half the field was out after six laps of the

VOLS TO PLAY EUREKA

The West Monroe Vols of the Delta League will tangle with Eureka at 3 p. m. today at the West Monroe playgrounds. A meeting will be held at 8 p. m. Monday at Hinton's Barbershop in West Monroe. All Delta League managers are urged to attend and bring along their scorebooks.

H AND W SPORTS WIN

Hunt and Whitaker defeated Huttig, Ark. at Cloyd's Park, 12-3 behind the four-hit pitching of Dick Howard. J. N. Foster and Junior Martin collected three for four each. Foster did the catching for Hunt and Whitaker. Battery for Huttig was Thomas and Wheeler. Manager Myers will send his Sports against Eros in a double-header in the Delta League today. This will be the last game of the season before the playoffs, and Hunt and Whitaker is still holding on to the top spot.

Ferrier Maintains Runner-Up Slot At Tam O'Shanter

CHICAGO, Aug. 9 (AP)— Lew Worsham, jut-jawed 1947 U. S. Open champion, refused to crumble under pressure and blazed a five-under-par 67 today for a pace-setting 203 at the 54-hole mark of the $90,000 World Championship of golf.

Worsham's third-round 35-32 as the tension increased in the chase for golf's greatest first prize, $25,000, left him 13 strokes under par for the distance.

But Ferrier, keen - putting giant from San Francisco, crumbled for a 73, straying one-over-par on each of the last three holes. for a runner - up total of 207, three strokes behind Worsham.

Sharing second spot with Ferrier was Pete Cooper, White Plains, N. Y., a potato trucker in his youth, who banged a 70.

Argentine Roberto de Vicenzo, Buenos Aires, nailed fourth spot at 208. Playing in the same final threesome with the ballooning Ferrier, De Vicenzo settled for 71.

Six strokes behind Worsham at 209 were Henry Ransom, transplanted Texan now registered from Chicago, and 1952 U. S. Open Champion Julius Boros.

JAMESON HEADS WOMEN'S EVENT

Patty Berg Three Stroke Off In 'World' Tourney

CHICAGO, Aug. 9 (AP)— Texan Betty Jameson of San Antonio today clung to a three stroke lead over Patty Berg at the end of 54 holes in Tam O'Shanter's "world championship" for women pros with a 224 total, four under par.

Miss Jameson, the 1947 Women's National Open champion, ballooned to a 40 on the front nine and came back in 39 for a third round 79 against standard 38-38—76.

Miss Berg held second place with 37-41—78 and a tally of 227. One 6 and four 5's wrecked the little redhead's chances to gain the lead on the last nine as she struggled with a temperamental putter.

Louise Suggs was third in the chase for a $5,000 first prize with 230. The petite Atlanta pro coupled 39-38—77 today.

The leaders;

Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Tex. 72-73-79—224.
Patty Berg, Chicago 73-76-78—227.

HOMERS IN 10TH INNING GIVE SOX 3 TO 1 TRIUMPH

Dick Gernert, Dom DiMaggio Collect Payoff Clouts

The win was Boston's seventh in 11 meetings with New York, the Sox being the only team to hold a season edge on the champions.

TIGERS DROP CHISOX

CHICAGO, Aug. 9 (AP)— The Detroit Tigers, behind the steady, five - hit pitching of veteran lefty Hal Newhouser, today defeated the Chicago White Sox, 6-1. It was Newhouser's fifth triumph against seven losses. The Sox used Marv Grissom, Bill Kennedy and Skinny Brown, with the loss going to Grissom.

Ronnie Gallien hurled four - hit ball for United Gas yesterday and shut out Palace, 3-0. Gallien set down nine Palace men on strikes to run his total strikeouts for the season to 99 and win the league strikeout championship. Shelby collected the big blow for United Gas, a bases-empty homer. Jeep Sanders tripled for the winners. Freddie Southerland lost his second game of the season against nine wins for Palace. Lawson was the catcher for United Gas, with McKellar holding down the backstop position for United Gas.

Olcott-Stone set Reed Refrigeration down, 5-3, on the three - hit pitching of Howell. Robert Perkins, holder of the league batting championship, doubled a run in to lead Reed Refrigeration on hits. Lowery was the catcher for Olcott-Stone, with Altick and Linder splitting the hurling chores for Reed, and McDonald filling in behind the plate.

Lanny Johnson fanned 15 men and gave up only two safeties to give KNOE their first win of the second half of play, a 5-2 decision over Lennon Motors. Sonny Harper, with a homer and a single, was the big gun for KNOE. Bacon also collected two safeties for the winners. Lolley struck the big blow for Lennon, a triple. Losing battery was Webb, who relieved nine-year-old L. M. Welch in the fifth with the score knotted 2-2, and Fields. Harper was the catcher for KNOE.

U. S. CUPPERS WIN ZONE NET CROWN

Clinch Semi-Final Appearance By Beating Canadians

MONTREAL, Aug. 9 (AP)— The United States today won the final round of the North American zone Davis Cup today defeating Canada in doubles to win the tie in three straight victories.

The team of Vic Seixas, Philadelphia and Herb Flam, Beverly Macken and Lorne Main 6-3, 3-6 6-3, 6-4. Yesterday Flam defeated Henri Rochin 6-2, 8-6, 6-2 and Seixas defeated Main 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.

Two singles matches will be played tomorrow, but their outcome cannot effect the outcome of the best-of-five series. Bob Perry will play Macken and Rochon will take on Seixas.

Both teams today put on brilliant displays of tennis, the Americans winning mainly by breaking through the weaker services of both Macken and Main at vital moments.

Both teams volleyed well, and if anything, the Canadians played a better net game, particularly when they were able to force the Americans to the baseline.

This is the ninth time the Canadians have met and lost to the United States.

The United States now takes on the winner of an Italy-India series for the right to challenge Australia, present holder of the cup. Canada defeated Mexico in straight matches last week and the Americans put out Japan and Cuba to reach the zone final.

2 MORE WORLD MARKS BEATEN

Americans Shine In Hurdles, Mile Relay Events

LONDON, Aug. 9. (AP)—America's Olympic athletes, led by Charley Moore and a speed - burning mile relay team, whirled through a slashing rain today to better two world records and capture 15 of 19 events in the British Track and Field Games in White City Stadium.

Moore, 23 - year - old former Cornell University star, won the 440 - yard hurdles in the sparkling time of 51.6 seconds. This topped the listed world mark of 51.9 seconds, set by Italy's Armando Filiput in Milan on Oct. 8, 1950.

Despite the abominable weather conditions, the mile relay record also fell — a victim of the churning feet of Gene Cole, J. W. Mashburn, Reggie Pearman and Mal Whitfield.

The American quartet sped the distance in 3 minutes 8.8 seconds. The University of California holds the listed record of 3 minutes 9.4 seconds, set June 27, 1941, at Los Angeles.

The Americans were pressed all the way by Jamaica, which also topped California's mark, by turning in a 3:09.2 clocking. This was the same Jamaican team which startled the track world by winning the 1,600 - meter relay (a few feet less than a mile) in the Olympic games in the almost unbelievable time of 3:03.9.

Today the result was reversed. Whitfield, 800 - meter Olympic champion, fought off Herb McKenley's last leg threat and finished a yard in front. The other Jamaicans on the team were Art Wint, Leslie Laing and George Rhoden.

Individual legs for the Americans were announced as 47.1 for Cole, 48.1 for Mashburn, 46.3 for Pearman and 40.3 for Whitfield. The The Jamaica split times were not announced.

Moore, Olympic 400 - meter hurdles champion, ran all by himself and on a track made sodden by incessant rains. His performance is subject to ratification by the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

Pearman warmed up for the relay effort by winning an 880 yard race in the fair time of 1:53.8. Whitfield captured an invitation 440 in 47.2 to defeat Cole and McKenley, while Mashburn surprised by edging out Rhoden and Wint in another 440 in the same time.

Lindy Remigino of Manhattan, who seems set on proving that his Olympic 100 meters victory was no fluke, won the 100 yards today in 9.8 seconds. He did 9.7 in a heat. In the final, he finished inches ahead of Emmanuel McDonald Bailey of Britain Jim Gathers of the U. S. air force and Art Bragg of Morgan State.

Bud Held, Los Angeles, who failed to place in the Olympic javelin competition, uncorked one of the year's best heaves, 240 feet 11 ½ inches, for a British all-comers record.

Milton Campbell, 18 - year - old Plainfield, N. J., schoolboy who was second in the Olympic decathlon, turned in the good time of 14.2 to win the 120 yards high hurdles race. He then placed second by inches to Meredith Gourdine of Cornell in the 220 lows, both being timed in 24.2.

Parry O'Brien, from the Los Angeles A. C., won the shot put with a heave of 54 feet 6¼ inches.

THREE WAY BATTLE

RUSTON, La. Aug. 9 (Special) —Farmerville's victory over Ruston last week assured the Minden Redbirds of the 1952 Big Eight championship. Ruston, Bernice and Homer will have a battle-royal for second, third and fourth places in the Shaughnessey playoff. Although Farmerville is out of the running for a Shaughnessey berth, they are making it tough for the leaders. Bastrop forced Homer for 10 innings and lost by a 3-2 score to Minden. Dubach, with star-pitcher Buck Bradberry, is battling all the way.

Sox games will be played this week before the Shaughnessey playoff starts Saturday. Minden will be at Bernice Monday night, Ruston at Homer on Tuesday, Farmerville at Bastrop on Tuesday, Bastrop at Ruston on Wednesday and Dubach at Bernice and Farmerville at Homer on Thursday. The Shaughnessey playoff will find Minden at home Saturday night, playing against the fourth place club — Ruston, Bernice or Homer.

SLO-MO- IV WINS GOLD CUP RACE

Miss Pepsi Explodes, Driver Bill Cantrell Injured

SEATTLE, Aug. 9 (AP) — A lone boat on a barren course, Seattle's Slo-Mo - Shun IV, won the Gold Cup today after five other speed boats conked out. One exploded and injured driver Bill Cantrell.

The victor failed to finish the first heat when she lost a propeller on the fifth lap. Her sister ship and defending champion, the Slo-Mo-Shun V, also of Seattle, blew a cylinder on the sixth lap and had to quit the race.

Mechanics quickly switched props from the V to the IV and handsome Stanley Dollar piloted the 1950 champion back into the throne room of speed boat racing.

Her triumph came after Chuck Thompson had driven the gigantic Miss Pepsi to a new 30-mile speed record of 101.024 miles an hour in the opening heat.

But Miss Pepsi dropped out of the running in the first lap of the second heat, a minute after the Such Crust blew up. Of the other two boats which started, Miss Great Lakes II split a gear box the second time around the course, and Hurricane IV was stopped by engine trouble in the fourth lap of the third and final heat.

Cantrell had placed third behind Pepsi and Hurricane in the first heat and hit the starting line well up with the leaders at the beginning of the second 30-mile tour. As the Crust entered the first turn she exploded, throwing Cantrell overboard and hurling debris high in the air.

The driver was picked up from the water in a matter of seconds by a coast guard patrol boat and rushed to the hospital. It was reported at the hospital that Cantrell had third degree burns on the nose and second degree burns on body and arms. His condition was reported satisfactory.

With only one boat left in running condition, tomorrow's second running of the Seafair Trophy race over this same Lake Washington course was called off. Rules for the Seafair demand an entry of at least four boats of the unlimited class.

Not one of the six entries finished all three heats. Half the field was out after six laps of the

H AND W SPORTS WIN

Hunt and Whitaker defeated Huttig, Ark. at Cloyd's Park, 12-3 behind the four-hit pitching of Dick Howard. J. N. Foster and Junior Martin collected three for four each. Foster did the catching for Hunt and Whitaker. Battery for Huttig was Thomas and Wheeler. Manager Myers will send his Sports against Eros in a doubleheader in the Delta League today. This will be the last game of the season before the playoffs, and Hunt and Whitaker is still holding on to the top spot.

REDS SOCK CARDS

CINCINNATI, Aug. 9 (AP) —Righthander Bubba Church received credit for his fourth win of the season here tonight as the Cincinnati Reds came from behind to humble the St. Louis Cardinals 12 to 3 in the third of a five - game series. Rain delayed the game for an hour and 10 minutes at the end of the fifth inning. Starter Joe Presko was charged with the loss.

Ferrier Maintains Runner-Up Slot At Tam O'Shanter

CHICAGO, Aug. 9 (AP)— Lew Worsham, jut-jawed 1947 U. S. Open champion, refused to crumble under pressure and blazed a five-under-par 67 today for a pace-setting 203 at the 54-hole mark of the $90,000 World Championship of golf.

Worsham's third-round 35-32 as the tension increased in the chase for golf's greatest first prize, $25,000, left him 13 strokes under par for the distance.

But Ferrier, keen - putting giant from San Francisco, crumbled for a 73, straying one-over-par on each of the last three holes, for a runner - up total of 207, three strokes behind Worsham.

Sharing second spot with Ferrier was Pete Cooper, White Plains, N. Y., a potato trucker in his youth, who banged a 70.

Six strokes behind Worsham at 209 were Henry Ransom, transplanted Texan now registered from Chicago, and 1952 U. S. Open Champion Julius Boros.

JAMESON HEADS WOMEN'S EVENT

Patty Berg Three Stroke Off In 'World' Tourney

CHICAGO, Aug. 9 (AP)— Texan Betty Jameson of San Antonio today clung to a three stroke lead over Patty Berg at the end of 54 holes in Tam O'Shanter's "world championship" for women pros with a 224 total, four under par.

Miss Jameson, the 1947 Women's National Open champion, ballooned to a 40 on the front nine and came back in 39 for a third round 79 against standard 38-38—76.

Miss Berg held second place with 37-41—78 and a tally of 227. One 6 and four 5's wrecked the little redhead's chances to gain the lead on the last nine as she struggled with a temperamental putter.

Louise Suggs was third in the chase for a $5,000 first prize with 230. The petite Atlanta pro coupled 39-38—77 today.

The leaders;

Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Tex. 72-73-79—224.
Patty Berg, Chicago 73-76-78—227.
Babe Zaharias, Tampa, Fla. 76-76-80—232.

LOUISIANA FORESTS GROWING FAST

Within the next 15 years it is expected that Louisiana forests, which for many years were devastated, will be replaced with fine new forests of pine. Foresters expect that Louisiana eventually will have a continuously adequate supply of timber.

15 YEARS WILL BRING FORESTS

Comparatively Short Span To Bring Tree Utopia In Louisiana

In 15 years Louisiana well may be the forester's Utopia, where tall, magnificent pine trees are everywhere. It means growing and planting an average of 100 million pine seedlings each year until 1967 — an increased production of more than 100 per cent over past years — but the Louisiana Forestry Commission thinks it can be done.

According to State Forester James E. Mixon, there are a million and a quarter acres of barren, cut-over lands in the state which should be planted in pine trees for economy's sake. These lands, Mixon said, either are being used to graze cattle unprofitably or not being used at all. Most of this type land is located in southwest Louisiana, but most every parish in the state is in need of some reforestation, he said.

In his annual report to the people, the state forester pointed out that nearly 120 million pine seedlings have been raised during the past five years by the commission. These young trees, along with 16 million raised by private industry during that time, were used for reforesting 190,000 acres in Louisiana.

Citizens will be proud to know that about 47 million more trees have been planted in the last five years than have been cut, he said.

"We expect to raise more than 50 million seedlings in our nurseries this year and more than 75 million next year," Mixon said. "In order to do this we need the cooperation of every landowner in the pine parishes this fall, which is our cone collection season," he explained. A total of 25,000 bushels of pine cones must be collected this year if the reforestation program is to be kept geared in high, he said.

Louisiana, which is famous for its cypress trees, appropriately is leading the nation in pioneering cypress reforestation, it was pointed out. A total of 2500 acres of swamp land has been planted in cypress this past year, which required production of a million and a half seedlings, ten times the number ever produced in any other state. The bulk of these were planted by the Rathborne Land and Lumber company on their lands near Choctaw.

Less than half as much acreage burned during the 1951-52 fiscal year as did the previous period, Mixon said. Fires totaled 7183 this past year ending on July 1, a decrease of about 1000 fires over the 8216 total given a year ago. Emphasizing that the past year's total was far from anything to brag about, the state forester blamed the continued forest fire epidemic chiefly on one thing: no rain. During 1951, an average of only 49.06 inches of rain fell over the state.

"In other words," Mixon said, "we ended 1951 with a 20-inch rainfall deficiency, which has grown worse in 1952. The ground is so dry that rains we get now do little good in moistening the dry, tinderbox litter on the forest floor."

The immense decrease in lost acreage is encouraging, however, he said, and reflects credit on the increased skill of the forest fire fighters, coupled with new and better equipment. The commission now has 95 towers and there are 225 state and cooperative, radio-equipped, mobile fire-fighting units in operation.

The state forester expressed some encouragement over prospects of a future hardwood program in the state. He said that the hardwood fires of Concordia parish which hit the headlines last fall have caused much anxiety in the hardwood parishes about the dangers of woods fires. A citizens' committee is now studying this area in an attempt to work out some plan of forest protection.

The commission increased its scope of service last fiscal year in conducting aerial surveys for insect damage. Damage by the sawfly was traced in the early part of the year, and the agency recently has completed a preliminary survey on the pine beetle in the Florida parishes.

Mixon began his sixth year in June as head of the state forestry agency, which is governed by a seven - man board of commissioners. Serving on the board are ex-officio members Ralph W. Hayes, director of the L. S. U. school of forestry, and Ernest Clements, commissioner of wildlife and fisheries; Chairman J. H. Anderson of Leesville; vice - chairman Q. T. Hardtner of Urania; H. M. Bennett of DeRidder; V. Matt Milam Sr. of Winnfield and Vertrees Young of Bogalusa.

For a pleasant cold soup for a hot weather meal, combine a can of condensed cream of celery soup, and can of condensed tomato soup, and 1½ cans (using soup can as measure) of milk. Chill for at least four hours and serve in chilled bowls. Garnish with minced parsley and accompany with cheese crackers.

L. T. I. CLASSES TO OPEN MONDAY

Superintendent A. L. Swanson has announced that the 1952-53 school semester will begin at Louisiana Training Institute on August 11. The school year will open early in order that the Christmas holidays and mid-term coincide. Many boys are allowed to visit their homes at Christmas each year and the boys who are eligible to remain at home thus do not need to return for the two or three weeks usually remaining when school begins in September.

Several new courses are to be offered at the school this year. The music program, missing for several years will again be offered. Ray T. Hinkie, experienced L. S. U. opera company as tenor soloist, will be the head of this department. Another new teacher will be Purvis E. Pesnell, who will teach high school English. Pesnell taught at Bonita high school last year and did graduate work at the University of Arkansas this summer.

The complete faculty is comprised of: Kermit L. Youngblood, principal and athletic director who will begin his thirteenth year at L. T. I. Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Bachman; Fred Lindsay, teacher of physical education and assistant coach; James B. Welch, industrial arts instructor; Claudia Miller, school secretary; Mrs. Margaret Ward; teacher of grades one through five; Cleven Daigle, Purvis E. Pesnell, high school English; and Ray T. Hinkie, music.

LOUISIANA FORESTS GROWING FAST

Within the next 15 years it is expected that Louisiana forests, which for many years were devastated, will be replaced with fine new forests of pine. Foresters expect that Louisiana eventually will have a continuously adequate supply of timber.

15 YEARS WILL BRING FORESTS

Comparatively Short Span To Bring Tree Utopia In Louisiana

In 15 years Louisiana well may be the forester's Utopia, where tall, magnificent pine trees are everywhere. It means growing and planting an average of 100 million pine seedlings each year until 1967 — an increased production of more than 100 per cent over past years — but the Louisiana Forestry Commission thinks it can be done.

According to State Forester James E. Mixon, there are a million and a quarter acres of barren, cut-over lands in the state which should be planted in pine trees for economy's sake. These lands, Mixon said, either are being used to graze cattle unprofitably or not being used at all. Most of this type land is located in southwest Louisiana, but most every parish in the state is in need of some reforestation, he said.

In his annual report to the people, the state forester pointed out that nearly 120 million pine seedlings have been raised during the past five years by the commission. These young trees, along with 16 million raised by private industry during that time, were used for reforesting 190,000 acres in Louisiana.

Citizens will be proud to know that about 47 million more trees have been planted in the last five years than have been cut, he said.

"We expect to raise more than 50 million seedlings in our nurseries this year and more than 75 million next year," Mixon said. "In order to do this we need the cooperation of every landowner in the pine parishes this fall, which is our cone collection season," he explained. A total of 25,000 bushels of pine cones must be collected this year if the reforestation program is to be kept geared in high, he said.

Louisiana, which is famous for its cypress trees, appropriately is leading the nation in pioneering cypress reforestation, it was pointed out. A total of 2500 acres of swamp land has been planted in cypress this past year, which required production of a million and a half seedlings, ten times the number ever produced in any other state. The bulk of these were planted by the Rathborne Land and Lumber company on their lands near Choctaw.

Less than half as much acreage burned during the 1951-52 fiscal year as did the previous period, Mixon said. Fires totaled 7183 this past year ending on July 1, a decrease of about 1000 fires over the 8216 total given a year ago. Emphasizing that the past year's total was far from anything to brag about, the state forester blamed the continued forest fire epidemic chiefly on one thing: no rain. During 1951, an average of only 49.06 inches of rain fell over the state.

"In other words," Mixon said, "we ended 1951 with a 20-inch rainfall deficiency, which has grown worse in 1952. The ground is so dry that rains we get now do little good in moistening the dry, tinderbox litter on the forest floor."

The immense decrease in lost acreage is encouraging, however, he said, and reflects credit on the increased skill of the forest fire fighters, coupled with new and better equipment. The commission now has 95 towers and there are 225 state and cooperative, radio-equipped, mobile fire-fighting units in operation.

The state forester expressed some encouragement over prospects of a future hardwood program in the state. He said that the hardwood fires of Concordia parish which hit the headlines last fall have caused much anxiety in the hardwood parishes about the dangers of woods fires. A citizens' committee is now studying this area in an attempt to work out some plan of forest protection.

The commission increased its scope of service last fiscal year in conducting aerial surveys for insect damage. Damage by the sawfly was traced in the early part of the year, and the agency recently has completed a preliminary survey on the pine beetle in the Florida parishes.

Mixon began his sixth year in June as head of the state forestry agency, which is governed by a seven-man board of commissioners. Serving on the board are ex-officio members Ralph W. Hayes, director of the L. S. U. school of forestry, and Ernest Clements, commissioner of wildlife and fisheries; Chairman J. H. Anderson of Leesville; vice-chairman Q. T. Hardtner of Urania; H. M. Bennett of DeRidder; V. Matt Milam Sr. of Winnfield and Vertrees Young of Bogalusa.

For a pleasant cold soup for a hot weather meal, combine a can of condensed cream of celery soup, and can of condensed tomato soup, and 1½ cans (using soup can as measure) of milk. Chill for at least four hours and serve in chilled bowls. Garnish with minced parsley and accompany with cheese crackers.

L. T. I. CLASSES TO OPEN MONDAY

Superintendent A. L. Swanson has announced that the 1952-53 school semester will begin at Louisiana Training Institute on August 11. The school year will open early in order that the Christmas holidays and mid-term coincide. Many boys are allowed to visit their homes at Christmas each year and the boys who are eligible to remain at home thus do not need to return for the two or three weeks usually remaining when school begins in September.

Several new courses are to be offered at the school this year. The music program, missing for several years will again be offered. Ray T. Hinkie, experienced L. S. U. opera company as tenor soloist, will be the head of this department. Another new teacher will be Purvis E. Pesnell, who will teach high school English. Pesnell taught at Bonita high school last year and did graduate work at the University of Arkansas this summer.

The complete faculty is comprised of: Kermit L. Youngblood, principal and athletic director who will begin his thirteenth year at L. T. I. Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Bachman; Fred Lindsay, teacher of physical education and assistant coach; James B. Welch, industrial arts instructor; Claudia Miller, school secretary; Mrs. Margaret Ward; teacher of grades one through five; Cleven Daigle, Purvis E. Pesnell, high school English; and Ray T. Hinkie, music.

religious message which is listened to by no telling how many thousand persons. Nearly every Sunday he supplies some Presbyterian pulpit in towns in North Louisiana, as another ecclesiastical contribution, and this does not begin to list the range of constructive interests of this energetic leader.

For many years, and at present, he is chaplain of the L. B. Faulk post, American Legion, active board member of the Ouachita parish chapter of Red Cross, and active in a wide range of civic enterprises that mean the building of a better community.

For years he has visited all hospitals and has brought cheer and hope to the bedside of the desperately ill. He still continues this activity.

He has barely any time to give to it, but just the same his new residence, the first he has owned in Monroe is being constructed and in another month he and his faithful wife will be living in an attractive home on Loop Road.

Mrs. E. R. Timmermann, 3105 South Grand, submits the following letter from her son Stanley, now with the public works division at Jeddah, Saudi Arabia. It is of so much interest that it is given to the public.

"Dearest Mother: Here is my first letter from Arabia. We arrived in Jeddah at 2 p. m. yesterday tired from the long trip.

"No one works today for it is Friday, when the people observe as their Sunday. These Moslem people cause confusion to non-Moslems.

"We had a wonderful trip over from New York. We stopped at Gander, Newfoundland to re-fuel and then flew direct to Paris, for an hour's stop, Zurich, Switzerland was the next place and I liked it best of all. Then we flew to Rome and that trip was wonderful. The Alps are snow-capped and so beautiful. We flew over Milan, Italy, a great industrial center; then over Pisa and I saw the leaning tower. Rome is a large beautiful city by air. We had an hour in Rome. Next we flew over ruins of Pompeii and saw Vesuvius, active volcano. It was erupting smoke and sparks and made me fear it might erupt at any time. At sunset we flew over the Isle of Capri and landed at Athens. I saw the Acropolis the Parthenon and the Temple of Jupiter.

"From Athens we flew across the Mediterranean to Cairo, Egypt, arriving at midnight. After checking in with the customs officials, we were driven to Heliopolis Palace Hotel where we spent the night,. It was a nice hotel, and I was shown to my room by an Arab in a red hat and long white robe. I got to take a 28 mile ride from the city to see the Spinx and the Pyramids.

"We flew across the desert. It is a horrible desolate country but very interesting. The Red Sea is not red at all for it is blue. We could see caravans of camels crossing the desert. The heat is fearful.

"Women are all veiled so one can not see what they look like. It seemed like 130 degrees but I found it was only 95."

On our press photographer's picture-taking outfit he has affixed this sign: "Don't stare at the Photographer—You may be nuts someday, too."

On a DeSiard Road bus, was a couple watching the scenery of northeast Louisiana with interest. They commented frequently aloud at what they saw. When in the 2000 block or thereabouts of DeSiard street, the wife (we suppose she was the wife)—Cried out to her husband:

"See those little things growing there wonder what they are:" Then she asked a man across the aisle: "Are those little things cotton when it is growing?" She was informed that she was correct. She thanked her informant and admitted that she is from Minnesota where no cotton grows.

Before the conference with the three House Republicans, Eisenhower headquarters announced that the general will fly to Boise, Idaho, Aug. 19 for a campaign conference with the Republican governors of 10 Western states.

The session, arranged at Eisenhower's request, will deal with the campaign aspects of Western area problems — including agriculture, reclamation, water power, and soil conservation.

The conference will be held at the office of Gov. Len Jordan of Idaho.

GOV. STEVENSON

merit to bringing Republicans into the Cabinet—as President Roosevelt did during World War II—but he has made no decision on such a step.

7. He would make an effort to re-establish the bipartisan approach to foreign policy.

Stevenson is ready to take a firmer stand for some form of fair employment enforcement than he has stated publicly, although he has not yet reached any conclusion on what the mechanics should be.

First, there must be a change in the Senate rules before any effective action can be taken toward civil rights legislation.

This is the rule which provides that a two-thirds vote of the Senate is necessary before debate can be shut off and a measure brought to the floor for a vote. It is under this rule that legislation — including civil rights bills—has been "talked to death."

Stevenson's feeling is at present the states should be given a reasonable time in which to work out the problem of fair employment practices without federal intervention.

But it also has become clear he is not willing to leave the matter to the states indefinitely even though he concedes that the states have made much progress.

First, there should be a change in the Senate rules so that a minority cannot block the majority by filibuster. Then, once this is accomplished, Congress should perhaps fix a time limit in which the states would have a chance to work out the problem in their own ways.

But if at the end of this period (and he has no fixed idea on how long it should be) some states have failed—then the federal government should act perhaps through some form of enforcement agency.

ARREST FOUR

KINDERGARTEN'S PLAN COMPLETE

Will Be Operated By West Monroe First Baptist Church

The First Baptist Church of West Monroe has announced that enrolments for the Kindergarten to be operated by the church will be taken Monday through Friday, from 8:30 to 12 and 1 to 5 p. m. The enrollment will be limited and parents desiring their children to attend the school are urged to register them in the church office next week.

To supervise the school Mrs. Lois White, who has for several years directed Kindergarten work, has been employed. Other competent teachers have been engaged to assist in the school.

Opening day of the school is September 5. From Monday through Friday, 8:30 to 12 noon, the school will be in session and youngsters 4 to 5 years of age are to be enrolled. Holidays observed by the parish schools will be observed by the kindergarten.

Operating on a non-profit basis the school has established a tuition of $15.00 per month. The school is to be conducted with a Christian atmosphere, without doctrinal teachings.

PUBLIC FORUM

Monroe, La.
Aug. 8, 1952

PROTESTS ARTICLE

To The Editor:

In your paper, The Monroe News-Star, dated August 5, 1952, on the front page under the title "Bancroft Printer Caught in Chain", an article was printed regarding an injury sustained by Zylous W. Cooper which contained several errors, and mis-statements.

One statement which your item carried stated that "18 stitches were required to close the wounds". This is a false statement. Also your item stated that he sustained injuries to other portions of his hand. This is not true. He sustained no other injuries other than those received to his index finger.

Your item also stated that it was while he was at this machine that a chain wrapped completely around the finger and almost jerked it from the socket. This is not true. There has been no socket injury or displacement.

I wish to inform you that the chain on this machine which caught Mr. Cooper's index finger can only be moved through manual operation by hand. It is not a part of the drive of the machine and is not connected to the power motor whatsoever. A hand wheel is operated by hand which has a sprocket on it, on which is the chain and by moving the hand wheel a roller is raised or lowered as the case requires in rewinding paper. Unless the hand wheel is moved by hand, the chain does not move. It is attached loosely and the injuries sustained by Mr. Cooper will not cause him to lose his left index finger which your August 5 article stated may be a possibility, and the chain did not wrap around Mr. Cooper's finger; only compressed or pinched his finger against the sprocket.

I request that you investigate this case personally. Contact Dr. Glenn T. Gallaspy, 305 Wood St., West Monroe, La., who attended and dressed the injury of Mr. Cooper. Your correction should be given the same prominence as the August 5 item on the front page.

Yours very truly,
T. O. Bancroft

(EDITOR'S NOTE: We are glad to publish Mr. Bancroft's letter and also to advise him as to the source of our information. This information was furnished our reporter by the wife of the accident victim, relayed directly from him whom we believe to be the logical person to furnish such information as to what occurred and what he was told about the condition of his hand.)

PLAYGROUND PROGRAM WILL END FRIDAY

The summer playground program, sponsored by the Monroe Recreation Department will come to a close this coming Friday noon. One of the outstanding features on the playgrounds this year has been the handcraft classes, held under the supervision of Mrs. Peggy Garnett.

Handcraft material is on display at The Palace for the white playgrounds and at Hoston's Bootery for the colored. The public is urged to go by and see some beautiful work done by the children of Monroe. This project is furnished free to the children and anything they make is theirs.

Many outstanding events were held during the summer, such as: bicycle parades, a baby show, a doll carriage show, hobby shows and an all day picnic, honoring the founder of playgrounds, Joseph E. Lee. Much credit for the success of the playgrounds go to the playground leaders and the parents for their cooperation in planning the program.

Last Friday all playgrounds had a hobby show with all kinds of hobbies on exhibit. Some of the girls had as their hobby, "washing dishes and cleaning house" while others had collections of shells, stamps, paintings, story books, knife, bottles, salt and pepper shakers and dolls.

Contest Winner Is Selected

Mrs. C. W. Oseland, 1507 Fairview avenue, was winner of Piggly Wiggly's saddled Shetland pony. Mrs. Oseland, who has no children, said she and her husband had not decided what to do with the gift, then added, humorously "Don't look a gift horse in the mouth."

Winner of the man's wrist watch was Mrs. Margaret Mathis, 401 Riverbend, while winner of the ladies wrist watch was Julius Greggs, Negro, 2905 Renwick St. But they solved the problem by swapping gifts.

WHEREVER YOU GO... WHATEVER YOU DO
Your Credit Record follows you

When you move into a new neighborhood, or from one city to another, your credit record, like a shadow, follows you.

If you have a good credit record, merchants and professional people who never saw or heard of you before will gladly open a charge account for you or arrange convenient terms for major purchases you want to make on a deferred basis. They know that if you paid your bills promptly in another neighborhood, or another city, you are worthy of their trust.

Your credit record is an open book, not only in your own community—but from coast to coast.

religious message which is listened to by no telling how many thousand persons. Nearly every Sunday he supplies some Presbyterian pulpit in towns in North Louisiana, as another ecclesiastical contribution, and this he does not begin to list the range of constructive interests of this energetic leader.

For many years, and at present, he is chaplain of the L. B. Faulk post, American Legion, active board member of the Ouachita parish chapter of Red Cross, and active in a wide range of civic enterprises that mean the building of a better community.

For years he has visited all hospitals and has brought cheer and hope to the bedside of the desperately ill. He still continues this activity.

He has barely any time to give to it, but just the same his new residence, the first he has owned in Monroe, is being constructed and in another month he and his faithful wife will be living in an attractive home on Loop Road.

Mrs. E. R. Timmermann, 3105 South Grand, submits the following letter from her son Stanley, now with the public works division at Jeddah, Saudi Arabia. It is of so much interest that it is given to the public.

"Dearest Mother: Here is my first letter from Arabia. We arrived in Jeddah at 2 p. m. yesterday tired from the long trip.

"No one works today for it is Friday, when the people observe as their Sunday. These Moslem people cause confusion to non-Moslems.

"We had a wonderful trip over from New York. We stopped at Gander, Newfoundland to re-fuel and then flew direct to Paris, for an hour's stop, Zurich, Switzerland was the next place and I liked it best of all. Then we flew to Rome and that trip was wonderful. The Alps are snow-capped and so beautiful. We flew over Milan, Italy, a great industrial center; then over Pisa and I saw the leaning tower. Rome is a large beautiful city by air. We had an hour in Rome. Next we flew over ruins of Pompeii and saw Vesuvius, active volcano. It was erupting smoke and sparks and made me fear it might erupt at any time. At sunset we flew over the Isle of Capri and landed at Athens. I saw the Acropolis the Parthenon and the Temple of Jupiter.

"From Athens we flew across the Mediterranean to Cairo, Egypt, arriving at midnight. After checking in with the customs officials, we were driven to Heliopolis Palace Hotel where we spent the night. It was a nice hotel, and I was shown to my room by an Arab in a red hat and long white robe. I got to take a 28 mile ride from the city to see the Spinx and the Pyramids.

"We flew across the desert. It is a horrible desolate country but very interesting. The Red Sea is not red at all for it is blue. We could see caravans of camels crossing the desert. The heat is fearful.

"Women are all veiled so one can not see what they look like. It seemed like 130 degrees but I found it was only 95."

On our press photographer's picture-taking outfit he has affixed this sign: "Don't stare at the Photographer—You may be nuts someday, too."

On a DeSiard Road bus, was a couple watching the scenery of northeast Louisiana with interest. They commented frequently aloud at what they saw. When in the 3000 block or thereabouts of DeSiard street, the wife (we suppose she was the wife)—Cried out to her husband:

"See those little things growing there wonder what they are:" Then she asked a man across the aisle: "Are those little things cotton when it is growing?" She was informed that she was correct. She thanked her informant and admitted that she is from Minnesota where no cotton grows.

household workers and several other categories.

Before the conference with the three House Republicans, Eisenhower headquarters announced that the general will fly to Boise, Idaho, Aug. 19 for a campaign conference with the Republican governors of 10 Western states.

The session, arranged at Eisenhower's request, will deal with the campaign aspects of Western area problems — including agriculture, reclamation, water power, and soil conservation.

The conference will be held at the office of Gov. Len Jordan of Idaho.

Also scheduled to attend are Govs. Howard Pyle of Arizona, Edwin L. Mechem of New Mexico, Arthur B. Langlie of Washington, Douglas McKay of Oregon, Frank A. Barrett of Wyoming, Charles H. Russell of Nevada, Dan Thornton of Colorado, J. Bracken Lee of Utah and Earl Warren of California.

Eisenhower flies tomorrow to Gallup, N. M., to attend an intertribal Indian ceremonial and to make a brief speech. He has said the address will be non-political.

On Monday, the GOP nominee will hold two conferences which aides regard as most important. One will be on farm policies with the Republican members of the Senate and House Agriculture Committees. The other is scheduled with a nine-state delegation of Southern supporters.

merit to bringing Republicans into the Cabinet—as President Roosevelt did during World War II—but he has made no decision on such a step.

7. He would make an effort to re-establish the bipartisan approach to foreign policy.

Stevenson is ready to take a firmer stand for some form of fair employment enforcement than he has stated publicly, although he has not yet reached any conclusion on what the mechanics should be.

First, there must be a change in the Senate rules before any effective action can be taken toward civil rights legislation.

This is the rule which provides that a two-thirds vote of the Senate is necessary before debate can be shut off and a measure brought to the floor for a vote. It is under this rule that legislation — including civil rights bills—has been "talked to death."

Stevenson's feeling is at present the states should be given a reasonable time in which to work out the problem of fair employment practices without federal intervention.

But it also has become clear he is not willing to leave the matter to the states indefinitely even though he concedes that the states have made much progress.

First, there should be a change in the Senate rules so that a minority cannot block the majority by filibuster. Then, once this is accomplished, Congress should perhaps fix a time limit in which the states would have a chance to work out the problem in their own ways.

But if at the end of this period (and he has no fixed idea on how long it should be) some states have failed—then the federal government should act perhaps through some form of enforcement agency.

PUBLIC FORUM

Monroe, La.
Aug. 8, 1952

PROTESTS ARTICLE

To The Editor:

In your paper, The Monroe News-Star, dated August 5, 1952, on the front page under the title "Bancroft Printer Caught in Chain", an article was printed regarding an injury sustained by Zylous W. Cooper which contained several errors and mis-statements.

One statement which your item carried stated that "18 stitches were required to close the wounds". This is a false statement. Also your item stated that he sustained injuries to other portions of his body. He sustained no other injuries other than those received to his index finger.

Your item also stated that it was while he was at this machine that a chain wrapped completely around the finger and almost jerked it from the socket. This is not true. There has been no socket injury or displacement.

I wish to inform you that the chain on this machine which caught Mr. Cooper's index finger can only be moved through manual operation by hand. It is in no way a part of the drive of the machine and is not connected to the power motor whatsoever. A hand wheel is operated by hand which has a sprocket on it, on which is the chain and by moving the hand wheel a roller is raised or lowered as the case requires in rewinding paper. Unless the hand wheel is moved by hand, the chain does not move. It is attached loosely and the injuries sustained by Mr. Cooper will not cause him to lose his left index finger which your August 5 article stated may be a possibility, and the chain did not wrap around Mr. Cooper's finger; only compressed or pinched his finger against the sprocket.

I request that you investigate this case personally. Contact Dr. Glenn T. Gallaspy, 305 Wood St., West Monroe, La., who attended and dressed the injury of Mr. Cooper. Your correction should be given the same prominence as the August 5 item on the front page.

Yours very truly,
T. O. Bancroft

(EDITOR'S NOTE: We are glad to publish Mr. Bancroft's letter and also to advise him as to the source of our information. This information was furnished our reporter by the wife of the accident victim, relayed directly from him whom we believe to be the logical person to furnish such information as to what occurred and what he was told about the condition of his hand.)

PLAYGROUND PROGRAM WILL END FRIDAY

The summer playground program, sponsored by the Monroe Recreation Department will come to a close this coming Friday noon. One of the outstanding features on the playgrounds this year has been the handcraft classes, held under the supervision of Mrs. Peggy Garnett.

Handcraft material is on display at The Palace for the white playgrounds and at Hoston's Bootery for the colored. The public is urged to go by and see some beautiful work done by the children of Monroe. This project is furnished free to the children and anything they make is theirs.

Many outstanding events were held during the summer, such as: bicycle parades, a baby show, a doll carriage show, hobby shows and an all day picnic, honoring the founder of playgrounds, Joseph E. Lee. Much credit for the success of the playgrounds go to the playground leaders and the parents for their cooperation in planning the program.

Last Friday all playgrounds had a hobby show with all kinds of hobbies on exhibit. Some of the girls had as their hobby, "washing dishes and cleaning house" while others had collections of shells, stamps, paintings, story books, knife, bottles, salt and pepper shakers and dolls.

Contest Winner Is Selected

Mrs. C. W. Oseland, 1507 Fairview avenue, was winner of Piggly Wiggly's saddled Shetland pony. Mrs. Oseland, who has no children, said she and her husband had not decided what to do with the gift, then added, humorously, "Don't look a gift horse in the mouth."

Winner of the man's wrist watch was Mrs. Margaret Mathis, 401 Riverbend, while winner of the ladies wrist watch was Julius Greggs, Negro, 2905 Renwick St. But they solved the problem by swapping gifts.

OUTSTANDING YOUNG LOUISIANA PIANIST

Louisiana Musicians Attend National Music Camp In Interlochen

INTERLOCHEN, Mich. — Four young Louisiana musicians are winning acclaim at the National Music Camp, Interlochen, Mich., for outstanding performances in piano, concert band, and the famous 250 - piece National High School Symphony Orchestra.

They are David Ward - Steinman, 15, of Alexandria; Mary Ann McLaurin, 16, of Ruston; and sisters, Lenoir and Suzanna Tennyson, 15 and 13 respectively, of Springhill, La.

Something of a musician's musician at 15, Ward - Steinman earned all his money for camp and transportation expenses by leading his own dance band. In addition, four of his choral arrangements have been presented over television in New Orleans, and he is piano accompanist for choral groups in Alexandria.

Ward - Steinman and Lenoir Tennyson play in the National High School orchestra also.

Outstanding young pianist Mary Ann McLaurin of Ruston won a full scholarship to camp in a contest sponsored by the Hewitt Music Company of Monroe, La. By winning first place in the piano division, Mary Ann added another honor to the superior ratings won in Louisiana state music contests during recent years.

Mary Ann is also studying beginning clarinet at the Northwoods summer music city in addition to private piano lessons from Rowena Dickey, outstanding piano teacher from the Louisiana State University music faculty teaching at Interlochen.

Sisters Lenoir and Suzanna Tennyson of Springhill play in four of the nine symphony orchestras and concert bands at Interlochen. Lenoir, a trombonist, plays in the teenage youth symphony and also in the high school band. Suzanna, an intermediate division camper, plays second chair cornet in intermediate symphony orchestra and band.

The National Music Camp was founded 25 years ago as the permanent home of Dr. Joseph E. Maddy's youth symphony. Since then Maddy has built his camp to a talent - packed summer capital of the arts.

Today Interlochen's 1,600 campers from 46 states, Canada, and South America study in the fields of dance, art, speech, drama, opera, radio, operetta, pottery and ceramics, and even musical electronics in addition to the original instrumental instruction program.

Newest curricular development is the new five hour college credit course in opera introduced this season at the camp by the University of Michigan. The course is organized as a full-scale opera troupe. Directed by Dr. Barre Hill, head of the American Conservatory of Music's opera department in Chicago, the opera course is known as the Interlochen Opera Company, and will present 33 performances of 14 different operatic scores this season.

Included in the gigantic effort is the world premiere of Hamilton Forrest's newest work, "Don Fortuno," which Forrest wrote especially for introduction by Hill.

Following its Interlochen debut, the opera will be taken to Milan, Italy, and Paris, France, for presentation by European opera companies this fall.

The 570-acre camp has been affiliated with the University of Cichigan since 1942, and will celebrate its 25th anniversary during the last week of camp in August.

Thousands of former campers, music teachers, critics, and other friends will gather at the Interlochen music center to pay tribute to Maddy and co-founder T. P. Giddings, who have worked for a quarter-century to provide adequate performance and training facilities for the talented young people of America in all fields of the creative arts.

Chicken Barbecue Held At American Legion Clubhouse In Bastrop

The Louisiana Peach Festival Association and the Morehouse Parish Fair Association were cohosts at a chicken barbeque on Monday night at the American Legion Coubhouse, the purpose of the get-together being a small token of their appreciation for the work done by various committee chairmen and their aids at the recent first annual peach festival.

In addition to the delicious supper and comradeship, business was transacted to the extent of appointing committees for the forthcoming Morehouse Parish Fair, which is scheduled to take place on October fifteenth through the eighteenth. General chairman of the fair will be Mr. R. M. McDuff, assisted by Dick Revels. I. A. Allen will be in charge of advertising, with C. G. Scott acting as co-chairman, and the rodeo will be in the charge of Rance Freeland, with Buck Shepard and Earnest Smith his assistants.

Guests at Monday night's barbecue were: Mr. C. W. MRS. P. A. COLVIN ENTERTAINS BRIDE-ELECT AT AFTERNOON TEA

The lovely surburban home of the Parker Colvins' was the setting for one of the seasons most interesting pre nuptial teas when Miss Sally Elliott was named honoree by her hostess, Mrs. Colvin.

The reception suite was artistically decorated with vases of multi-colored flowers. Of unusual focal interest was the mantle arrangement of gold, yellow and brenze dahlias and caladium leaves, flanked by yellow candles.

Mrs. Colvin extended a cordial welcome to her guests and was becomingly dressed in brown nylon with a pink hibiscus corsage.

In the receiving line with the hostess and honoree was Mrs. T. H. Elliott, dressed in pink nylon and hibiscus corsage. Also sharing honors with the bride - elect's mother was Mrs. T. E. Ferguson, bridegroom - elect's mother who was wearing a rose voile with matching corsage.

Misses' Martha Hatchell, Fern Griffin, Marianne Buce, and Beverly Aldridge dressed in crisp organdies with hibiscus corsages assisted in passing trays of delicious confections to the guests.

The beautifully appointed tea table was resplendent with its silver and crystal and was overlaid with a handmade white cut - work cloth over pink satin. The central decor was a miniature bride and groom, mutely bespeaking the forthcoming happy event, surrounded by pink roses and tuberoses and maidenhair fern. On either side tall pink tapers burned in silver candelabras. Crisscrossing the table was a white satin ribbon on which was placed miniature corsages matching the one Miss Elliott was wearing. Further accentuating the wedding theme were compotes filled with mints, decorated with wedding bells.

The silver service was presided over by Mrs. W. C. Feazel who wore a blue printed silk with a rose hibiscus corsage. Alternating at the coffee was Mrs. Fred Huenefeld, Jr., who was wearing brown organdy and a coral hibiscus corsage.

OUTSTANDING YOUNG LOUISIANA PIANIST

Louisiana Musicians Attend National Music Camp In Interlochen

INTERLOCHEN, Mich. — Four young Louisiana musicians are winning acclaim at the National Music Camp, Interlochen, Mich., for outstanding performances in piano, concert band, and the famous 250 - piece National High School Symphony Orchestra.

They are David Ward - Steinman, 15, of Alexandria; Mary Ann McLaurin, 16, of Ruston; and sisters, Lenoir and Suzanna Tennyson, 15 and 13 respectively, of Springhill, La.

Something of a musician's musician at 15, Ward - Steinman earned all his money for camp and transportation expenses by leading his own dance band. In addition, four of his choral arrangements have been presented over television in New Orleans, and he is piano accompanist for choral groups in Alexandria.

Ward - Steinman and Lenoir Tennyson play in the National High School orchestra also.

Outstanding young pianist Mary Ann McLaurin of Ruston won a full scholarship to camp in a contest sponsored by the Hewitt Music Company of Monroe, La. By winning first place in the piano division, Mary Ann added another honor to the superior ratings won in Louisiana state music contests during recent years.

Mary Ann is also studying beginning clarinet at the Northwoods summer music city in addition to private piano lessons from Rowena Dickey, outstanding piano teacher from the Louisiana State University music faculty teaching at Interlochen.

Sisters Lenoir and Suzanna Tennyson of Springhill play in four of the nine symphony orchestras and concert bands at Interlochen. Lenoir, a trombonist, plays in the teenage youth symphony and also in the high school band. Suzanna, an intermediate division camper, plays second chair cornet in intermediate symphony orchestra and band.

The National Music Camp was founded 25 years ago as the permanent home of Dr. Joseph E. Maddy's youth symphony. Since then Maddy has built his camp to a talent - packed summer capital of the arts.

Today Interlochen's 1,600 campers from 46 states, Canada, and South America study in the fields of dance, art, speech, drama, opera, radio, operetta, pottery and ceramics, and even musical electronics in addition to the original instrumental instruction program.

Newest curricular development is the new five hour college credit course in opera introduced this season at the camp by the University of Michigan. The course is organized as a full-scale opera troupe. Directed by Dr. Barre Hill, head of the American Conservatory of Music's opera department in Chicago, the opera course is known as the Interlochen Opera Company, and will present 33 performances of 14 different operatic scores this season.

Included in the gigantic effort is the world premiere of Hamilton Forrest's newest work, "Don Fortuno," which Forrest wrote especially for introduction by Hill.

Following its Interlochen debut, the opera will be taken to Milan, Italy, and Paris, France, for presentation by European opera companies this fall.

The 570-acre camp has been affiliated with the University of Cichigan since 1942, and will celebrate its 25th anniversary during the last week of camp in August.

Thousands of former campers, music teachers, critics, and other friends will gather at the Inter - lochen music center to pay tribute to Maddy and co-founder T. P. Giddings, who have worked for a quarter-century to provide adequate performance and training facilities for the talented young people of America in all fields of the creative arts.

Chicken Barbecue Held At American Legion Clubhouse In Bastrop

The Louisiana Peach Festival Association and the Morehouse Parish Fair Association were cohosts at a chicken barbeque on Monday night at the American Legion Coubhouse, the purpose of the get-together being a small token of their appreciation for the work done by various committee chairmen and their aids at the recent first annual peach festival.

In addition to the delicious supper and comradeship, business was transacted to the extent of appointing committees for the forthcoming Morehouse Parish Fair, which is scheduled to take place on October fifteenth through the eighteenth. General chairman of the fair will be Mr. R. M. McDuff, assisted by Dick Revels. I. A. Allen will be in charge of advertising, with C. G. Scott acting as co-chairman, and the rodeo will be in the charge of Rance Freeland, with Buck Shepard and Earnest Smith his assistants.

Guests at Monday night's barbecue were: Mr. C. W. Akers, Mr. Clifford Benson, Mr. Smitty Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Taichman, all of Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Parkhill of Crossett, Ark., and Bastropians, T. L. The Home Shift

BY MILDRED SWIFT

While I'm writing this the weather has moderated and we're having a nice slow rain — just the kind we need. Let's hope this one lasts long enough so we can store away that hose we've carried around all summer.

Interesting Gardens

If you're wondering what to use for screen plantings, drive by the L. L. Price home, 3800 Blanks, Monroe and see how they have used the wild myrtle. If you remember earlier in the year I called your attention to these plants in the George Foreman yard, 1102 North McGuire. They came through the January 1951 freeze so well. The Prices have used these same myrtles in profusion, with winter honey suckle in front of them, which makes a beautiful screen planting. The myrtles are evergreen, the honeysuckle deciduous, with a white bloom in early spring. Notice how well these myrtles have stood the drouth, too. They grow wild in the hills of West Monroe. One nurseryman told me he was going to have the plants for sale this winter at a nominal price. Mr. and Mrs. Price are partial to native Louisiana plants. They have youpon, red bud, holly and wild hydranga in their garden. So we can have lovely yards (like the Price's) without spending a lot of money. I still can't tell you it doesn't take plenty of work, though.

Mrs. J. W. Parkerson and Mrs. Harvey Nelson live on Spurgeon Drive, yards adjoining. I worked with them on their landscape plans last month. That really brought out the advantage of families planning together. It was necessary for each to have a clothes line, so we placed Mrs. Parkerson's line on the right of her back yard and Mrs. Nelson's on the left of her yard. That made the two clothes lines close together. So — one screen planting around both lines will hide the family wash from both houses. In that way each family has more lawn for the children to play and the effect is much nicer, too.

A New Material

There's a new material on the market called washaflan. It's guaranteed washable flannel, 85 per cent wool, 15 per cent nylon, 60 inches wide. Just the thing for coats for the young ones. It comes in red, pink, blue, green, black, navy, gray, and tan. You'll find this in your local shops.

A New Old Style

What do you think of the middy line for the college girl? Remember — about 1918 and 1920 when we wore the middy blouse? Styles really repeat themselves, don't they? Get out the family album and show the college-bound daughter your picture made in your middy. She'll see herself as she'll look this winter.

Foods

Foods plentiful for August are pears and poultry. Try glazed pears or pear preserves flavored with a bit of ginger root. Pear butter is delicious and it's made just like apple butter. And don't forget—fresh pear salad with mayonnaise and grated cheese while this fruit is plentiful.

Today's Household Hint

Here's a neat idea. Protect your white or pastel shoes when you're putting them away, a few weeks from now. Just slip each shoe into an old nylon stocking and store them all away until next year.

Good-by until next Sunday.

EXCHANGE VOWS IN OAKLAND, CALIFORNIA

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dean Selig are shown above as they cut their wedding cake at the reception following their marriage Friday, July 4, which was solemnized at the U. S. Navy Hospital Chapel in Oakland, Calif. The bride is the former Luella Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Guy Hayes, of Taccoa, Ga., and Mr. Selig is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Dean Selig, of this city. Shown in the picture with Mr. and Mrs. Selig are their wedding attendants, Miss Ellen Frame, U. S. Navy nurse, and Richard Rudisill, of Atlanta, Ga., cousin of the bride.

MISS MARY JANE FARROW IS BRIDE OF CHARLES EARL MULLIN

A double-ring ceremony marked by artistry and simplicity united in marriage Miss Mary Jane Farrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Dewey Farrow, of Columbia, and Charles Earl Mullin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen E. Mullin of Simsboro. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Orvis Harold Watson of Columbia was the setting for the service which was solemnized at 7:30 o'clock Friday, July 25.

Rev. John A. Kendrick, of Baton Rouge, uncle of the bride, officiated at the ceremony. The wedding which was of interest throughout this section of the state was attended by a concourse of relatives.

Decorations in the traditional bridal green and white formed a setting for the wedding with an altar improvised in front of the mantel which was banked with magnolia foliage. In front of the mirror were illuminated white tapers arranged in pyramid effect. On either side of the mantel were intricately designed candelabra of wrought iron, each holding seven lighted tapers. Matching floor standards were filled with white Marconi daisies and feverfew, interspersed with greenery. At other vantage points in the reception rooms were baskets of white crepe myrtle.

Mrs. Frank Thomas Watkins of Jonesville, played a melody of nuptial music as the guests were seated. She accompanied the soloist, Rev. Donald Farrow, brother of the bride, who sang, "Because." During the candle lighting by Orvis Harold Watson, Jr. and Donald Farrow, she played "Beautiful Dreamer" by Stephen Foster and "Liebestraum" by Liszt.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Bettie Jean Mullin, sister of the bridegroom, who wore a lace frock in an aquamarine shade with a headdress of pink carnations.

The traditional wedding march was played as the bridal party entered. The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a dress of aquarmarine lace overlaid with a double layer of accordion pleated net. In her hair she wore a halo of glamelia petals interspersed with pink net and pink velvet leaves. She carried a small glamelia bouquet on a white satin Bible. Satin shower ribbons with small pearls in pale pink and white fell from the bouquet.

Mr. Louis May of Huttig, Ark., brother - in - law of the bridegroom served as best man.

A reception followed the wedding. The table in the dining room was in bridal white with an embroidered linen cloth overlaid with white satin streamers in sunburst effect and at each corner a nosegay of small white flowers with shower ribbons of white satin.

Mrs. Sherrard Nicholson presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Orvis H. Watson served the tiered wedding confection, which was decorated in an all over scroll effect topped with a silver wedding bell. Miss Iris Kendrick assisted with the serving.

For their wedding trip the bride wore a tailored dress of beige faille with black velvet trim, and black velvet accessories. She was graduated in June from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute where she was a member of Beta Sigma Omicron sorority. The bridegroom attended Louisiana Tech and is now serving with the U. S. Navy. He is stationed at Key West, Fla.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were: Rev. and Mrs. John A. Kendrick, of Baton Rouge, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Kendrick, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Kendrick, Mr. and Mrs. Sherrard Nicholson, Miss Mary Nicholson, Mr. and Mrs. I. F. Kendrick, Miss Iris Kendrick, Mrs. Rowena Anders, Mr. and Mrs. Mayo Watkins, Miss Juanita Kendrick, of Jena, Dr. and Mrs. Frank T. Watkins of Jonesville, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Ellis, Miss Le Moyne Ellis of Dallas, Tex., Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Farrow of Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Glen E. Mullin, Mr. C. E. Daniel, Miss Bettie Jean Mullin of Simsboro, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Mullin of Alexandria, and Miss Jessie Mullin of Baton Rouge.

Cooling Facts To Be Given At Farm And Home Week

When the sun blazes down on the roof, the afternoon heat will penetrate to the inside of even the best insulated house. The answer to the problem of cooling the house while outside temperatures are high might be that more openings are needed in the attic. On the other hand, a cooling fan might be just what's needed to move hot air from the attic and move in cool air. Answers to many problems of cooling the home on sultry summer days will be found in sessions called "Cooling Your Home with Ventilating Fans" which will be part of the program at Farm and Home Week to be held at Louisiana State University the week from August 11th through the 14th. Two assistant engineers with the L. S. U. agricultural extension service, Paul Kay and Charles Severance, will be on hand to answer questions about having more comfortable homes and they'll answer engineering questions dealing with types and sizes of fans to use, methods of installing them, kinds of openings for effective and proper ventilation and others on the subject you bring. Be the guest of L. S. U. in Baton Rouge for an enjoyable and interesting week during Farm and Home Week, August 11th through August 14th.

CAT GETS BIRD'S NEST

BREMNER, Canada (AP)—Neil Hodgins decided to investigate when he heard strange sounds coming from an old bird's nest. He found that a cat had taken the nest over for her three tiny kittens.

NEWS FROM THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Libraries are becoming increasingly important in the life of the people of Louisiana. A special tribute to the libraries of the state was given in the P. A. R. reporter, the official monthly newsletter of the public affairs research council. As most of you know the public affairs research council is financed by private contributions and exists to inform all citizens of the state on all phases of Louisiana government and to work in cooperation with all public officials. The P. A. R. reporter says, Quote: One of the factors which contributed to the success of the P. A. R.'s research and information program during the recent legislative session was the excellent cooperation given the staff by the librarians of other libraries in the state and throughout the nation. Since, by its nature, the council's library is limited as to the scope of its collection, the P. A. R. staff has been fortunate to be able to draw on the more extensive facilities of the Louisiana State Library, the Library of Congress and the Louisiana State University Library. Unquote.

Your own Ouachita Parish Public Library fills an important place in the community. Let us make a brief examination of its resources. On August 1 the book collection consisted of 35,788 volumes. Of this number 25,856 are adult books and 9,932 are juvenile books. The library collection has increased very rapidly in the past five years. On January 1 1948 the book collection was 22,823 volumes. This is an increase of better than 50 per cent. In the present book collection 25,856 books are adult books while 9,932 are juvenile books.

At the present time there are 19,776 registered borrowers of the library. Of this number 9,297 are adults and 10,478 are children. How many books do these people read per month. In July they averaged better than one book per person, the total circulation being 23,094. When we compare this figure with the circulation figure of July, 1947 just five years ago we find that at that time 7,157 books were borrowed by the people of Ouachita parish. This is an increase of over 300 per cent in five years.

Since January first of this year 163,159 books have been checked out of the four branches of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. This is twice the total circulation for the entire year of 1946.

More and more people are calling on the library for information that will help them in their daily life. The library answers all sorta of questions every day. If there is anything that you need to know, try us. Within the past week we have secured a book of fencing instructions for a man who wanted to learn how to fence; we have located the directions for making a crossbow in a 1944 issue of Popular Mechanics; we have helped numerous people find information about their ancestors; we can give you the population figure of any town or city in this country or foreign countries.

Are you planning to buy a new washing machine, refrigerator, stove, or deep freeze? The consumer's research bulletin gives you invaluable information about the best buy. Do you like to cook? The library has a wonderful collection of cookbooks. Is gardening your hobby? The garden collection of your library is very complete.

Are you worried about the behavior of your young child, or your adolescent son or daughter? The library has a splendid collection of books on child psychology that will make your problem easier. If you want to improve your personal appearance or go on a diet, the library has a book that will help you. In fact, the public library has something to help every man, woman and child in Ouachita parish. If you are not making use of its resources, come tomorrow and register. You will be delighted at your growth in information and pleasure.

Miss Tommie Jo Simms To Wed George Cochrane

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Simms, of Epps, announce the engagement of their daughter, Tommie Jo, of Lynwood, Calif., to Airman Third Class George Cochrane, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Cochrane, of Los Angeles, Calif.

Miss Simms is a graduate of the Epps High School and is now employed by a bank in Compton, Calif. Mr. Cochrane was employed by the Los Angeles Times prior to entering the air force.

The wedding will be solemnized shortly after Mr. Cochrane's return to the United States from Okinawa, where he is now stationed.

Teflis Grotto Enjoys Covered Dish Party

Teflis Grotto on Saturday had their mid-summer festival when a covered dish supper was spread in the banquet hall and all enjoyed the bounteous meal of southern fried chicken and all that goes with it.

In the evening after the meal there was presented a radio team comprising Lonnie and Tommie Thompson and they made a big hit.

Monarch Will Brandt is anxious to form a quartet, sextet or other group and Tommie Thompson has volunteered his services to try to start it up. All who are interested should contact Henry Hartman.

NEWS FROM THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Libraries are becoming increasingly important in the life of the people of Louisiana. A special tribute to the libraries of the state was given in the P. A. R. reporter, the official monthly newsletter of the public affairs research council. As most of you know the public affairs research council is financed by private contributions and exists to inform all citizens of the state on all phases of Louisiana government and to work in cooperation with all public officials. The P. A. R. reporter says, Quote: One of the factors which contributed to the success of the P. A. R.'s research and information program during the recent legislative session was the excellent cooperation given the staff by the librarians of other libraries in the state and throughout the nation. Since, by its nature, the council's library is limited as to the scope of its collection, the P. A. R. staff has been fortunate to be able to draw on the more extensive facilities of the Louisiana State Library, the Library of Congress and the Louisiana State University Li · brary. Unquote.

Your own Ouachita Parish Public Library fills an important place in the community. Let us make a brief examination of its resources. On August 1 the book collection consisted of 35,788 volumes. Of this number 25,856 are adult books and 9,932 are juvenile books. The library collection has increased very rapidly in the past five years. On January 1 1948 the book collection was 22,823 volumes. This is an increase of better than 50 per cent. In the present book collection 25,856 books are adult books while 9,932 are juvenile books.

At the present time there are 19,776 registered borrowers of the library. Of this number 9,297 are adults and 10,478 are children. How many books do these people read per month. In July they averaged better than one book per person, the total circulation being 23,094. When we compare this figure with the circulation figure of July, 1947 just five years ago we find that at that time 7,157 books were borrowed by the people of Ouachita parish. This is an increase of over 300 per cent in five years.

Since January first of this year 163,159 books have been checked out of the four branches of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. This is twice the total circulation for the entire year of 1946.

More and more people are calling on the library for information that will help them in their daily life. The library answers all sorts of questions every day. If there is anything that you need to know, try us. Within the past week we have secured a book of fencing instructions for a man who wanted to learn how to fence; we have located the directions for making a crossbow in a 1944 issue of Popular Mechanics; we have helped numerous people find information about their ancestors; we can give you the population figure of any town or city in this country or foreign countries.

Are you planning to buy a new washing machine, refrigerator, stove, or deep freeze? The consumer's research bulletin gives you invaluable information about the best buy. Do you like to cook? The library has a wonderful collection of cookbooks. Is gardening your hobby? The garden collection of your library is very complete.

Are you worried about the behavior of your young child, or your adolescent son or daughter? The library has a splendid collection of books on child psychology that will make your problem easier. If you want to improve your personal appearance or go on a diet, the library has a book that will help you. In fact, the public library has something to help every man, woman and child in Ouachita parish. If you are not making use of its resources, come tomorrow and register. You will be delighted at your growth in information and pleasure.

Miss Sally Elliott Honored At Lovely Bridal Shower

Mrs. John B. Woodburn Entertains At Miscellaneous Event For Bride-Elect

A lovely bridal shower honoring Miss Salley Slliott, bride-elect of James Edward Ferguson, was held on Friday night in the home of Mrs. John B. Woodburn, 3614 Island Drive with Mrs. C. L. Taylor as co-hostess.

Silver wedding bells on printed invitations previously mailed announced the on-coming event. Mrs. Woodburn and Mrs. Taylor, both wearing nylon prints, greeted the guests at the door. Miss Elliott was lovely on this occasion in a model of deep turquoise with quilted trim. She was wearing a beautiful corsage of white carnations and silver bells presented to her by the hostesses.

After the guests had assembled Mrs. Woodburn introduced a game "A Hiking Romance," which proved most entertaining. Mrs. Ralph Marionneaux captured the prize for high score in this event, a set of salt and pepper shakers in a most unusual design.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of a large basket overflowing with gifts to the honoree. Many items of silver, china, crystal and linens were received at this time. The last gift to be opened was from the hostesses, a silver sugar and creamer on tray. Miss Elliott expressed her appreciation for all the gifts in a most gracious manner.

Refreshments were served from the dining table which was overlaid with a lovely cloth of cutwork design. The centerpiece consisted of a miniature bride placed beneath an ivy - entwined archway. On either side crystal holders supported tall white tapers tied with bows of green satin ribbon. Mrs. Harold Hunt presided at the crystal punch bowl of lime sherbet and gingerale. The table was laden with crystal trays of ribbon sandwiches and individually embossed cakes in white and green. White napkins bearing "Sally and Jimmy" in glossy green added a note of sentiment.

The invited guests were: Mesdames: Chloe Bairnsfather, T. H. Brode, C. G. Alexander, Roy Brooks, C. C. Bell, Jr., Fred B. Cook, Aimee C. Cook, Joe Coats, Fred Culpepper, Logan Crowe, L. A. Coon, P. Martin Family Has Reunion In Ferriday

FERRIDAY, La., Aug. 9. (Special)—A family reunion of the E. R. Martin family was held Sunday August 3, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cleve C. Swilly, Ferriday. It was the first time in twelve years that all the family has been together. There were 14 children and 36 grandchildren present for the reunion. Four grandchildren were unable to attend. A total of 81 was present.

The reunion was given at this time in honor of Mr. Martin's youngest son, A3-C Edward F. Martin who is home for a few days before leaving for a three year tour of duty in Germany.

Huge baskets of food were brought by each member of the family and at noon the dinner was spread on a large table under the cool shady oaks in front of the home.

Those attending this enjoyable affair were: Mr. and Mrs. Louis Berry and children, Winnsboro; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Berry, Winnsboro; Mrs. Melvin Berry and child, Winnsboro; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Johnson and children, Winnsboro; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Martin, and child, Wisner; Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Sanders, Gilbert; Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Sanders, Gilbert; Mrs. Roy McManus and children, Gilbert; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Sanders, Ferriday; Mrs. Willie Green and children, Wisner; E. R. Martin, Ferriday; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Martin, and children, Ferriday; Mr. and Mrs. Cleve C. Swilly and children, Ferriday; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Martin and children, Gilbert; Mr. and Mrs. Luther Martin and children, Ferriday; Mrs. Albert Tarver and children, Ferriday; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lincecum and child, Ferriday; Mr. and Mrs. P. STIFFER PENALTY URGED

NEW YORK (AP)—City Magistrate Hyman Bushel declared the penalty for turning in a false fire-alarm should be a penitentiary sentence up to three years instead of the present maximum of 60 days in the workhouse.

The magistrate urged heavier penalties while sentencing a 22-year-old man to the maximum term for his fifth offense in five years. The judge pointed out that more firemen were killed responding to false alarms than in fighting fires.

Tallulah Has Back To School Style Show

A large crowd from St. Joseph, Newellton, Lake Providence and Tallulah attended the Back - to-School Style Show and Benefit Supper, presented by Shields' of Tallulah and sponsored by the Tallulah Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolultion on Thurs-night at the Tallulah Community Club.

Supper was served al fresco on the lawn at 7:30 o'clock after which an outstanding number of fall and winter fashions in the new and exciting fabrics were presented.

Mrs. George Yerger Sr., introduced Mrs. Harry Shields who with her sister, Mrs. Adeline Couch, own and operate Shields'. After making the welcome address, Mrs. Shields introduced Miss Docia Schultz, who is fashion coordinator for Ike Clark Sportswear of Dallas and who is currently touring the South and Southwest commentating shows for finer retail stores.

The show began with a group of Ike Clark's "Granny Red" flannels, shown in the August issue of Mademoiselle, and ended with a glamorous assortment of formals, both long and short. Models for the formals were escorted on the runway by young men in their tuxedos.

The Back-to-School styles were modeled by Misses Ann Osborne, Betty Jane Rives, Margaret Gene Ohlson of St. Joseph; Misses Vivian White, Ginger Wilkerson, Barbara Netterville from Newellton. Misses Allene Harkey, Sara Ann Schneider, Amanda Brown from Lake Providence and Misses Babs Pollard, Garnet Montgomery, Flora Montgomery, Annette Smithm Bitsy Adams and Betty Sue Horn from Tallulah with Mrs. Lamar T. Loe of Tallulah showing styles for the school girl's "mom."

The feature attraction of the show was the appearance of Miss Louisiana lovely Miss Barbara Barker from Monroe who modeled a beautiful white creation by Cotillion, and who read "The Fog," which helped her win the coveted title of "Miss Louisiana."

Baptist W. M. U. Meets With Mrs. T. E. Eldridge

The Collinston Baptist W. M. U. met in the home of Mrs. T. F. Eldridge Jr. Tuesday July 22nd for their monthly Bible Study meeting with twelve members present.

In the absence of Rev. Leon Simpson, Torris Eldridge Jr. gave an interesting review on parts of the book of Acts. A short business session was held with Mrs. Jerd Savage presiding. It was decided that the 5th Tuesday would be put aside for visiting.

Refreshments were served after the business meeting to the following: Mrs. Jerd Savage, Mrs. J. M. Goodnight, Mrs. C. T. Fontenot, Mrs. Leon Simpson, Mrs. Jeff Fontenot Sr. Mrs. W. L. Crow, Mr. Hughie Kilpatrick, Mrs. Harland Clark, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Jack Watkins and Torris Eldridge Jr.

Girl Scout News

Someone once told us that there are two kinds of people, those who like camping and those who don't. Among the former should be ranked seventeen girls who took part in nine days of day camping and then eagerly signed up for an overnight of troop camping.

Accompanied by Edna Bishop and Eva Clare Noland, who had been unit leaders at day camp, and Annis Klie, camp director, the girls spent Monday evening and Tuesday at camp. Leaders say the only complaint heard was that they had to come home when they did. Leaders further commented that they had never worked with a more congenial group, that having worked together at day camp, the girls seemed to take more initiative, to say more often, "Let's do this or that."

Serving as patrol leaders were Sheila Irvin, Betty Bradley, Jimmie Lee Bamburg and Frances Yeldell, who did a good job, according to all reports. Others in the group were: Nancy Martin, Nell Laws, Martha Higgins, Ann Elizabeth Duncan, Babara McCurry, Linda Wade, Gwen Reynolds, Nancy Clare Noland, Horton Laws, Bobbylea Cooper, Dar Lynn Gilbert, Janet Hyman, and Nancy Cash.

Kapers went off like clock-work, with each patrol eagerly following its job description. As any housewife can tell, when work gets done promptly, there is more time for play.

The sandbar on the river is a place that never fails to attract. There are mussel shells to gather, grapevines to swing on, to say nothing of going barefoot in the sand and hollering at the echo across the river. And what could be nicer after that than cold watermelon back at camp and later an outdoor supper in the cool of the evening! When the mosquitoes take over outside, campers come inside for fun before bedtime. Dramatics, games and singing make time fly. While some girls were getting their showers, the rest sat around in the lamplight, singing all of the good-night songs they knew. By ten o'clock everyone was tucked in on the long, screened porch for a good night's sleep. The rule at Girl Scout camp is that no one must talk or disturb another until the alarm goes off at the time agreed upon for getting up. Since in every group there are some early waker-uppers, the girls have solved that problem by putting magazines on their apple box bedside tables and reading them early in the morning. One of the leaders, opening her eyes about 6:30, was amazed to see almost every girl propped up in bed with a copy of the "American Girl." No one stirred, though, or bothered the sleeping ones, until seven when the alarm went off — nine hours of rest for growing girls, you know.

Toast made on sticks over an open fire is the best you ever ate, any camper will tell you, and we agree. Combined with scrambled eggs, also cooked out of doors, and eaten in the shade of the pines, it makes a mighty fine breakfast.

This group of campers had a very special treat when their leaders offered to take them to the Linville fire tower. There the girls not only climbed the tower, but followed the fire warden's daughter to a clear, cold spring deep in a wooded spot, with beech trees overhead, partridge berries among the masses, lichens on the trees, and other growing plants the girls had become acquainted with at camp.

In hot weather, campers eat mid-day meals indoors, then quickly make bedrolls, sweep floors, put mattresses inside, and make ready to go home. When everything is ship - shape, they sit down with leaders and talk it over. "What did you enjoy most? What did you learn? What could you do better next time? What would you like to do next time that you didn't get to do this time?" are some of the questions asked and the answers filed in leader's minds.

Then last of all, the group lines up quietly in horseshoe formation. Five girls wearing the red sashes of color bearers and guards, advance, lower the flag and fold it carefully. So ends a typical overnight at Girl Scout camp.

'HENS' DOING WELL

HASTINGS, Neb. (AP)—Accepting a money deposit from a woman poultry raiser, the Hastings man remarked innocently: "The old hens are doing quite well aren't they?".

Turned out the woman was bringing in funds for a women's church group of which she is the treasurer.

GET THE 'BREAKS'

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP)—A mother and daughter have been sharing their breaks — first one arm then another.

Shirley Underwood, 11, of Centralia broke her right arm in a fall from a horse. A few months later her mother, Dorothy, 29, broke her left arm at a skating rink. Her cast was barely off when she slipped on her own rug and broke her left arm. Three days later Shirley—with the same horse at the same place as before—fell and broke her left arm.

STIFFER PENALTY URGED

NEW YORK (AP)—City Magistrate Hyman Bushel declared the penalty for turning in a false fire-alarm should be a penitentiary sentence up to three years instead of the present maximum of 60 days in the workhouse.

The magistrate urged heavier penalties while sentencing a 32-year-old man to the maximum term for his fifth offense in five years. The judge pointed out that more firemen were killed responding to false alarms than in fighting fires.

Tallulah Has Back To School Style Show

A large crowd from St. Joseph, Newellton, Lake Providence and Tallulah attended the Back - to-School Style Show and Benefit Supper, presented by Shields' of Tallulah and sponsored by the Tallulah Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolultion on Thursnight at the Tallulah Community Club.

Supper was served al fresco on the lawn at 7:30 o'clock after which an outstanding number of fall and winter fashions in the new and exciting fabrics were presented.

Mrs. George Yerger Sr., introduced Mrs. Harry Shields who with her sister, Mrs. Adeline Couch, own and operate Shields'. After making the welcome address, Mrs. Shields introduced Miss Docia Schultz, who is fashion coordinator for Ike Clark Sportswear of Dallas and who is currently touring the South and Southwest commentating shows for finer retail stores.

The show began with a group of Ike Clark's "Granny Red" flannels, shown in the August issue of Mademoiselle, and ended with a glamorous assortment of formals, both long and short. Models for the formals were escorted on the runway by young men in their tuxedos.

The Back-to-School styles were modeled by Misses Ann Osborne, Betty Jane Rives, Margaret Gene Ohlson of St. Joseph; Misses Vivian White, Ginger Wilkerson, Barbara Netterville from Newellton, Misses Allene Harkey, Sara Ann Schneider, Amanda Brown from Lake Providence and Misses Babs Pollard, Garnet Montgomery, Flora Montgomery, Annette Smithm Bitsy Adams and Betty Sue Horn from Tallulah with Mrs. Lamar T. Loe of Tallulah showing styles for the school girl's "mom."

The feature attraction of the show was the appearance of Miss Louisiana lovely Miss Barbara Barker from Monroe who modeled a beautiful white creation by Cotillion, and who read "The Fog," which helped her win the coveted title of "Miss Louisiana."

Baptist W. M. U. Meets With Mrs. T. E. Eldridge

The Collinston Baptist W. M. U. met in the home of Mrs. T. F. Eldridge Jr. Tuesday July 22nd for their monthly Bible Study meeting with twelve members present.

In the absence of Rev. Leon Simpson, Torris Eldridge Jr. gave an interesting review on parts of the book of Acts. A short business session was held with Mrs. Jerd Savage presiding. It was decided that the 5th Tuesday would be put aside for visiting.

Refreshments were served after the business meeting to the following: Mrs. Jerd Savage, Mrs. J. M. Goodnight, Mrs. C. T. Fontenot, Mrs. Leon Simpson, Mrs. Jeff Fontenot Sr. Mrs. W. L. Crow, Mr. Hughie Kilpatrick, Mrs. Harland Clark, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Jack Watkins and Torris Eldridge Jr.

Some blankets are still sized in "points," going back to the days when they were traded for beaver skins according to a point system of value.

Girl Scout News

Someone once told us that there are two kinds of people, those who like camping and those who don't. Among the former should be ranked seventeen girls who took part in nine days of day camping and then eagerly signed up for an overnight of troop camping.

Accompanied by Edna Bishop and Eva Clare Noland, who had been unit leaders at day camp, and Annis Klie, camp director, the girls spent Monday evening and Tuesday at camp. Leaders say the only complaint heard was that they had to come home when they did. Leaders further commented that they had never worked with a more congenial group, that having worked together at day camp, the girls seemed to take more initiative, to say more often, "Let's do this or that."

Serving as patrol leaders were Sheila Irvin, Betty Bradley, Jimmie Lee Bamburg and Frances Yeldell, who did a good job, according to all reports. Others in the group were: Nancy Martin, Nell Laws, Martha Higgins, Ann Elizabeth Duncan, Babara McCurry, Linda Wade, Gwen Reynolds, Nancy Clare Noland, Horton Laws, Bobbylea Cooper, Dar Lynn Gilbert, Janet Hyman, and Nancy Cash.

Kapers went off like clock-work, with each patrol eagerly following its job description. As any housewife can tell, when work gets done promptly, there is more time for play.

The sandbar on the river is a place that never fails to attract. There are mussel shells to gather, grapevines to swing on, to say nothing of going barefoot in the sand and hollering at the echo across the river. And what could be nicer after that than cold watermelon back at camp and later an outdoor supper in the cool of the evening! When the mosquitoes take over outside, campers come inside for fun before bedtime. Dramatics, games and singing make time fly. While some girls were getting their showers, the rest sat around in the lamplight, singing all of the goodnight songs they knew. By ten o'clock everyone was tucked in on the long, screened porch for a good night's sleep. The rule at Girl Scout camp is that no one must talk or disturb another until the alarm goes off at the time agreed upon for getting up. Since in every group there are some early waker-uppers, the girls have solved that problem by putting magazines on their apple box bedside tables and reading them early in the morning. One of the leaders, opening her eyes about 6:30, was amazed to see almost every girl propped up in bed with a copy of the "American Girl." No one stirred, though, or bothered the sleeping ones, until seven when the alarm went off — nine hours of rest for growing girls, you know.

Toast made on sticks over an open fire is the best you ever ate, any camper will tell you, and we agree. Combined with scrambled eggs, also cooked out of doors, and eaten in the shade of the pines, it makes a mighty fine breakfast.

This group of campers had a very special treat when their leaders offered to take them to the Linville fire tower. There the girls not only climbed the tower, but followed the fire warden's daughter to a clear, cold spring deep in a wooded spot, with beech trees overhead, partridge berries among the masses, lichens on the trees, and other growing plants the girls had become acquainted with at camp.

In hot weather, campers eat midday meals indoors, then quickly make bedrolls, sweep floors, put mattresses inside, and make ready to go home. When everything is ship - shape, they sit down with leaders and talk it over. "What did you enjoy most? What did you learn? What could you do better next time? What would you like to do next time that you didn't get to do this time?" are some of the questions asked and the answers filed in leader's minds.

Then last of all, the group lines up quietly in horseshoe formation. Five girls wearing the red sashes of color bearers and guards, advance, lower the flag and fold it carefully. So ends a typical overnight at Girl Scout camp.

'HENS' DOING WELL

HASTINGS, Neb. (AP)—Accepting a money deposit from a woman poultry raiser, the Hastings man remarked innocently: "The old hens are doing quite well aren't they?".

Turned out the woman was bringing in funds for a women's church group of which she is the treasurer.

GET THE 'BREAKS'

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP)—A mother and daughter have been sharing their breaks — first one arm then another.

Shirley Underwood, 11, of Centralia broke her right arm in a fall from a horse. A few months later her mother, Dorothy, 29, broke her left arm at a skating rink. Her cast was barely off when she slipped on her own rug and broke her left arm. Three days later Shirley—with the same horse at the same place as before—fell and broke her left arm.

SEE WHY LILT WAVES take up to 5 HOURS LESS TIME and LAST up to 3 TIMES LONGER!
(Two girls start at same time—3 o'clock Saturday afternoon)

A LILT WAVE
1st step She started her Lilt at 3 o'clock. It took her only about an hour to finish the entire waving lotion step—including test curls!
First step finished—4:14 o'clock
2nd step She used "Naturalizer" to make her wave really permanent! Her wave is now finished . . .
Now her hair is set in pin curls for her hairdo!
LILT WAVE FINISHED—and hairdo styled too—
IN LESS THAN 2 HOURS! 4:52 o'clock
Ready for a glamorous evening!
Pin curls dry fast (but hair wound on curlers does not). So, by 6:30, her Lilt is already brushed and combed into a smart, lovely hairdo!
And best of all, her Lilt wave is so permanent—so much like Naturally Curly Hair, it will last months and months!
LILT WAVES LAST up to 3 TIMES LONGER!

A NO-NEUTRALIZER WAVE
1st step She also started at 3 o'clock. Has wound curls and applied waving lotion; rinsed with water (or used towel to remove excess lotion).
First step finished—4:00 o'clock
2nd step (which you may not know about) She is now starting to WAIT 6 HOURS, with her hair on curlers. (With No-Neutralizer products you need slow drying on curlers.)
STILL WAITING! She's worried now. She has a date at seven!
2 HOURS GONE—5 MORE TO GO
NO DATE FOR HER TONIGHT! She still has HOURS TO WAIT!
10 O'CLOCK—SECOND STEP FINISHED . . .
7 hours after she started! And LOOK at that kinky, frizzy hair—because it dried on the curlers! Now she has to re-wet her hair and set it in pin curls!
But what she still does NOT know is—
HER WAVE IS ONLY SEMI-PERMANENT!
Won't last nearly as long as a Lilt.

Louisiana Flying Farmers Enjoy Barbecue In Lake Providence

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., August 6. —(Special)— Jack L. Holt, state vice president of the Louisiana Flying Farmers and only Flying Farmer in East Carroll parish, was host at a barbecue for the state group and their families on Wednesday, August 6. The barbecue began at 1 p.m. at the American Legion home.

It was the Flying Farmers first visit to Lake Providence and all were delighted to be together again and to enjoy the hospitality and the good eats provided by their host. There were approximately 100 guests greeted by Misses La Verne Davis and Jo Rene Myers, who had them register and prepared badges with name and address for them to wear for introducing each other. The Rev. Thomas Major Lancaster, pastor of the Lake Providence Methodist Church returned thanks for the delectable chicken, potato salad, olives, pickles, iced and individual cakes.

All state officers elected at the July meeting, municipal airport, Baton Rouge, were present. They were J. T. Howell, Jackson, state president; Jack L. Holt, Lake Providence, vice president, host and master of ceremonies; Mrs. L. R. Ferguson, Roanoke, state treasurer; Mrs. Rose L. Fourier, Baton Rouge, executive secretary.

Mayor J. L. Johnson, extending the welcome, enumerated the steps in farming as the one galluses farmer, one horse farmer, one crop farmer, mechanical farmer, scientitific farmer, flying farmer and concluded his cordial welcome with this remark, "If you return in 1953 or '54 as atomic farmers, don't look for me, for I'll be out of town."

As the day's entertainment was in the American Legion Home, post commander W. R. "Roy" Abernethy, expressed pleasure over having the event in the Legion Home, and invited all to make use of the home and it's facilities at all times, saying "Lake Providence's biggest drawing card is the nine mile long lake stocked with fish of all kind, and we want you to come back, come often and enjoy this fisherman's paradise and make this home your headquarters while here."

State president Howell, in his remarks announced the postponement of the Louisiana air tour due to conflicting dates with the Flying Farmers National Convention, Auburn, Ala., Aug. 28-30. Mr. Howell then introduced J. D. Hair, Baton Rouge, who presented Mrs. Holt, the former Miss Florence Bonner, recently elected queen of the Flying Farmers, with the state trophy. Mrs. Holt had been elected queen at the recent state convention but presentation of trophy was delayed due to engraving. Mrs. Holt graciously thanked the farmers for the honor conferred upon her and for the tophy.

T. B. Hendon, Baton Rouge, chief of the Louisiana department of aeronautics, expressed pleasure over being able to meet and mingle with his flying friends of the state. Mr. Herndon paid tribute to Frank Byerley, secretary of the East Carroll Parish Police Jury and Rotary Club president, addressing him as one of the oldest pilots in the world. Mr. Byerley trained at Scott Field, Belleville, Ill., in 1917 and was a pilot in World War I. The local airport is named in his honor.

T. B. Hendon, Baton Rouge, chief of the Louisiana department of aeronautics, expressed pleasure over being able to meet and mingle with his flying friends of the state. Mr. Herndon paid tribute to Frank Byerley, secretary of the East Carroll Parish Police Jury and Rotary Club president, addressing him as one of the oldest pilots in the world. Mr. Byerley trained at Scott Field, Belleville, Ill., in 1917 and was a pilot in World War I. The local airport is named in his honor.

What is the age of GLAMOUR?

The age of glamour is any age at which a woman's beauty and charm make her most fascinating! She's seldom under "30"...she's usually in her "40's" or older...and she invariably devotes time and care to keep her skin naturally lovely and youthful looking . . . without the use of "cover-up" cosmetics.

For over 15 years, thousands of women have achieved this naturally youthful look with Endocreme . . . because Endocreme, with its exclusive hormone ingredient "Activol" actually regenerates ageing skin cells and tissue for most women . . . smooths out lines and wrinkles . . . firms up the skin . . . makes it look more youthful. Isn't it worth finding out for yourself? A full month's supply only $3.50 plus tax.

Miss Jane Evans Feted At Two Bridal Showers

Miscellaneous Shower And Coke Hour Among Courtesies Extended Bride-Elect

Miss Jane Evans, bride-elect of Herbert Peterson, was honored Tuesday night at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Glyn Rogers on the White's Ferry Road. Co-hostesses on this occasion were Mrs. Fred Hayton, Mrs. Claude Fortenberry and Mrs. A. J. Barnette.

The honoree, wearing a powder blue stripped cotton with white linen accessories and a corsage of pink lilies, was the recipient of many lovely and useful gifts of a miscellaneous nature.

Bridal Shower

Thursday Mrs. George Vaughan entertained the lovely brice-elect at a coffee hour on the patio of her home on DeSiard road.

Miss Martha Carolyn Upshaw, Miss Elizabeth Doane and Miss Frances Sheppard were co - hostesses on this occasion.

For this bridal event the honoree chose a dress of deep red Irish linen with white pique jacket and white linen accessories. The hostesses presented Miss Evans with a corsage of white chrysanthemums, and took this time to present her with a dinner plate in her chosen China.

Enjoying this occasion with the bride-elect were Miss Jane Wallace, Miss Joan Bandy, Miss Patsy Doane, Mrs. George Vaughan, Mrs. Paul Dean, Mrs. N. B. Reynolds, Mrs. Max Dillingham, Mrs. C. R. Peterson, mother of the bridegroom - elect, and the hostesses.

START YOUTH IS HONORED

Cadet Doyle Craighead of Northeast State received high honors at the military police ROTC summer camp, Camp Gordon, Ga. He was selected as the outstanding student in his company of over 130 cadets from 14 other military police schools in the United States.

Craighead was chosen on the basis of unusual leadership ability at the conclusion of the six-week training period at Camp Gordon, home of the military police school.

In recognition of this honor, Cadet Craighead was presented an achievement cup for leadership ability at the final review of the ROTC cadet corps and he was further recognized by reviewing the cadet battalion.

Cadet Craighead spent the training period at Camp Gordon where, with the equipment of the regular army and the vastness of the camp, he received practical training in basic military and military police subjects which could not be taught, due to physical restrictions at Northeast.

This summer work is considered by army officials an important phase of training of cadets, who receive a commission in the military police corps reserve upon graduation from college.

A resident of Start, Craighead a senior vocational agriculture student. His outstanding work in the cadet corps at Northeast was climaxed this spring by his selection as battalion commander for the 1952-53 school year. This position carries the rank of cadet lieutenant colonel.

(Pinch-Hitting For Vacationing Jimmie Fidler)

Apia, West Samoa, August 9 - Ever since I say "South Pacific" on Broadway, I, too, with thousands of other girls, dreamed of the opportunity to visit these islands in "Return to Paradise." He saw hauntingly written about by James A. Michener, the author of "Tales of the South Pacific" and "Return to Paradise".

I am now living on one of those islands spending most of my time in a sarong. And what's more, I'm getting paid for it.

It all started when director Mark Robson was looking for a girl to play opposite Gary Cooper me one day when I was visiting a friend on a movie lot where Robson has his offices. He said I looked like a Samoan girl. A test resulted and I am now at work playing a Polynesian.

We are staying at Aggie Grey's hotel here. Aggie is a wonderful, fascinating woman. She cooked more than 100,000 hamburgers for our G. I.'s during the war. A boy from Los Angeles taught her how. It was strange at first to see everyone walking around in lava lavas, a sort of sarong. But now I seldom wear anything else, swimming or out walking. They're so comfortable I would like to see them become stylish for summer wear, at least, in Hollywood.

Today, Aggie took me swimming. The Samoans are very friendly and they all want to know where we come from and how we like their country. Everything here is so clean, and I must say the Samoan women are wonderful housekeepers. They keep asking me about the various movie stars, particularly Roy Rogers and Esther Williams who seem to be reigning favorites.

Gary Cooper is often mentioned as "that great, fierce Indian fighter." By the way, a three-day celebration was staged to celebrate his arrival.

Already Aggie and beautiful Moira MacDonald have taught me a Samoan accent and the traitional Samoan dances. Moria plays the other feminine lead in the picture. She is 20 and Samoan and Scotch, and very beautiful. She doesn't want to come to Hollywood. Maybe she's right.

Last night some of the girls on the island came over to give me some pointers on the dances. It turned into a real jam session and some of these kids can really jitterbug. They hear all the latest records via the coast disc jockeys.

After the rehearsal one of the girls invited me home for dinner. There I had my first drink of coconut milk. It was wonderful, After dinner a couple of the boys dropped by with their ukeleles and a song-fest was on. Believe me, everybody on the island has a string instrument of some kind and on the slightest provocation a melody is started.

I'm having a tough time with the food. You're always hungry and for the most part the food is fattening. I think director Mark Robson would have his problems if the company were to be here many months rather than only a few weeks.

One of the most prized possessions on the islands is a sewing machine. Most of the women have one and lava lava hems formerly turned by hand are now proudly stitched by machine.

And now a little about the picture. To produce "Return to Paradise," we recruited a crew of 20 men from Australia besides technicians from Hollywood. More than 1000 natives will participate and they are really all excited about appearing in a Hollywood movie.

"Return to Paradise" is being filmed largely in the small village of Lefaga. A full five hours of parlays with the island chiefs was necessary to fully explain what we wanted to do. Finally, when the talks were over, the head man wanted to know, "How many years will it take to make this film?"

Yes, I am a very lucky girl to have had this opportunity. It's truly an education and one can well take a lesson from the serene and trusting attitude the people here seem to possess.

LOCUSTS HIT RED CHINA

HONG KONG (AP)—Locust and other insect pests are ravaging farm lands of Northern and Eastern China.

The ministry reports more than 100,000 acres affected in the northern province of Hopeh in which Peiping is located. It said 50,000 acres were hit in Anhwei, an East China province. Infested areas also were reported to be large in China province. Infested areas Shantung and Honan provinces.

PASTURE TOUR MADE IN WEBSTER

Jackson Agriculturists Make Inspection Trip In Area

In a recent tour of the pasture land of Webster Parish, twenty-two Jackson Parish agricultural workers participitated, which proved very educational to the group. The tour was sponsored by the Conservation District Supervisors. A bus from Miller and Salter Lines was chartered to Minden. Upon arrival at Minden the visitors from Jackson Parish were carried to the Imperial Hotel where lunch had been prepared in the hotel dining room. After lunch they were then taken in private cars to various farms including those of Dr. R. E. Smith and Sons, Claborne Braswell and Don Hinton.

Upon arriving at each farm the farmer and owner of the farm took charge and explained to the visitors what he had done, and amount of grazing returned. This was an opener to some of the farmers from Jackson Parish and the information gained on this tour will aid in the pasture development of the farms in Jackson Parish. Those participitaing in the tour were:

W. C. Abbott, William C. Lomax, James Hall, Bob Breedlove, F. C. Relley, R. L. Womack, Jr., Homer Smelley, J. H. Haigler, M. F. Culpepper, Drue Blalock, Bobby Salter Cercy Frye, Ira Moon, R. E. Pipes, Homer Watkins, L. L. Kilpatrick, James Hobinson, J. W. Branch, Doublas Mixon and L. E. Jones.

The farmers of Jackson Parish who are interesting in developing winter and spring pastures are urged to begin making plans now. Information may be secured by contacting your agricultural agent.

"Jura" is the name of a department of France, a European range of mountains and an island near Scotland.

SURVIVES LIGHTNING BOLT

EDGAR, Neb. (AP)—Although apparently struck by lightning W. S. Black, 83-year-old farmer, has lived to tell about it.

He was standing in the door of a tin-roofed barn when the bolt apparently struck an arm and traveled down his leg. Black said he was unconscious momentarily and was paralyzed on his right side for at least an hour.

ISRAELI SHOWS PROGRESS MADE

First Industrial Exposition In New York Amazes Public

"Israeli Performance on Parade" is the title of an article by Staffird Derby in the Christian Science Minitor it states in part:

"It was most natural that the world's youngest nation should select the free worlds economic capital as site for its first industrial exposition. But to have the Israel Exposition open its doors on 49th street facing Rockefeller Plaza was a touch of the most happy coincidence.

"By doing this the products of the plains of Tel Aviv or the hills and harbor of Haifa make their bow under friendly and towers of American economic might.

New Yorkers are finding their way to the blue-and-white-decked doors in increasing numbers. Many have sent their American dollars to Israel through the purchase of State of Israel bonds. Here they can see what the present fruits of such investment have been and catch a glimpse of future promise.

But the realistic, hardheadedness of the pioneer sobers the enthusiasm of the zealot. Both are present in Israel. An official statement in the exhibit's booklet poses the problem thus:

"The people of Israel have their eyes fixed on one major goal broadening their economic base. It is literally a question of life or death for them to expand their agricultural and industrial plant.

LOCUSTS HIT RED CHINA

HONG KONG (AP)—Locust and other insect pests are ravaging farm lands of Northern and Eastern China.

The ministry reports more than 100,000 acres affected in the northern province of Hopeh in which Peiping is located. It said 50,000 acres were hit in Anhwei, an East China province. Infested areas alalso were reported to be large in China province. Infested areas Shantung and Honan provinces.

PASTURE TOUR MADE IN WEBSTER

Jackson Agriculturists Make Inspection Trip In Area

In a recent tour of the pasture land of Webster Parish, twenty-two Jackson Parish agricultural workers participitated, which proved very educational to the group. The tour was sponsored by the Conservation District Supervisors. A bus from Miller and Salter Lines was chartered to Minden. Upon arrival at Minden the visitors from Jackson Parilsh were carried to the Imperial Hotel where lunch had been prepared in the hotel dining room. After lunch they were then taken in private cars to various farms including those of Dr. R. E. Smith and Sons, Claborne Braswell and Don Hinton.

Upon arriving at each farm the farmer and owner of the farm took charge and explained to the visitors what he had done, and amount of grazing returned. This was an opener to some of the farmers from Jackson Parish and the information gained on this tour will aid in the pasture development of the farms in Jackson Parish. Those participitaing in the tour were:

W. C. Abbott, William C. Lomax, James Hall, Bob Breedlove, F. C. Relley, R. L. Womack, Jr., Homer Smelley, J. H. Haigler, M. F. Culpepper, Drue Blalock, Bobby Salter Cercy Frye, Ira Moon, R. E. Pipes, Homer Watkins, L. L. Kilpatrick, James Hobinson, J. W. Branch, Doublas Mixon and L. E. Jones.

The farmers of Jackson Parish who are interesting in developing winter and spring pastures are urged to begin making plans now. Information may be secured by contacting your agricultural agent.

"Jura" is the name of a department of France, a European range of mountains and an island near Scotland.

SURVIVES LIGHTNING BOLT

EDGAR, Neb. (AP)—Although apparently struck by lightning W. S. Black, 83-year-old farmer, has lived to tell about it.

He was standing in the door of a tin-roofed barn when the bolt apparently struck an arm and traveled down his leg. Black said he was unconscious momentarily and was paralyzed on his right side for at least an hour.

A son revived him with artificial respiration and he was hospitalized for treatment of second and third degree burns.

ISRAELI SHOWS PROGRESS MADE

First Industrial Exposition In New York Amazes Public

"Israeli Performance on Parade" is the title of an article by Staffird Derby in the Christian Science Minitor it states in part:

"It was most natural that the world's youngest nation should select the free worlds economic capital as site for its first industrial exposition. But to have the Israel Exposition open its doors on 49th street facing Rockefeller Plaza was a touch of the most happy coincidence.

"By doing this the products of the plains of Tel Aviv or the hills and harbor of Haifa make their bow under friendly and towers of American economic might.

The array of such products is eye-opening. From the glistening new American automobile off the assembly line at Haifa which graces the entrance to the craftsmanship shown in the printing arts showcase near the exit, these Israeli goods are top exhibits of performance.

New Yorkers are finding their way to the blue-and-white-decked doors in increasing numbers. Many have sent their American dollars to Israel through the purchase of State of Israel bonds. Here they can see what the present fruits of such investment have been and catch a glimpse of future promise.

But the realistic, hardheadedness of the pioneer sobers the enthusiasm of the zealot. Both are present in Israel. An official statement in the exhibit's booklet poses the problem thus:

"The people of Israel have their eyes fixed on one major goal broadening their economic base. It is literally a question of life or death for them to expand their agricultural and industrial plant.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

A HAPPY NOTE OR TWO
By J. PAUL HEWITT

They call it a strange phenomenon in the music world . . . this ever-widening spread of interest in classical music. A few years ago, "long-hair" music was reserved for only a few, and records of symphonies, concertos, operas, etc. did not sell. But times have changed. Now the leading manufacturers put out a good precentage of classical, long-playing records.

And the trend toward classical music is regarded as a permanent facet in the music business. The interest has spread to all ages of music lovers.

There's the interesting question of how such a trend came about. One answer lies in the development of modern music . . . for through it classical music has made its way into jazz . . . First from the broadening of harmonic and melodic imagination of jazz musicians through the study of classics, and second from the many borrowed themes from classical composers (mostly the moderns like Ravel and Richard Strauss). In other words, the same rhythms can be found in a symphonic arrangement or a jazz composition. More and more, music through modernism has become a whole . . . with clasaicial and popular parts of the whole. We are finding the same qualities in both, and to like one is to like all music . . . This is as it should be. For classical music is a stimulating part of any music culture.

Along this same line, we see that opera is going to "Pop." Tony Bennett's "Since my Love Has Gone" is borrowed from "La Traviata." "La Boheme" was the theme of Sammy Kaye's "You" . . . Looks like the cornball tunes are on their way out! Learn to love classical music by playing it. No other way will offer you so much enjoyment . . . Now it's easy to own a [illegible] piano in your home for as little as $12.00 monthly. Come in. Let us show you our [illegible] selection of [illegible]. [illegible] Grammont. Phone [illegible]

Mid - Week Services, 7:00 p.m., Wednesday.

Regular services are being held in the Barkdull Faulk School, Jackson Street, until the time when a new church is adequate to hold services. The remains of the buildings recently destroyed by fire are being cleared away and already work has begun on the new building. The foundation is being laid and we have faith that the time will not be long when a new Calvary Church will stand ready.

Words cannot express our appreciation to those churches and individuals who have already so willingly donated to the building fund for our church. In a loss such as we have experienced, this aid gives every member of our church reason to be thankful and grateful.

Returning last Sunday from a two weeks vacation, the pastor will again fill the pulpit this Sunday as God's Word is delivered. Each member is urged to attend and visitors are cordially invited to all services. Attendance has been fine and spirits have been high in our congregation. With God's help, higher goals will be reached in the future.

CLAIBORNE METHODIST CHURCH
Calhoun Road

F. L. Hearne, pastor.
J. O. Fleming, church school supt.

John Ruskin, much interested in art, maintained that no artist or sculpter could do good work if he confined himself to a representation of human achievements. He must represent the work of God: the flowers of the fields and the grass; the leaves of the trees and the fruit of the garden; tiny woodland streams or vast expanse of the ocean. If that be true is it unreasonable to say that in our lives we must imitate the divine? We cannot lift ourselves up by our own bootstraps. We must have a deep sense of God and be sustained by the inspiration of his life within.

Sunday: Church School, 9:45 a.m.
Morning Worship, 10:50 a.m.
Youth Fellowship, 6:30 p.m.
Children's Service 6:45 p.m.

Bible Comment
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

Actually the two Old Testament Books of Kings begin with the death of King David, and the ascendancy of King Solomon; but the beginning of kings in Israel was with the choice of King Saul, when the people demanded of Samuel to give them a king.

The solemn warning by Samuel of what their choice meant, and of what kings would do to them (I Samuel 8:10-18) was amply justified in the history of the kings one to read and ponder, for it was a prophecy of what has happened in the history of kings, and not only the kings of Israel.

In that long history there have been kings and emperors who served their people well—good kings, in personal character and actions, who ruled with justice.

I do not know whether such good sovereigns have been the exception, but certainly history reveals how many, and how disastrous for their people, have been the kings who have exploited, rather than ruled.

But it did not take long for Samuel's prophecy to come true. There were noble aspects of King David's reign, blackened with the virtual murder of Uriah.

Even the glory of Solomon was tarnished with the oppressions apparently countered by the glory and glamour, but which led quickly to rebellion, and the division of the Kingdom immediately following Solomon's death.

Upon Israel, thus rent asunder in two kingdoms, tragedy soon fell. Within a period less than that of the history of America since its discovery by Columbus, the Northern Kingdom, of the Ten Tribes, had gone down in ruinous conquest. The Southern Kingdom of Judah had been conquered by the armies of Babylon, and the people carried to that far country into exile.

When the Jews in Babylon returned from the exile, as the story is told in the Books of Ezra and Nehemiah, it was under religious leaders. They were inspired by all that was best in the religious history and heritage of the Jewish people.

It was, of course, a great sovereign, King Artaxerxes, who had made possible that return of the Jews, and their restoration in their homeland and that is among the gracious acts that here and there stand out with brightness in the dark pages of much misuse of power and misrule by kings.

There is at least little in Scripture or in history to justify the doctrine of the divine right of kings, that once brought about revolution in England, and the death of one king, who sought to enforce his professed divine right.

Morning worship, 11 a.m.
Evening worship, 7:45 p.m.

There will be no service at the Grant revival Sunday night. Come and worship with us.

THE CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST OF LATTER-DAY SAINTS
(Mormon)
Corner Lee and Forrest Avenue

Travis T. Tynes, branch president.
Sunday School, 10 a.m.
Priesthood meeting: 6:15 p.m.
Sacrament meeting: 8:00 p.m.
Missionary training class: 7:30 p.m., Thursday.

Three sets of chapel plans are now in the mail to all members of the church. Everyone is urged to study the three plans closely and to choose the one he prefers. A special meeting is to be called in the very near future, with members being notified by mail, and each one being given the chance to voice his opinion concerning the proposed plans. Following discussion of the plans, a vote will be taken to determine which of the three will be sent to Salt Lake City for approval by the general authorities of the church.

It is believed that in a matter of a few months, we can tear down the old building on our new chapel site, and begin construction on our church. All members are urged to attend this important meeting, and voice their opinions in this most important matter.

When you are in a hurry to chill a canned or bottled beverage and don't want to dilute it with ice cubes, place the beverage in the freezing compartment of your refrigerator.

Bible Words to Live by

ROMANS 8:28 is the verse.

"For we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to His purpose."

For the reason that it affirms a positive philosophy of life, certified by every finding of human reasoning and underwritten by the promises of God, I found this the most difficult verse to accept, but once accepted, I find it the most reassuring, and after 50 years as a trusting Christian, I have never had one reason to doubt it

Regular services are being held in the Barkdull Faulk School, Jackson Street, until the time when a new church is adequate to hold services. The remains of the buildings recently destroyed by fire are being cleared away and already work has begun on the new building. The foundation is being laid and we have faith that the time will not be long when a new Calvary Church will stand ready.

Words cannot express our appreciation to those churches and individuals who have already so willingly donated to the building fund for our church. In a loss such as we have experienced, this aid gives every member of our church reason to be thankful and grateful.

Returning last Sunday from a two weeks vacation, the pastor will again fill the pulpit this Sunday as God's Word is delivered. Each member is urged to attend and visitors are cordially invited to all services. Attendance has been fine and spirits have been high in our congregation. With God's help, higher goals will be reached in the future.

CLAIBORNE METHODIST CHURCH
Calhoun Road

F. L. Hearne, pastor.
J. O. Fleming, church school supt.

John Ruskin, much interested in art, maintained that no artist or sculpter could do good work if he confined himself to a representation of human achievements. He must represent the work of God: the flowers of the fields and the grass; the leaves of the trees and the fruit of the garden; tiny woodland streams or vast expanse of the ocean. If that be true is it unreasonable to say that in our lives we must imitate the divine?

We cannot lift ourselves up by our own bootstraps. We must have a deep sense of God and be sustained by the inspiration of his life within.

Services at our church are:
Sunday: Church School, 9:45 a.m.
Morning Worship, 10:50 a.m.
Youth Fellowship, 6:30 p.m.

THE CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST OF LATTER-DAY SAINTS
(Mormon)
Corner Lee and Forrest Avenue

Travis T. Tynes, branch president.
Sunday School, 10 a.m.
Priesthood meeting: 6:15 p.m.
Sacrament meeting: 8:00 p.m.
Missionary training class: 7:30 p.m., Thursday.

Three sets of chapel plans are now in the mail to all members of the church. Everyone is urged to study the three plans closely and to choose the one he prefers. A special meeting is to be called in the very near future, with members being notified by mail, and each one being given the chance to voice his opinion concerning the proposed plans. Following discussion of the plans, a vote will be taken to determine which of the three will be sent to Salt Lake City for approval by the general authorities of the church.

It is believed that in a matter of a few months, we can tear down the old building on our new chapel site, and begin construction on our church. All members are urged to attend this important meeting, and voice their opinions in this most important matter.

A HAPPY NOTE OR TWO
By J. PAUL HEWITT

They call it a strange phenomenon in the music world . . . this ever-widening spread of interest in classical music. A few years ago, "long-hair" music was reserved for only a few, and records of symphonies, concertos, operas, etc. did not sell. But times have changed. Now the leading manufacturers put out a good precentage of classical, long-playing records.

And the trend toward classical music is regarded as a permanent facet in the music business. The interest has spread to all ages of music lovers.

There's the interesting question of how such a trend came about. One answer lies in the development of modern music . . . for through it classical music has made its way into jazz . . . First from the broadening of harmonic and melodic imagination of jazz musicians through the study of classics, and second from the many borrowed themes from classical composers (mostly the moderns like Ravel and Richard Strauss). In other words, the same rhythms can be found in a symphonic arrangement or a jazz composition. More and more, music through modernism has become a whole . . . with classicial and popular parts of the whole. We are finding the same qualities in both, and to like one is to like all music . . . This is as it should be. For classical music is a stimulating part of any music culture.

Along this same line, we see that opera is going to "Pop." Tony Bennett's "Since my Love Has Gone" is borrowed from "La Traviata." "La Boheme" was the theme of Sammy Kaye's "You" . . . Looks like the cornball tunes are on their way out! Learn to love classical music by playing it. No other way will offer you so much enjoyment . . . Now it's easy to own a beautiful piano in your home for as little as $12.00 monthly. Come in. Let us show you our quality selection at HEWITT, INC. 216 Grammont. Phone: 2-1491.

Bible Comment
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

Actually the two Old Testament Books of Kings begin with the death of King David, and the ascendancy of King Solomon; but the beginning of kings in Israel was with the choice of King Saul, when the people demanded of Samuel to give them a king.

The solemn warning by Samuel of what their choice meant, and of what kings would do to them (I Samuel 8:10-18) was amply justified in the history of the kings one to read and ponder, for it was a prophecy of what has happened in the history of kings, and not only the kings of Israel.

In that long history there have been kings and emperors who served their people well—good kings, in personal character and actions, who ruled with justice.

I do not know whether such good sovereigns have been the exception, but certainly history reveals how many, and how disastrous for their people, have been the kings who have exploited, rather than ruled.

But it did not take long for Samuel's prophecy to come true. There were noble aspects of King David's reign, blackened with the virtual murder of Uriah.

Even the glory of Solomon was tarnished with the oppressions apparently countered by the glory and glamour, but which led quickly to rebellion, and the division of the Kingdom immediately following Solomon's death.

Upon Israel, thus rent asunder in two kingdoms, tragedy soon fell. Within a period less than that of the history of America since its discovery by Columbus, the Northern Kingdom, of the Ten Tribes, had gone down in ruinous conquest. The Southern Kingdom of Judah had been conquered by the armies of Babylon, and the people carried to that far country into exile.

When the Jews in Babylon returned from the exile, as the story is told in the Books of Ezra and Nehemiah, it was under religious leaders. They were inspired by all that was best in the religious history and heritage of the Jewish people.

It was, of course, a great sovereign, King Artaxerxes, who had made possible that return of the Jews, and their restoration in their made possible that return of the Jews, and their restoration in their homeland and that is among the gracious acts that here and there stand out with brightness in the dark pages of much misuse of power and misrule by kings.

There is at least little in Scripture or in history to justify the doctrine of the divine right of kings, that once brought about revolution in England, and the death of one king, who sought to enforce his professed divine right.

When you are in a hurry to chill a canned or bottled beverage and don't want to dilute it with ice cubes, place the beverage in the freezing compartment of your refrigerator.

Bible Words to Live by

ROMANS 8:28 is the verse.

"For we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to His purpose."

For the reason that it affirms a positive philosophy of life, certified by every finding of human reasoning and underwritten by the promises of God. I found this the most difficult verse to accept, but once accepted, I find it the most reassuring, and after 50 years as a trusting Christian, I have never had one reason to doubt it.

FINISH JOB

DISPLAY SIGNS ARE INSTALLED

Construction and installation of $4,500 worth of display signs was completed this week on the Adler Tire Co. building at 201 Grammont St., Saul Adler, owner, announced today. The signs were presented to the local distributor for the U. S. Royal tires, tubes and batteries by the United States Rubber Co. as one of three distributors in Louisiana so designated to receive these valuable and attractive signs.

The signs were installed by the Neon Sign Service Co., 507 No. 6th st., who were selected by the United States Rubber Co. after a thorough check into the resources at their command.

"The advertising layout is one of the most eye - catching it has ever been our pleasure to install," Dave Agnew, owner of the installing company said. "The value of the signs is more than $4,500 which automatically marks it as one of the most elaborate displays of this type ever installed in northeast Louisiana."

The double signs are so arranged that they face both Grammont and South Grand sts., on which corner the Adler Tire Co. has been located since 1940.

It was then that Adler's was designated as a registered factory distributor for U. S. Royal tires, tubes and batteries and during the ensuing 12½ years they have served the motoring public with dependable motorist services. The location, in the heart of the downtown shopping, hotel, business and theatre district, is handy for all to use.

In addition to serving as factory distributor for these U. S. Royal products for Monroe and area, Adler Tire Co. is the only adjusting point for the United States Rubber Co. in northeast Louisiana. This service allows users of U. S. Rubber Co. automobile products to obtain instant and complete service at all times.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

Michigan Is Fun For Mixed Groups

By OSWALD JACOBY and ALFRED SHEINWOLD
Written for NEA Service

What card game can you play with five or six people, if some of them are very inexperienced card players? There are several good round games, and one of the best is Michigan.

Take the ace of spades, King of hearts, queen of diamonds, and jack of clubs out of the deck and put them face up in the middle of the table. Put the rest of that deck away. Each player in the game puts one chip on each of those cards just before each deal. Or, better still, let the deal rotate around the table, and let the dealer put out all the chips just before he deals.

Now take a different (complete) deck, and deal the cards out one at a time as far as they go including one hand for a player who isnt there. For example, if five people play, deal out six hands. Each hand will get eight cards, and the first four players will get a ninth card.

The dealer owns the extra hand. He may put his original hand aside and play the extra hand; and if he does so, he cannot go back to the original hand. If he likes his original hand, he may auction off the extra hand to the highest bidder. Whoever buys it must play the extra hand and give up his original hand.

Now the play begins. The player at the dealers left plays his lowest card in any suit. (Deuce is lowest, and the ace is highest, as in bridge or poker.)

Suppose that first card is the five of hearts. Whoever has the six of hearts puts it down; and then whoever has the seven of hearts puts that down; and so on.

Sooner or later you get up to the ace of hearts; or you are blocked because the next heart is in the extra hand (which nobody is playing). In either case, the player who put down the previous card must start again with the lowest card in a black suit. (When a black suit gets stopped, the switch must be to a red suit.)

There are two ways of winning chips in this game. One way is to play a card that is the same as one of the cards in the middle of the table (ace of spades, king of hearts, and so on). When you play such a card, you take all the chips that are on it.

The other way to win is by playing out all of your cards. When you do so, play ceases, and you collect from each player one chip for each card left in his hand. This will sometimes happen before one of the center cards is reached; and, if so, those chips remain and are added to for the next hand.

There isn't much to the game, as you can see, but its great fun for a mixed group.

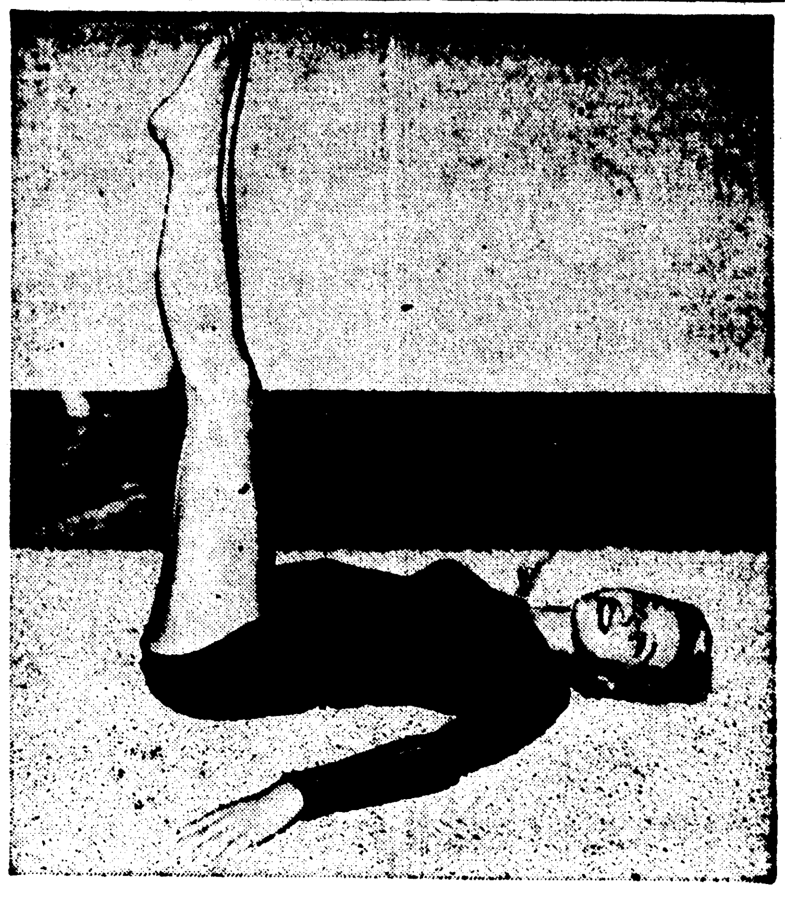
Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman



Though she had excelent results with the Marathom routine, one reader needs this abdominal exercise.

New Figure Is Thrilling, Writes Marathon Winner

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Each year in August I print a few letters from Marathon winners. As most of you know, I offer my Eight-Week Self-Improvement Marathon every January. This has become a regular institution in this column.

I print these letters for two reasons. In the first place it is interesting to the tens of thousands of women who join Marathon each year to know what some of their contemporaries have accomplished. However, the main reason for doing so is because I know how inspiring it is to women to know what others have actually done in the way of improving their appearance and in such a short time.

The following letter came to me recently:

"It's Thrilling"

"Dear Mrs. Lowman:

"I have completed your Eight-Week Self-Improvement Marathon and here are the results:

BEFORE	AFTER
Bust 36 inches	34 inches
Waist 31 inches	28 inches
Hips 41 inches	37¼ inches
Abdomen 37 inches	36 inches
Thigh 23¼ inches	21 inches
Calf 14 inches	13½ inches
Weight 144 pounds	124 pounds

"My abdomen has shown the least improvement. I have three small children and the skin on my abdomen is quite flabby. This will probably take more time. I am gratified with the results. It is certainly thrilling to be able to get into clothes which I had long since given up hope of ever wearing again.

"Thank you for making your Marathon Booklet available to me. It is certainly good for a woman's morale to know that she has an attractive figure."

Women Everywhere

Twenty pounds in eight weeks' time and inches and inches! This is not unusual but a story which is repeated every year by Why Grow Old? readers all over the country. Imagine how much better she must feel and how much prettier she must look.

When women have several children in rather rapid sequence and do not recondition with exercise in between times it does take patience and time to snap those abdominal muscles back into form. I predict that this young woman will soon be happy with this measurement, too.

Firm abdominal muscles not only play an important part in figure but in health. Nature gave us this strong support for our internal organs and weakness there means sagging within and resulting fatigue and backache, crowded lungs and heart, and sometimes constipation.

What other women have done, you can do. If you would like to have my Eight-Week Marathon Booklet in order to get ready for Fall clothes send ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Tomorrow: "Made Husband Happy With Marathon Results."

SUMMERTIME KILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Lightning takes about 300 lives a year, says the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. in warning that summertime is the period of greatest danger.

About one - fourth of all the deaths from lightning occur among persons who seek shelter under or near trees, says Metropolitan statisticians. After striking a tree a bolt may flash sideways or it may run along the ground killing anyone in its path.

Some of the activities lightning victims were engaged in when struck were: lunching in a wooded area, playing baseball in an open field, fishing in boats on open water, working in fields, gathering in the family washing from clothesline attached to trees, standing on a porch or swimming.

BATON ROUGE IN ROLE OF HOST

Will Entertain Field Economic Mobilization Course In October

Baton Rouge will be host to the Field Economic Mobilization Course for selected civilians and reserve officers on Oct. 13-24 for the second straight year.

The course, presented by a team of Army, Navy and Air Force officers from the faculty of the Industrial College of the Armed Forces, Washington, D. C., covers problems confronting the nation in a mobilization of its economy for war; outlines resources and economics of major world powers and areas, and examines methods and procedures for making the best use of its resources in support of the armed forces.

The Field Economic Mobilization course is organized as a two-week program of lectures, seminars and discussion periods, four hours a day for five days each week, according to C. Conrad Manley, general chairman.

Qualified civilians from all parts of Louisiana are eligible to attend the Baton Rouge course, Manley said. They should be executives of business and industry, educators, leaders in labor or religious groups, or other representatives of civic and community life.

Reserve officers of all of the services and officers of the National Guard may apply through their respective military channels for orders to the course as active duty for training.

Civilians chosen to attend the course will receive invitations from Rear Admiral W. McL. Hague, USN, commandant of the Industrial College. An assessment of $10 per civilian conferee and $3 per reserve officer will be made to cover administrative expenses.

Approximately 150 civilians and an equal number of reserve and National Guard officers are expected to attend the course. Begun in January, 1948, in New Orleans, 73 courses have been held in 51 cities of the nation before approximately 16,500 students. It is presented, by two teams of faculty members, in 16 industrial centers of the nation each year.

Besides the Baton Rouge program, other courses are scheduled during 1952-53 in Houston, Wichita, Erie, Pa,; Long Beach, Calif.; Seattle, Akron, Tulsa, San Francisco, Phoenix, Miami, New York City, Philadelphia, Salt Lake City, Knoxville and Duluth.

PAROLE SOUGHT

TOKYO (AP)— The Japanese cabinet has decided to seek parole of 240 Japanese war criminals of World War II who have served at least one-third of their sentences. Foreign Minister Katsuo Okazaki was instructed to seek the consent of Allied powers for their release.

Dorothy Dix

DEAR MISS DIX: A widow of 38, I have been going with Tom for a year. He is a fine man and has been a wonderful help to me in keeping my house in repair and improving it. We have not yet set our wedding date, but he mentions it now and then as being in the not-too-distant future.

My 18-year-old son is a recent high-school graduate of exceptionally high scholastic standing. His teachers have urged me strongly to send him on to college for at least two years.

My problem is that Tom does not approve of the boy going to college. My parents are willing to help with finances, but Tom is so annoyed at the whole idea that he scarcely speaks to me when he comes around. He has actually suggested that if my son goes to college, the wedding is off. I work, too, so under no circumstances would Tom be liable for any of the boy's expenses—and that would be the only legitimate cause I could suggest for his objection. It would be hard to give Tom up as I have grown to care very much for him, and he is a big help to me.

ANSWER: There may be many reasons behind Tom's foolish objections to your son's higher education, but since the question of finance is ruled out, it seems to me that any other reason would be rather childish. Since he undoubtedly did not have the advantage of college training himself, he probably has the attitude that no one else needs it either—a reaction that is lamentably commonplace. He may also feel that further schooling may give the boy a feeling of superiority over his future stepfather. Most likely Tom resents the idea that, with your son continuing on into college, his dependence upon you and his home will be continued for a few more years, thereby cutting into time and attention that Tom would like to monopolise himself.

FIRST DUTY TO CHILD

Whatever your fiance's reasons for his unreasonable reaction, your position is quite clear. Your primary duty is to your child and, since he is a brilliant student who will profit most advantageously from college training, you are obligated to see that he gets it. Part of a parent's responsibility is to educate her children to the best of her ability and, since you have considerable help offered in your son's further schooling, you should most certainly see that the benefits are given him.

If you still have doubts about the financial problem, the school he has in mind (which is certainly a very fine one), may be able to help with a student grant, or scholarship, or by letting the boy work out part of his tuition. Since the college is near you, and the boy already has a part-time job, his expenses certainly won't be too burdensome.

You'll be doing the boy a grave injustice, and one which you will long regret, if you let anything as small as a petty whim interfere with what might easily be a brilliant career.

Perhaps Tom may yet come to see that having a successful stepson will be an asset rather than a liability. If you could manage to have some of the boy's teachers outline the advantages of higher education, Tom may heed their advice where he apparently is set to ignore yours.

Remember, always, that you are primarily responsible for the welfare of your children, and a second marriage must not take precedence over your maternal obligations.

DEAR MISS DIX: In the 30 years I've been married my in-laws have never visited me. While my parents-in-law have been dead for twenty years, the sisters-in-law and I haven't spoken for eight years. Now one of them is seriously ill and I wonder whether I should go to see her now.

ANSWER: The cause of the dissension would be an important factor in your case, but apparently your conscience would be easier if you went to see the lady. In making your decision, judge the past on as charitable a basis as possible and act accordingly.

DEAR MISS DIX: My sister is always flirting with my boy friends. She is older than I and has won several beauty contests. My friends say she is just teasing me, but I don't like that kind of teasing.

FINISH JOB

DISPLAY SIGNS ARE INSTALLED

Construction and installation of $4,500 worth of display signs was completed this week on the Adler Tire Co. building at 201 Grammont St., Saul Adler, owner, announced today. The signs were presented to the local distributor for the U. S. Royal tires, tubes and batteries by the United States Rubber Co. as one of three distributors in Louisiana so designated to receive these valuable and attractive signs.

The signs were installed by the Neon Sign Service Co., 507 No. 6th st., who were selected by the United States Rubber Co. after a thorough check into the resources at their command.

"The advertising layout is one of the most eye - catching it has ever been our pleasure to install," Dave Agnew, owner of the installing company said. "The value of the signs is more than $4,500 which automatically marks it as one of the most elaborate displays of this type ever installed in northeast Louisiana."

The double signs are so arranged that they face both Grammont and South Grand sts., on which corner the Adler Tire Co. has been located since 1940.

It was then that Adler's was designated as a registered factory distributor for U. S. Royal tires, tubes and batteries and during the ensuing 12½ years they have served the motoring public with dependable motorist services. The location, in the heart of the downtown shopping, hotel, business and theatre district, is handy for all to use.

In addition to serving as factory distributor for these U. S. Royal products for Monroe and area, Adler Tire Co. is the only adjusting point for the United States Rubber Co. in northeast Louisiana. This service allows users of U. S. Rubber Co. automobile products to obtain instant and complete service at all times.

Michigan Is Fun For Mixed Groups

By OSWALD JACOBY and ALFRED SHEINWOLD
Written for NEA Service

What card game can you play with five or six people, if some of them are very inexperienced card players? There are several good round games, and one of the best is Michigan.

Take the ace of spades, King of hearts, queen of diamonds, and jack of clubs out of the deck and put them face up in the middle of the table. Put the rest of that deck away. Each player in the game puts one chip on each of those cards just before each deal. Or, better still, let the deal rotate around the table, and let the dealer put out all the chips just before he deals.

Now take a different (complete) deck, and deal the cards out one at a time as far as they go including one hand for a player who isnt there. For example, if five people play, deal out six hands. Each hand will get eight cards, and the first four players will get a ninth card.

The dealer owns the extra hand. He may put his original hand aside and play the extra hand; and if he does so, he cannot go back to the original hand. If he likes his original hand, he may auction off the extra hand to the highest bidder. Whoever buys it must play the extra hand and give up his original hand.

Now the play begins. The player at the dealers left plays his lowest card in any suit. (Deuce is lowest, and the ace is highest, as in bridge or poker.)

Suppose that first card is the five of hearts. Whoever has the six of hearts puts it down; and then whoever has the seven of hearts puts that down; and so on.

Sooner or later you get up to the ace of hearts; or you are blocked because the next heart is in the extra hand (which nobody is playing). In either case, the player who put down the previous card must start again with the lowest card in a black suit. (When a black suit gets stopped, the switch must be to a red suit.)

There are two ways of winning chips in this game. One way is to play a card that is the same as one of the cards in the middle of the table (ace of spades, king of hearts, and so on). When you play such a card, you take all the chips that are on it.

The other way to win is by playing out all of your cards. When you do so, play ceases, and you collect from each player one chip for each card left in his hand. This will sometimes happen before one of the center cards is reached; and, if so, those chips remain and are added to for the next hand.

There isn't much to the game, as you can see, but its great fun for a mixed group.

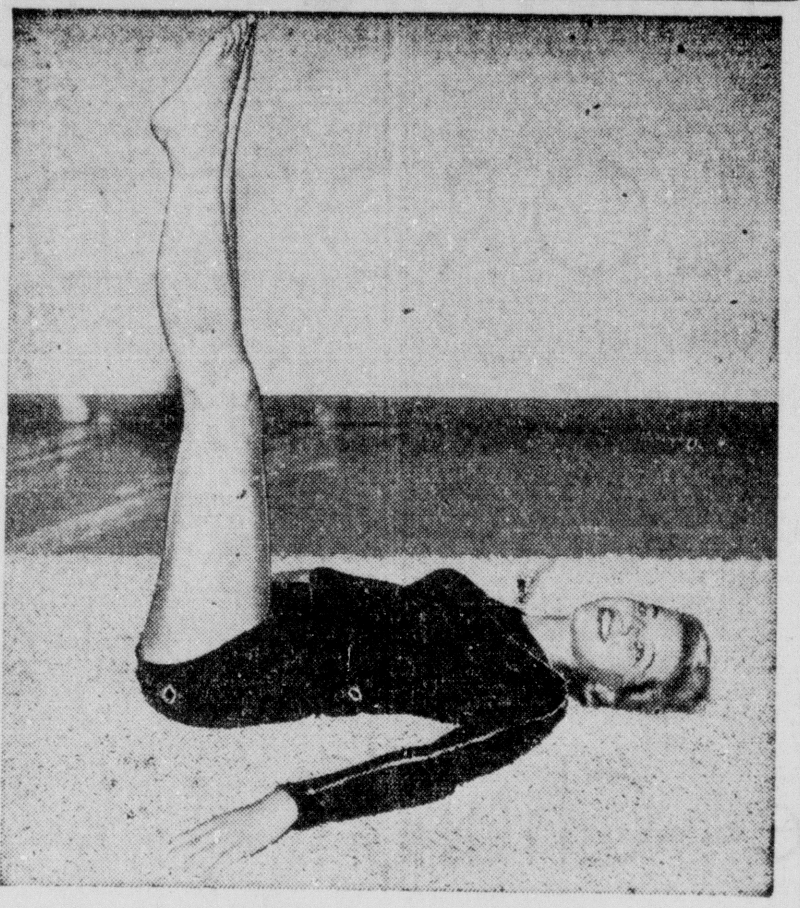
By Josephine Lowman



Though she had excelent results with the Marathom routine, one reader needs this abdominal exercise.

New Figure Is Thrilling, Writes Marathon Winner

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Each year in August I print a few letters from Marathon winners. As most of you know, I offer my Eight-Week Self-Improvement Marathon every January. This has become a regular institution in this column.

I print these letters for two reasons. In the first place it is interesting to the tens of thousands of women who join Marathon each year to know what some of their contemporaries have accomplished. However, the main reason for doing so is because I know how inspiring it is to women to know what others have actually done in the way of improving their appearance and in such a short time.

The following letter came to me recently:

"It's Thrilling"

"Dear Mrs. Lowman:

"I have completed your Eight-Week Self-Improvement Marathon and here are the results:

BEFORE	AFTER
Bust 36 inches	34 inches
Waist 31 inches	28 inches
Hips 41 inches	37¼ inches
Abdomen 37 inches	36 inches
Thigh 23¼ inches	21 inches
Calf 14 inches	13½ inches
Weight 144 pounds	124 pounds

"My abdomen has shown the least improvement. I have three small children and the skin on my abdomen is quite flabby. This will probably take more time. I am gratified with the results. It is certainly thrilling to be able to get into clothes which I had long since given up hope of ever wearing again.

"Thank you for making your Marathon Booklet available to me. It is certainly good for a woman's morale to know that she has an attractive figure."

Women Everywhere

Twenty pounds in eight weeks' time and inches and inches! This is not unusual but a story which is repeated every year by Why Grow Old? readers all over the country. Imagine how much better she must feel and how much prettier she must look.

When women have several children in rather rapid sequence and do not recondition with exercise in between times it does take patience and time to snap those abdominal muscles back into form. I predict that this young woman will soon be happy with this measurement, too.

Firm abdominal muscles not only play an important part in figure but in health. Nature gave us this strong support for our internal organs and weakness there means sagging within and resulting fatigue and backache, crowded lungs and heart, and sometimes constipation.

What other women have done, you can do. If you would like to have my Eight-Week Marathon Booklet in order to get ready for Fall clothes send ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Tomorrow: "Made Husband Happy With Marathon Results."

SUMMERTIME KILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Lightning takes about 300 lives a year, says the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. in warning that summertime is the period of greatest danger.

About one - fourth of all the deaths from lightning occur among persons who seek shelter under or near trees, says Metropolitan statisticians. After striking a tree a bolt may flash sideways or it may run along the ground killing anyone in its path.

Some of the activities lightning victims were engaged in when struck were: lunching in a wooded area, playing baseball in an open field, fishing in boats on open water, working in fields, gathering in the family washing from clothesline attached to trees, standing on a porch or swimming.

BATON ROUGE IN ROLE OF HOST

Will Entertain Field Economic Mobilization Course In October

Baton Rouge will be host to the Field Economic Mobilization Course for selected civilians and reserve officers on Oct. 13-24 for the second straight year.

The course, presented by a team of Army, Navy and Air Force officers from the faculty of the Industrial College of the Armed Forces, Washington, D. C., covers problems confronting the nation in a mobilization of its economy for war; outlines resources and economics of major world powers and areas, and examines methods and procedures for making the best use of its resources in support of the armed forces.

The Field Economic Mobilization course is organized as a two-week program of lectures, seminars and discussion periods, four hours a day for five days each week, according to C. Conrad Manley, general chairman.

Qualified civilians from all parts of Louisiana are eligible to attend the Baton Rouge course, Manley said. They should be executives of business and industry, educators, leaders in labor or religious groups, or other representatives of civic and community life.

Civilians interested in attending the course should contract the Baton Rouge Chamber of Commerce without delay, he added.

Reserve officers of all of the services and officers of the National Guard may apply through their respective military channels for orders to the course as active duty for training.

Civilians chosen to attend the course will receive invitations from Rear Admiral W. McL. Hague, USN, commandant of the Iudustrial College. An assessment of $10 per civilian conferee and $3 per reserve officer will be made to cover administrative expenses.

Approximately 150 civilians and an equal number of reserve and National Guard officers are expected to attend the course. Begun in January, 1948, in New Orleans, 73 courses have been held in 51 cities of the nation before approximately 16,500 students. It is presented, by two teams of faculty members, in 16 industrial centers of the nation each year.

Besides the Baton Rouge program, other courses are scheduled during 1952-53 in Houston, Wichita, Erie, Pa,; Long Beach, Calif.; Seattle, Akron, Tulsa, San Francisco, Phoenix, Miami, New York City, Philadelphia, Salt Lake City, Knoxville and Duluth.

Dorothy Dix

DEAR MISS DIX: A widow of 38, I have been going with Tom for a year. He is a fine man and has been a wonderful help to me in keeping my house in repair and improving it. We have not yet set our wedding date, but he mentions it now and then as being in the not-too-distant future.

My 18-year-old son is a recent high-school graduate of exceptionally high scholastic standing. His teachers have urged me strongly to send him on to college for at least two years. My problem is that Tom does not approve of the boy going to college. My parents are willing to help with finances, but Tom is so annoyed at the whole idea that he scarcely speaks to me when he comes around. He has actually suggested that if my son goes to college, the wedding is off. I work, too, so under no circumstances would Tom be liable for any of the boy's expenses—and that would be the only legitimate cause I could suggest for his objection. It would be hard to give Tom up as I have grown to care very much for him, and he is a big help to me.

S. D.

ANSWER: There may be many reasons behind Tom's foolish objections to your son's higher education, but since the question of finance is ruled out, it seems to me that any other reason would be rather childish. Since he undoubtedly did not have the advantage of college training himself, he probably has the attitude that no one else needs it either—a reaction that is lamentably commonplace. He may also feel that further schooling may give the boy a feeling of superiority over his future stepfather. Most likely Tom resents the idea that, with your son continuing on into college, his dependence upon you and his home will be continued for a few more years, thereby cutting into time and attention that Tom would like to monopolize himself.

FIRST DUTY TO CHILD

Whatever your fiance's reasons for his unreasonable reaction, your position is quite clear. Your primary duty is to your child and, since he is a brilliant student who will profit most advantageously from college training, you are obligated to see that he gets it. Part of a parent's responsibility is to educate her children to the best of her ability and, since you have considerable help offered in your son's further schooling, you should most certainly see that the benefits are given him.

If you still have doubts about the financial problem, the school he has in mind (which is certainly a very fine one), may be able to help with a student grant, or scholarship, or by letting the boy work out part of his tuition. Since the college is near you, and the boy already has a part-time job, his expenses certainly won't be too burdensome.

You'll be doing the boy a grave injustice, and one which you will long regret, if you let anything as small as a petty whim interfere with what might easily be a brilliant career.

Perhaps Tom may yet come to see that having a successful stepson will be an asset rather than a liability. If you could manage to have some of the boy's teachers outline the advantages of higher education, Tom may heed their advice where he apparently is set to ignore yours.

Remember, always, that you are primarily responsible for the welfare of your children, and a second marriage must not take precedence over your maternal obligations.

DEAR MISS DIX: In the 30 years I've been married my in-laws have never visited me. While my parents-in-law have been dead for twenty years, the sisters-in-law and I haven't spoken for eight years. Now one of them is seriously ill and I wonder whether I should go to see her now.

H. P.

ANSWER: The cause of the dissension would be an important factor in your case, but apparently your conscience would be easier if you went to see the lady. In making your decision, judge the past on as charitable a basis as possible and act accordingly.

DEAR MISS DIX: My sister is always flirting with my boy friends. She is older than I and has won several beauty contests. My friends say she is just teasing me, but I don't like that kind of teasing.

LITTLE SISTER

ANSWER: Your sister probably doesn't realize that her conduct is bothering you so much. Speak to her about it, or have your mother do so.

CHRISTIANS IN FAULTY LIVES

Dr. Swor Tells Of Sins Of Omission In Night Revival Service

Taking his text from Luke 14 in which is told how men gave numerous excuses why they could not perform Christian obligations such as the fact that one must give attention to property purchased, that one had just married a wife and kindred reasons, Dr. Chester Swor gave an earnest, vital sermon at the First Baptist Church Friday night.

It was in connection with the youth revival now in progress. He stated that Christ can accept no excuses such as were made.

"Many a professional or business man will argue that while he is a Christian that he is forced to do many things that are not approved by a true Christian. He says to keep up his work in a competitive world these practices are absolutely necessary. If one is placed in a position like this he should either eliminate the wrong practices or quit his business entirely," declared Dr. Swor.

He told to some length how a salesman he knew well admitted that in selling machinery he had to carry liquor in his car to facilitate sales. He was urged to cut out the practice but then he said all his sales would go bad. Ultimately he was persuaded to put the burden on Almighty God and to pray to him to see that he came through with sales and without any liquor being dispensed. He was to report to Dr. Swor at the end of six weeks.

The six weeks ended and no word came but a week or so later, there came a special delivery air mail letter. He wrote he hit the top in sales and had given out no persuasive liquor.

The other salesmen were called in and in a sales meeting, the banner salesman was forced to tell how he did so well. He explained and the manager told him by all means keep up his new policy if it could make good so brilliantly.

Then the speaker resorted to further discusion as to the making of excuses when one has not completely followed the Christian way of life. He referred specially to those who were members of a church elsewhere but when on removal to Monroe had not transferred their membership here.

He cited some cases. One was a couple who admitted they were members in another city. "Why don't you transfer to the church here?" he asked.

"Well we don't know how long we shall live here," the woman explained.

"Do you stop for that when you buy groceries?" he asked." Are you sure you will live long enough to require food?" he ejaculated.

The service ended with an urgent appeal made to young Christian people especially, to live a full Christian life, setting aside those sins that result from omissions and careless living. There were many who indicated their desire and determination to live a more sincere Christian life.

Sunday will be a big day at this church as it will close the revival series.

DEAN MITCHELL ACCORDED HONOR

Retiring Official At Louisiana State Is Given Reception

RUSTON, Aug. 9 (Special)—W. L. Mitchell, retiring this month as dean of men at Louisiana Tech after 24 years in that position was honored recently with a reception in the parlors of Iva Adams hall given by members of his present and past staff.

Receiving the many local and out-of-town guests were Dean and Mrs. Mitchell, President and Mrs. R. L. Ropp, assistant Dean of Men S. X. Lewis and Mrs. Lewis, Assistant Dean of Men Berry Hinton and Mrs. Hinton, Miss Martha Condra, dean of women, and Mrs. Blanche F. Alexander.

During the reception, the current and former members of Dean Mitchell's staff presented him with a lounging chair, a reading lamp, and a thick book containing 127 letters from men who had worked under his supervision during the years he has served the college as dean of men.

Prior to the presentation, Pete Carroll, a summer graduate and monitor in the men's dormitories, explained to the group how the monitors and staff members of former years had been contacted in planning the reception. Dr. Dennis P. Noah, professor of education, then presented the gifts to Dean Mitchell.

Mrs. Mitchell, who had served the college as supervisor of men's dormitories for 16 years, was also presented an automatic electric toaster in recognition for her service and as an expression of appreciation by the staff members.

Dean Mitchell will retire from the college Aug. 31 after having joined the faculty in 1915. He is also retiring as head of the department of mechanical engineering.

Le Fevre Quartet Will Be Presented August 19

The Blackwood Brothers Quartet is bringing to Monroe for their next concert the sensational Statesmen's quartet with Hovie Lister and the LaFevre Quartet with little Troy Lumpkin. The concert will take place Tuesday night August 19th at Legion Memorial Stadium. The program will get under way at 8:00 o'clock and run till midnight.

This will be the first appearance of the famous Le Fevre Quartet with little Troy Lumpkin from Atlanta, Ga. This is one of the oldest singing groups in the south, having been together for the past 17 years. The demand has been so great for them on the east coast that they have been unable to make many personal appearances elsewhere.

At their last appearance here the sensational Statesmen's Quartet thrilled approximately 2,000 people for over an hour in what is concert ever held in Monroe. Hovie Lister manager of the Statesmen's stated that this was one of the best groups to sing to in the south and that the Satesmen had a real said to be the greatest gospel treat in store for this group on the 19th.

The Blackwood Brothers are no strangers here and on each appearance make a host of new friends. This will be the last appearance of the Blackwood Brothers with Dan Huskie singing first tenor here, as Dan plans to leave the Blackwood Brothers and organize a quartet of his own.

Le Fevre Quartet Will Be Presented August 19

The Blackwood Brothers Quartet is bringing to Monroe for their next concert the sensational Statesmen's quartet with Hovie Lister and the LaFevre Quartet with little Troy Lumpkin. The concert will take place Tuesday night August 19th at Legion Memorial Stadium. The program will get under way at 8:00 o'clock and run till midnight.

This will be the first appearance of the famous Le Fevre Quartet with little Troy Lumpkin from Atlanta, Ga. This is one of the oldest singing groups in the south, having been together for the past 17 years. The demand has been so great for them on the east coast that they have been unable to make many personal appearances elsewhere.

At their last appearance here the sensational Statesmen's Quartet thrilled approximately 2,000 people for over an hour in what is concert ever held in Monroe. Hovie Lister manager of the Statesmen's stated that this was one of the best groups to sing to in the south and that the Satesmen had a real said to be the greatest gospel treat in store for this group on the 19th.

The Blackwood Brothers are no strangers here and on each appearance make a host of new friends. This will be the last appearance of the Blackwood Brothers with Dan Huskie singing first tenor here, as Dan plans to leave the Blackwood Brothers and organize a quartet of his own.

NOW WITH WALTER REED'S INC.

C. G. Marechal is now connected with Walter Reed's Refrigeration Co., where he will work in both the appliance and commercial refrigeration departments. He formerly was associated with the Foremost Dairies, Inc., as local manager. He has had a wide experience in handling freezing units and supervised the construction of two frozen food locker plants with a total capacity of 1950 lockers. Marechal said he and his family, who reside at 1306 North Second street, have made a host of friends. Marechal has been active in all civic programs during his stay here.

BRINGING UP FATHER by GEO McMANUS
JIGGS - DO YOU MISS THE GOOD OLD DAYS?
NO - BUT I WISH I HAD WHEN I THINK OF THOSE--
--COLD MORNINGS! YOU HAD TO USE AN ICE PICK TO GET WATER TO WASH WITH AND WALK SIX MILES TO SCHOOL - AND IT WAS COLDER IN THE SCHOOL THAN IT WAS OUT-
-AND UNCLE KUNKLE WOULD ROCK ON THE CAT'S TAIL AT LEAST FIVE TIMES A DAY - AND THE REST OF THE TIME WE'D LISTEN TO HIM SNORE-
AND THE DUGAN KID BRAGGING ABOUT THE SIX RATS HIS DOG CAUGHT - AND ALL IN TH' PARLOR OF HIS HOME - HIS FATHER WAS A COP - BUT NEVER CAUGHT ANYTHING!
EVERYBODY IN TOWN THOUGHT A TIN-CAN FACTORY BLEW UP WHEN MR. AND MRS. CAL LAMMITY CAME DOWN THE STREET - AND THEY GENERALLY WENT HOME IN CLANCY'S CAB!!
AND THE BOARDING HOUSE LADY WOULD GO WILD WHEN SHE'D COME HOME AND FIND THE GAS ON IN THE PARLOR!
NICK KULTAKER WAS WELL NAMED - HE WAS A STREET CAR CONDUCTOR-
-AND IT WAS ODD HE PAID ALL HIS BILLS WITH NICKELS-
AN' YOU NEVER GOT TO SEE THE SHOW WITH THE HATS THE WOMEN WORE - AN' HALF THE TIME YOU COULDN'T HEAR IT - AN' IF IT WAS AN OPERA THE STARS ALL DIED IN THE LAST ACT - WHICH WASN'T SOON ENOUGH!
WHAT ARE YOU FELLERS TALKIN' ABOUT - OLD TIMES? WHAT DO YOU KNOW? NOW - BACK IN MY DAY WHEN I WAS WITH GENERAL GRANT - WE DIDN'T HAVE THE CONVENIENCES YOU HAD--YEH - THOSE WERE THE DAYS!!

TIM TYLER'S LUCK
BY LYMAN YOUNG and TOM MASSEY
STOP IT, SPUD! STOP!
GEE, WE'RE SPEEDING LIKE A ROCKET!
THERE... I PUSHED THE LEVER BACK AND WE'RE SLOWING DOWN! I-I GUESS I PULLED IT TOO HARD!
IT IS JUST AS I THOUGHT... THIS GLOBE IS A SPACE SHIP, AND WE'RE SUSPENDED IN MID-AIR A THOUSAND FEET ABOVE THE LOST CITY!
GOSH, SPUD... MAYBE WE CAN LEARN HOW TO CONTROL IT!
OKAY, TIM... LET'S TRY! I'LL PULL ANOTHER LEVER, BUT EASIER THIS TIME!
W-WE'RE MOVING... I BELIEVE...
WE'RE GOING FORWARD! GIVE IT THE GUN, SPUD!
THIS LEVER MAKES US GO UP AND DOWN! IT'S EASIER THAN DRIVING A CAR!
HOW ABOUT A LITTLE RIDE DOWN TO THE MISSIONARY SETTLEMENT, MR. LUNDY?
NO, SPUD... WE'D BETTER TURN BACK!
GEE - THIS IS TERRIFIC!
WE'RE ALMOST TO THE CITY! DO YOU THINK YOU CAN LAND IT, SPUD?
SURE, BUT I HATE TO GO IN FOR A LANDING NOW... THIS IS TOO MUCH FUN!
I KNOW, SPUD, BUT WE HAVE A LOT OF WORK TO DO!

RELUCTANTLY OBEYING FLAMMA'S COMMAND, THE COMET-MEN ABANDON THEIR PLAN TO HURL FLASH OVERBOARD FROM THE INSULATED SPACE SPHERE. MOVING CLOSE TO FLASH THE GIRL WHISPERS: "I WILL GO TO PYRON AND TRY TO PERSUADE HIM TO SPARE YOU. DO NOT LOSE HEART."
PURSUING HER DEVIOUS SCHEME, THE WILY FLAMMA HASTENS TO PYRON. "YOU MUST LISTEN TO ME, DEAR," SHE SAYS. "THERE IS NOTHING TO BE GAINED BY KILLING THE EARTHMAN. I HAVE ALREADY BEGUN TO WIN HIS CONFIDENCE. SOON I WILL BE ABLE TO DRAW FROM HIM THE INFORMATION YOU NEED ABOUT THE EARTH'S PLANS AND WEAPONS FOR OPPOSING YOUR COMET-POWER."
PYRON FALLS IN WITH FLAMMA'S PLAN, AND BOASTFULLY DISPLAYS TO FLASH THE COSMIC-POWER CONTROLS THAT ARE STEERING THE BLAZING COMET TOWARD A FIERY COLLISION WITH THE EARTH. WHILE PYRON STRUTS, FLASH MAPS HIS STRATEGY. AS THE COMET-MAN TURNS TOWARD THE MACHINERY, FLASH SEES HIS CHANCE!
WHIRLING ON THE UNSUSPECTING GUARD, FLASH SNATCHES HIS FLAME-GUN. BUT THE SCALY LITTLE COMET-MAN STRUGGLES FIERCELY, AND THE FEW SECONDS OF DELAY GIVE PYRON TIME TO WHIRL AROUND AND BRING HIS OWN GUN INTO PLAY.

A HEAVY BEAM OF SHORT-RANGE COSMIC RAYS SPURTS FROM PYRON'S WEAPON AND STRIKES THE EARTHMAN WITH STUNNING IMPACT. AS FLASH FALLS UNCONSCIOUS, THE GUARD LEAPS FORWARD AND DISARMS HIM.
AS FLASH IS DRAGGED AWAY, FLAMMA PROCEEDS WITH HER TREACHEROUS PLAN AIMED AT WRESTING CONTROL OF THE COMET FROM PYRON. REALIZING FLASH'S VALUE AS AN ALLY, SHE PLEADS WITH PYRON TO SPARE HIM. "YOU HAVE NO NEED TO FEAR THE EARTHMAN," SHE SAYS SLYLY. "LET HIM LIVE. HE WILL BE VALUABLE AS A HOSTAGE."
